Year of the Arts, a multifaceted initiative that will bring arts faculty members to mee his month marks the launch of the Year of the Arts, a multifaceted initiative that will bring arts faculty members to meet with groups of alumni and friends around the country. We will host gatherings in art museums and galleries in a variety of cities, and are looking forward to engaging hundreds of alumni and friends in conversations about art, which will be led by our faculty experts. We also look forward to sharing information about Colby-Sawyer's robust arts curriculum.

Please join us at any of the following locations on the dates listed. Additional cities and dates will be added through May 2006.

Joseph Chillo Joins College as Vice President For Enrollment Management and Dean of Admissions

oseph L. "Joe" Chillo joined the college in August 2004 as vice president for enrollment management and dean of admissions. Joe succeeds Wendy Beckemeyer and will lead Colby-Sawyer's Admissions, Operations, Financial Aid and Parent and Family Relations Offices. He will also assist in the continued improvement and implementation of the college's comprehensive enrollment management program, which is aimed at meeting the college's recruitment, retention and tuition revenue goals.

Joe had served as the vice president for enrollment management at Wheelock College (Mass.) since August 1998. Previously, he held admissions and enrollment management positions at St. Thomas Aquinas College in New York.

"I'm pleased to welcome Joe to this vital position within the Colby-Sawyer community," said President Anne Ponder, citing his significant contributions to the fields of enrollment management, student retention and student financial modeling. "Colby-Sawyer's success and vitality attracted many highly qualified candidates for the position, and Joe's accomplishments and interests match the college's needs

Working with the senior staff and President Anne Ponder, Joe will direct the enrollment management division, which plays a critical role in an increasingly competitive market for the recruitment of college students. He and his staff will focus on educating prospective students and their families, who are in the early stages of exploring their college options, about the distinctive char> acteristics of the Colby-Sawyer student experience.

"I'm excited about the opportunity to join Colby-Sawyer because of the dynamic college community, the vitality of the academic programs and the faculty and staff's dedication to creating and supporting a vibrant yet nurturing educational environment for students," Joe stated. "Colby-Sawyer is a wonderful institution with a very bright future."

Joe earned his Bachelor of Arts degree in political science and history at Binghamton University (N.Y.) and his Master of Public Administration degree at Long Island University (N.Y.).

exceedingly well."

rofessor and Chair of the Exercise and Sport Sciences Department Jean Eckrich was selected as chair of the National Association for Sport and Physical Education's (NASPE) Biomechanics Academy. In this position Jean will be responsible for reviewing project proposals for the American Alliance for Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance National Convention and for editing and providing information for the Academy Action annual newsletter.

"This will provide me with the opportunity to work with other biomechanics professors," Jean said, "and to show relationships between what we teach and our research." Biomechanics is the physics of sport. By applying fundamental mechanical knowledge to a diver, for instance, Jean explained that one can determine the best angle at which to dive or the stroke that presents the least resistance for the swimmer.

The Biomechanics Academy provides opportunities for interested professionals to share ideas and knowledge in both research and endeavors related to kinesiology and biomechanics, and it encourages interaction among academy members and other sports medicinerelated organizations. —Jeremiah Chila '04

In Memoriam

David T. McLaughlin, Friend and Trustee

avid T. McLaughlin, a trustee and close friend of the Colby-Sawyer community, died in his sleep at the age of 72 on Wednesday, August 26, 2004, while on a fishing trip in Alaska. Mr. McLaughlin was a respected member of the Colby-Sawyer Board of Trustees and, at the 2003 Commencement ceremony, was awarded an honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degree. He also had strong ties to Dartmouth College, where he served as the president from 1981 to 1987. He graduated from Dartmouth Phi Beta Kappa in 1954 and was awarded the school's highest honor to a graduating senior, the Barrett Cup. He was a member of the college's football team, setting many receiving records that stood for more than two decades. He went on to earn a master's degree in business administration from Dartmouth's Tuck School of Business.

Mr. McLaughlin led a diverse and highly distinguished career that included exemplary military service as an Air Force pilot, authoritative leadership in industry, business and higher education, and extraordinary volunteer service with nonprofit organizations of all sizes and scope. In 1957, after serving for two years as a jet pilot with the U.S. Air Force, he began a 13-year career with Champion International Company. He became president of Toro Company in 1970 and chair in 1977. Mr. McLaughlin became Dartmouth's president in 1981 after previously serving as chair of the college's Board of Trustees. He left the college in 1987 to > become chair of the Aspen Institute, where he was elected president and chief executive officer in 1988. He served in these capacities until 1997, when he received president emeritus status. He was Orion Safety Products' chairman and chief executive officer from 1988 to 2000.

> Mr. McLaughlin served as chair of the American Red Cross from May 2001 until June 2004, skillfully leading the organization through some of the greatest challenges in its history. He served on the boards of and as the non-executive chair of CBS and PartnerRe, and was named one of the 10 outstanding corporate directors in the United States. He held honorary degrees from numerous colleges.

At Colby-Sawyer, Mr. McLaughlin joined the Board of Trustees in 2000, where he served most recently on the Board Organization and Development Committees. His connections to the Dartmouth-Sunapee region were extensive. He was a member of the Friends of the John Hay National Wildlife Refuge, Lake Sunapee Protective Association and the Ausbon Sargent Land Preservation Trust.

"Never reluctant to take on assignments which were complex or especially problematic or delicate, David McLaughlin was a consummate trustee for Colby-Sawyer," said President Anne Ponder. "His business acumen, his international stature and his experience in higher education were put at the service of our college. He was a powerful and influential man in world affairs who was also deeply engaged in helping Colby-Sawyer succeed.

"On September 11th, he talked with our students about historical context and humanitarian responsibilities. In our capital campaign, he partnered with me in seeking support from key individuals. This man was, as Dartmouth President James Wright said, a citizen of the world. All of us who have had an opportunity to work with him will miss him. I am so glad that I had a chance to know him."

Chairman of the Colby-Sawyer Board of Trustees Anne Winton Black '73, '75 described the loss of Mr. McLaughlin as immense. "He was such a wise man whose instincts about people and institutional priorities were always on target," she said. "As he did for all the organizations he held dear, Dave gave of his time selflessly and with the utmost distinction. He will be missed by all who knew him and we extend our deepest sympathy to his beloved wife Judy and family."

NATA Honors ESS Major Liz Reinecker '05

iz Reinecker, a senior exercise and sport sciences (ESS) major in the Athletic Training Program, cut short her summer vacation to return to the New London area and work with the Dartmouth College Football Team. It's her second clinical assignment, one more than is required by the program, but indicative of the nature of this warm and conscientious woman. Liz's achievements both in and outside the classroom were recently recognized by the National Athletic Trainers' Association (NATA), which honored her with a scholarship. She was one of just 30 undergraduate students across the United States to receive the award.

In June, Liz and fellow Liz Reinecker '05 honored. During the meeting, the students had a chance to learn about career opportunities for athletic trainers: to network with other students, researchers and program directors; and to gather as "many free promotions as we could carry," Liz savs.

-continued from preceding page exam during her spring semester, a choice not many students make. Most wait until they've graduated, according to Jean Eckrich, chair and professor of the Exercise and Sport Sciences Department.

Liz will need to squeeze in studies for the exam between her schoolwork, her duties as president of the Exercise and Sport Sciences Majors Club and of the Community Service Club, and her responsibilities with such organizations as Special Olympics of New Hampshire, the Cinderella Project, and New Hampshire Parks and Recreation Department.

With all of this, Liz still says the hardest thing about her final year at Colby-Sawyer will be leaving the Athletic Training Program in May. "The faculty, staff and clinical instructors are involved with helping their students. They all care about you, and not just your academics. I've also got the best classmates on the planet. We're all facing many of the same challenges, so it's been great to have a group to collectively whine and celebrate with during different points of the year," she says. "I don't think there is any other group who learns among friends like those in the Athletic Training Program. Where else can you instant-message a professor with a question, play ultimate Frisbee with the department chair and have a home-cooked meal at the program director's house?" — Cathy DeShano

Alice W. Brown

Three New Members Join Board of Trustees

he Colby-Sawyer College Board of Trustees welcomed three new members this fall, Pamela "Pam" Stanley Bright '61, Alice W. Brown and Joyce Juskalian Kolligian '55.

Pam joins the board as an alumni trustee. She earned an Associate of Arts degree from Colby Junior College in 1961, and went on to earn her Bachelor of Arts degree in sociology and psychology from St. Ambrose University. Pam served as a trustee and a member of the Executive Committee of the Herbert Hoover Presidential Library Association, as well as on the Boards of Trustees of the Bettendorf Community Schools Foundation and the Friendly House in Davenport, Iowa. She and her husband, Stan, established the Horace Clough Stanley Scholarship in her grandfather's memory in 2003.

Alice W. Brown earned a Bachelor of Science degree and a Master of Arts degree from Appalachian State University and a Doctor of Education degree from the University of Kentucky. Since 1993, she has been the president of the Appalachian College Association, a consortium of 35 member colleges. Alice began her career in education as a high school English teacher and girls' basketball coach and became an instructor and administrator at several universities before beginning a long association with the University of Kentucky's Appalachian Center and Kentucky Elderhostel program. A grant at the University of Kentucky evolved into the Appalachian College Association. As the association's president, Alice administers grants and contracts to strengthen the 35 member colleges in areas of faculty development, performing arts, technology and community relations.

Joyce Juskalian Kolligian '55 earned an Associate of Arts degree from Colby Junior College, a Bachelor of Arts degree from Simmons College, and a Master of Business Administration degree from Simmons School of Management. She also received the Rappaport Alumnae Award for Outstanding Achievement from the Simmons School of Management. Joyce has been the executive director of the nationally recognized Simmons School of Management Leadership Conference in Boston since 1998. She also operates a consulting business in marketing and communications, Carlyle Associates, Inc., in Winchester, Mass. Previously, Joyce served Colby-Sawyer College as chair of the Annual Fund (1974 to 1977) and president of the Alumni Association (1978 to 1980). In 1997 she received the Colby-Sawyer College Distinguished Alumni Award. She was an alumni trustee from 1982 to 1985 and a term trustee from 1986 to 1991, and served as chair of the board's Development Committee. She was also an Executive Committee member. In the mid-1980s, Joyce chaired a fund-raising effort called Partners for the Future—The Next 150 Years. She was a member of the Presidential Search Committee that hired Colby-Sawyer's first woman president and she served on the Research Committee on Coeducation.

Colby-Sawyer Trustee Chan Honored by Dartmouth College

olby-Sawyer College Board of Trustees member Lo-Yi Chan received an honorary Doctor of Arts degree at Dartmouth College's 2004 Commencement in June in recognition of his contributions as Dartmouth's master planner over the last two decades. Chan, an architect who specializes in campus planning, was presented with the degree by Dartmouth President James Wright.

At the Commencement ceremony, President Wright said that Chan had insisted that "any new structure (at Dartmouth) be part of a much larger fabric woven over two hundred years. Lo-Yi has also encouraged the application of principles of both preservation and connection," Wright added, "as Dartmouth continues to build a campus that meets the needs of current students and faculty." In closing, the president told Lo-Yi, "For all that you have done to represent and to protect the best of Dartmouth, I am pleased today to confer upon you, in this great setting you have done so much to preserve, the degree of Doctor of Arts."

Lo-Yi is the second member of his family to receive an honorary degree from Dartmouth. His father, Wing-tsit Chan, a professor of Chinese culture and philosophy at Dartmouth, received an honorary doctorate 24 years ago from then Dartmouth President John Kemeny, in recognition of a distinguished academic career.

Lo-Yi earned a Bachelor of Arts degree from Dartmouth College in 1954 and a Master of Science in Architecture degree from Harvard University's Graduate School of Design in 1959. He apprenticed with I.M. Pei and Associates in 1960 and then co-founded the architectural firm Prentice & Chan in 1965. He designed many public buildings, including the Arthur M. Sackler Museum of Art and Archaeology at Beijing University and the Nelson A. Rockefeller Center for the Social Sciences at Dartmouth. While in practice, Lo-Yi also taught architectural design at Harvard, MIT, Cornell and Columbia.

After 30 years of architectural practice, Lo-Yi changed his focus and began working exclusively with schools and colleges, assisting them in the preservation and development of their campuses. His current clients include Colby-Sawyer, Dartmouth and Phillips Academy at Andover.

CSC Fun Fact

Moooooo! In a normal school year, the Colby-Sawyer dining hall dispenses 136,000 eight-ounce servings of milk. That's 34,000 quarts.

Downhill Racers

To commemorate its 50 years of existence, Sports Illustrated featured a different state in each week's issue of their magazine during the past year. For the issue of April 26, 2004, the state in the spotlight was New Hampshire. In the article about the Granite State there was a "Who & Where" section that called out Colby-Sawyer by saying: "Colby-Sawyer College—the New London school has 41 All-American citations in skiing since 1998." Congratulations and thank you to all those downhill racers and their coaches who helped us to be recognized with some well deserved attention for our nationally prominent ski racing program.

National Award Honors Financial Aid Dean

n recognition of 34 years of service in the financial aid field, Colby-Sawyer College Dean of Financial Aid Jolene G. Mitchell has been honored with the creation of a national service award in her name. The Financial Aid Assembly of the College Board's New England Regional Assembly (NERA) has established the Jolene G. Mitchell Service Award, which will be presented to a member of the New England financial aid profession each year who "exemplifies the high standards, commitment, contributions and service exhibited by Jolene G. Mitchell during her distinguished career."

The College Board established the Jolene G. Mitchell Award to mark the 50th anniversary of the founding of its College Scholaship Service. Founded in 1900, the College Board is a not-forprofit membership association which serves more than three million students and their parents through major programs and services in college admissions and financial aid.

Jolene, who retired this fall, has spent the last 10 years at Colby-Sawyer

College and another 24 years at various colleges across the country, guiding students and their families through the important processes of obtaining financial aid for higher education.

Additionally, she has provided leadership and mentoring to colleagues in her field, serving as president of the New Hampshire Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators, as chair of the College Board's Financial Aid Division Advisory Committee, as a member of numerous professional organizations and as a trainer and instructor for junior officers in the field. Jolene also served as a training officer in the financial aid office of the U.S. Department of Education.

The most rewarding part of Jolene's job was helping to demystify financial aid issues for students and families. "I always felt like I'd succeeded when a family said, 'wow, we didn't think it'd be this easy.' My goal was to make families feel that financial aid is not a mysterious or complex process," Jolene says. "But I did stress that if students missed their financial aid deadlines, they'd miss out on the money. And if they didn't go to college their first year (out of high school), the likelihood that they'd attend was greatly diminished."

Although she is enthusiastic about her retirement, Jolene tears up as she contemplates the reality of her departure from Colby-Sawyer and her colleagues in the financial aid field across the country. "I never would have thought I'd be working in financial aid for 30 years," she says, "but it's been a big part of my life. I'm sad to have left, but I'm glad to have touched a lot of lives over the years."

College Financial Facts are Interesting, Informative

olby-Sawyer is a complex institution. We have 1,200-plus people on campus on any given day. This includes almost 300 employees. We have roadways, parking lots, transformers and plenty of lines, including lines for electricity, water and sewer, cable TV, telephone, and computer networks. We have heating, ventilation and air conditioning systems, plumbing systems, two > restaurants, a theater, a sports arena and athletic fields, a fitness center, medical services, safety services and other organizational units and services. Whew!

Of course, all of those people and facilities are expensive to operate and maintain. The total annual budget for the college is currently $34,500,000. Of this amount the students' comprehensive fee (tuition, room and board) covers about 85 percent. This means that all students have their educations subsidized by the fund-raising efforts of college trustees, staff, friends and alumni, as well as by other college programs that provide additional revenue. Without the additional fund raising and revenue, the comprehensive fee would be $5,000 more than it is now ($23,310-tuition only).

The three largest expenses, which comprise 87 percent of our budget, are as follows:

- Salaries, wages and benefits $16,575,000 (51 percent)
- College-provided financial aid -$8,775,000 (27 percent)
- Fixed costs $2,925,000 (9 percent)

Fixed costs include such items as debt service, which represent $992,000. Electricity to run the college is $341,000 per year. Heating fuel is $655,000. In addition, the college uses more than 10 million gallons of water per year and the water/sewer costs are an expense of $136,000. Property tax is $231,000, while property and liability insurance costs

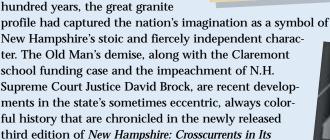

As you can see, it adds up. That's why we are continually grateful to each person who donates to the college, thereby helping us to offer the highest quality education to our students. — David R. Morcom

LITERARY MATTERS

New Hampshire: Crosscurrents in Its Development Updated for the 21st Century hen the Old Man of the Mountain fell from his perch in the Franconia Mountains on May 2, 2003, the story made headlines in the national media. For two hundred years, the great granite Development (University Press of New England 2004).

Coauthors Ann Page Stecker, humanities professor at Colby-Sawyer College, and Nancy Coffey Heffernan weave a compelling narrative in this compact history, in which the state's economy, politics, spirit of independence and abiding love of the land emerge as recurring themes. From its hardscrabble early fishermen and loggers, to its independent colonial towns and governments, thriving tourist industry, and first-in-the nation primary, New Hampshire's character remains stubbornly true to itself over time.

"New Hampshire has a complex and dynamic history," says Ann Page. "In the process of researching its history, we continually found crosscurrents in the stories of conflict, such as in the fights against the oil refinery on Great Bay or the Seabrook Nuclear Plant, and the battles over state funding for education. It's a quirky, utterly fascinating state whose influence and prominence are far greater than its size and population would suggest."

Ann Page and Nancy, both teachers of literature, say they approached the task of researching and writing the book differently than historians would. "We sought to bring the narrative devices of literature to bear on the writing of history," Ann Page explains. "People have talked about its narrative quality and readability, which pleases us."

The first and second editions of New Hampshire: Crosscurrents in Its Development were published in 1986 and 1996. The third edition has been updated for the 21st century and contains a new chapter, a timeline of important events and an updated bibliography.

Ann Page and Nancy also coauthored Sisters of Fortune (1993), chosen by the New York Times Book Review as one of the "Notable Books of the Year." — Kimberly Swick Slover og, the Jeffrey Stories is the latest book by Christopher Brookhouse, husband of Colby-Sawyer President Anne Ponder, and it is a prime example of highly effective, efficient writing. Chris has a style as crisp as a Granny Smith apple at its peak, and he writes with such precision that he manages to deliver more with fewer words than most writers. In this collection. Chris tells us intriguing tales about characters who are equally intriguing, and they are people you will certainly come to care about.

Fog, the Jeffrey Stories by Christopher Brookhouse is a True Delight

Following the tradition of Winesburg, Ohio, these stories create a town, its space, its history, its people, its seasons. There are two seasons in Jeffrey, New Hampshire, winter and getting ready for winter, those few weeks of warm weather when visitors fill the town. Rudy Wheeler rents them accommodations. Rudy is one of the townspeople who appears in several stories.

In "Shot" Rudy pursues an attractive tourist only to find himself naked before the lens of the woman's camera. In "Bones" an Asian woman enters Rudy's life and helps him give a history to the remains of a body uncovered by Rudy's fatherin-law. In "Be You" the woman mysteriously rejoins Rudy in Boston and persuades him to miss his flight to Los Angeles on the tragic morning of September 11.

Among other townspeople one meets are Arlene Givens, charmingly sensual and resolutely independent; Milly, a fitness instructor, who finds the man of her dreams unfit; Nicki, a graduating high school senior, who survives an attacker, flees the town, and returns to trade places with her mother; Whitney Beck, who kissed a fading movie star and is now fading himself; a poet, who is a thief; a wife determined to save her husband's golf game; and the owner of a bookstore who finds herself high above the town on a very stormy night.

The stories in Fog are not only intelligent and sexy (as readers have said) but also elegantly written, stories that consider the varieties of love and affirm the beauty of places we can see around us and geographies we can only imagine.

About Chris's first book, critic Anthony Burgess said, "For heaven's sake, buy it." Good advice for Fog, the Jeffrey Stories.

Chris is the author of five novels and two collections of poetry. Running Out, his first novel, won the Rosenthal Award from the American Academy of Arts and Letters. A Selfish Woman, his fifth, was its publisher's nominee for the National Book Award. Chris is founding editor of Hitchcock Annual. — David R.Morcom Fog, the Jeffrey Stories (284 pages), published April 2004, may be purchased through Enfield Distribution, (888) 216-7611, or through your local bookstore.

Campus Safety Leads and Learns at Officers Academy

olby-Sawyer's Campus Safety officers played active roles as leaders and participants in the 2004 New Hampshire Campus Safety Academy (NHCSA), held last summer at Keene State College. Campus Safety Department Director Pete Berthiaume served as the academy's codirector for his eighth year, while Assistant Director Joe Stearns completed his seventh year as an academy instructor and staff member. Campus Safety Officers Thomas Blinn, Jim Howlett and Tammy Thorpe received instruction as emergency medical technicians (EMT-B) and successfully completed academy training.

All Colby-Sawyer College Campus Safety officers are required to successfully complete the NHCSA, participate in an 80-hour field-training program and receive medical certification as a first responder (48 hours of training) or EMT-B (110 hours of training) within their first year of employment.

While at the academy, officers participate in more than 57 hours of classroom and practical instruction in a residential setting. The curriculum includes a diverse variety of subjects, ranging from image management, patrol procedures and officer safety to aspects of law, cultural diversity, bias-related crimes and fire safety. Officers also receive training in investigation techniques, report writing, the identification and effects of drugs, and the manage-

The breakfast included a welcome from President Anne Ponder and a presentation by Pamela Diamantis, senior vice president and regional director with U.S. Trust Company, N.A.

The Heritage Society was founded in 1992 in recognition of alumni and friends who have included Colby-Sawyer in their estate plans. This year we celebrated the thoughtful philanthropy of our 152 members. If you have included Colby-Sawyer College in your estate plans, please let us know. We would enjoy the opportunity to celebrate your commitment and welcome you to the Heritage Society. ment of sexual assault, domestic violence and other aggressive behaviors.

Since 1986, NHCSA has provided quality training to officers who serve the needs of a variety of educational institutions. Established under the auspices of the New Hampshire Association of Campus Law Enforcement Administrators, the academy has trained approximately 400 campus safety officers from New Hampshire, Maine, Vermont, Connecticut, Massachusetts, New York, Wisconsin and Maryland since its inception. The NHCSA seeks to set professional standards in campus safety for higher education and for the officers who serve within college communities.

This year 19 colleges and universities participated in the academy, including new participants from Princeton University and the Massachusetts College of Art. "We're thrilled about the increased interest in the academy," said Director Berthiaume. "Our unique campus safety curriculum and exceptional instructors have directly contributed to our growing success."

ART MATTERS

Currier Gallery of Art Event

n July, the Currier Gallery of Art in Manchester, N.H., was the site for a wonderful gallery talk and college update over cocktails and hors d'oeuvres. More than 70 alumni, friends and trustees gathered to view a ceramics exhibit that featured Chair of the Fine and Performing Arts Department Jon Keenan. Jon led groups through the exhibit titled "Creations in Clay: Contemporary New England Ceramics," and Vice President and Dean of the Faculty Dr. Judy Muyskens shared a college update with the guests.

"A Conversation"

The President and Two Friends

Edited by David R. Morcom

A plaque with the following inscription greets students, faculty and visitors in the Curtis L. Ivey Science Center:

Curtis L. Ivey Science Center

The Curtis L. Ivey Science Center is named in honor of the Ivey family. Friends of the college, Curtis L. Ivey and Doris W. Ivey, provided the initial gift and the inspiration to many others who helped to make this splendid building possible.

Their motive for generosity began as a gift and tribute memorializing two of their children, Curtis L. "Skeeter" Ivey Jr. and Elizabeth A. "Beth Ann" Ivey Jurgenson, both of whom had died. Curtis and Doris Ivey's pride in the project and their desire to strengthen the college grew as friend and former Chair of the Board of Trustees Charles J. "Chuck" Lawson and President Anne Ponder shared the unfolding potential and success of the college.

As longtime summer residents on Lake Sunapee, Curtis and Doris Ivey determined that making a significant investment in the college would redound to the long-term strength and character of this entire area and substantially elevate the quality of the sciences at Colby-Sawyer College.

September 17, 2004

AP – I'd like to start our conversation by asking how you came to understand how important this building would be to the college and how you decided to do something so wonderful.

CLI - Actually, the college can thank our friend (former Chair of the Board of Trustees) Chuck Lawson for most of this. I had told him I wanted to do something for my son (Curtis L. Ivey Jr.) who had died. One day Chuck said to me, "Curt, why don't you come over to Colby-Sawyer with me; let's look around." We walked around campus and went to the science building. When I saw it I said, "That's not much of a science building, is it?" So, it was at that time that I decided I'd like to do something to improve the science building. We've lived on Lake Sunapee for almost 50 years. During this time we've become familiar with the college and many friends associated with Colby-Sawyer. It gave me food for thought that perhaps we could do something in memory of my son Curtis Jr.

AP - While we were still imagining the building the family also lost your daughter, Beth Ann. We knew it was the desire of the family that this be a gift in memory of the two of your children who have died.

CLI - Yes, that certainly was an important consideration.

DWI - And we were very impressed with the way the college has built the new science center.

CLI - Yes, we never expected something like this.

AP - You know quite a bit about science, Curtis, having been a major in chemistry and biology at Bucknell University. So what was it you expected to see?

CLI - I expected to see a science building about half that size and with half the equipment. I was simply astounded the first time I walked through the building. Everything is absolutely sensational. Magnificent.

AP - Thank you. We worked very hard on the academic priorities and in choosing what we needed to design into the building. If there is a sense of pride, it is that we have used your gift and the gifts of others effectively. We feel we've gotten our money's worth. I don't think there's an element in it that's wasted. As you know, we've designed it for very flexible pedagogy, so that our students now and for generations to come will have the opportunity to study first-rate science here.

CLI - You deserve a lot of credit for bringing the building in on budget and on time.

DWI - I remember asking you, Anne, about that, and you said that the college was being very careful about deciding that everything was exactly as it should be so you wouldn't get started on something and have to tear it out and start over again.

AP - Making changes with an eraser saves money later. We actually planned this building for three years before we broke ground for it, and that planning was very valuable in its success.

CLI - How did you get the ideas for the building? Did they come from other science buildings?

AP - The design of that building was actually a wonderful process. We worked with the faculty in imagining optimal pedagogy. We chose an architect who was already familiar with Colby-Sawyer and New London. Then we brought in additional expert advice in science building construction and equipment. In order to gather ideas we toured some recently constructed science buildings, including the $45 million building at Middlebury College, and we picked up a few pointers, to say the least. As we constructed our science center, we felt it was important that people understand the connection between Colby-Sawyer and Lake Sunapee.

DWI - Knowing that the Lake Sunapee Protective Association (LSPA) was going to have a laboratory in the Curtis L. Ivey Science Center was one of the things that pleased me. There are many people on the lake who are connected to the college and feel it's such a great asset to the community. That reminds me that when Curtis and I first moved to Sunapee, our next door neighbor was a Dr. Dickman Richards. He was going on a trip, and little did we know he was going to receive the Nobel Prize. He and his partners had perfected the catheter that made open heart surgery possible. When he was a young boy coming up from New Jersey to Sunapee, he and his friend would go around the lake and test the water as part of their schooling. That's one of the reasons the LSPA got its start.

AP – And now the LSPA and the college have the water-testing facility in the Ivey Science Center in common. This is quite appropriate since we're all interested in the long-term quality of the lake as an asset of the community. In fact, this year we expect to receive some funding that is going jointly to our Community and Environmental Studies Program and to LSPA. So, with the opening of this building, it gives us the opportunity to strengthen our relations with the people on the lake. Yet another impact the science center has had is that the number of students entering Colby-Sawyer this fall interested in biology as a major has doubled. We require a laboratory science of every single student, and this means that from now on every Colby-Sawyer student will have the experience of at least one course in that building. We think the opportunity to learn in that new building will be a very influential part of our continuing success.

CLI - When we made our donation, my feeling was that it would be an asset to both the college and the community. I feel that the new science center has achieved this and then some.

"A Conversation"

What They're Saying about the Curtis L. Ivey Science Center

In a conversation with President Ponder, Curtis Ivey said, "One thing I noticed as the building was going up was the enthusiasm of your faculty. They really seemed ecstatic." Following are thoughts about the Ivey Science Center that Colby-Sawyer faculty members were eager to share.

"The Ivey Science Center offers exceptional opportunities for learning and teaching. The large, open labs are designed to be flexible so that tables can be moved to suit lectures, discussions, student work in groups and lab exercises. In the halls, there are informal gathering spaces for students. These are equipped with couches and blackboards to encourage discussion. While most classrooms hold the college norm of 25 students, there are also small seminar rooms and the 182-seat Clements Hall to handle a variety of learning and teaching situations. The classrooms, wide hallways, open spaces and comfortable offices will foster greater interactions among students, faculty and staff."

- BEN STEELE, PROFESSOR, CHAIR, NATURAL SCIENCES

"The Ivey Science Center has given the Community and Environmental Studies Program a highly recognizable space on campus. This is a wonderful identity boost for the program. Prospective students will see this on tours, faculty will now be able to more closely collaborate with each other, and students have an excellent space for group and individual projects. The computer lab will give us a truly extraordinary space for teaching and learning with technology. This includes geographic information systems work through the grant we received from the National Science Foundation and a gift from an alumna. It also includes systems thinking work through a grant from the Davis Foundation, and a variety of natural history software packages we have had for a couple of years but could never fully utilize due to space and technology limitations."

> — JOHN CALLEWAERT, ASSISTANT PROFESSOR, SOCIAL SCIENCES AND EDUCATION; DIRECTOR, INSTITUTE FOR COMMUNITY AND ENVIRONMENT

"The Curtis L. Ivey Science Center draws people through an inviting facade into a modern, flowing interior that has already impressed current students and past graduates alike. Many could be overheard expressing their admiration openly as they toured the building during the first week of the semester. The classrooms have a nice feel about them that is at once open and intimate and that takes full advantage of the lovely setting. In particular, the adjoining student research and microscopy areas comprise an excellent teaching resource that cannot help but stimulate and support student-initiated explorations of all kinds."

- BILL THOMAS, ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR, NATURAL SCIENCES

"It was exciting to see the students on the first day of class." They seemed thrilled with the spacious, bright, new classrooms and labs. The benches and lounging areas are already well used by students. The labs on the second floor are united by a common preparation area so equipment and supplies are readily available to a variety of classes, and student workers have a common area. Attached to this prep area is a room for student research. All senior majors are required to do a research project, but this designated space will encourage underclassmen to do research as well."

> - LAVONNE BATALDEN, ASSISTANT PROFESSOR, NATURAL SCIENCES

"The 'magic' I see is the ability for an entire class of our students to work simultaneously on their geographic information systems (GIS) projects. They benefit tremendously by being able to either work along with me in a tutorial-type setting or to work out problems in the company of each other. The real benefit to our students will be their marketability for internships and jobs that come from familiarity with GIS. In the spring semester, we will enhance our GIS offerings to a semester-long course open to students in all majors, in addition to weaving it into the Community and Environmental Studies curriculum. In our third-year project (that is our year long project in concert with a community partner) we incorporate GIS work so that students have hands-on experience using the software in a real-life project for a client. That is work they can bring with them as part of their professional portfolio into an interview with a prospective employer or internship supervisor. We are able to provide this opportunity because of our newly dedicated GIS lab space in the Ivey Science Center."

For Patricia Wells '91, it's all about the children

want to die from love." These words, spoken by Patricia Wells '91, tell only a very little bit about the "malady" that afflicts her. She may, indeed, one day "die from love," but that will happen only if dedication to a cause and overwhelming generosity of spirit don't do her in first. Actually, Patricia is a woman of great strength and focused purpose whose heart of gold has made all the difference in the world to some very lucky children from Ethiopia.

Patricia first came to our attention through a headline in the Valley News, a Lebanon, N.H., newspaper. The headline read "Grantham Birthday Party Will Benefit Ethiopian Orphans." The party was Patricia's 50th birthday celebration and was to be held in a large sports facility as a fundraiser to help save 100 Ethiopian orphans, three of whom had been adopted by Patricia and her husband, Gary Bogue, an analyst with the Environmental Protection Unit for the State of Massachusetts. Already a mother of three children of her own, Patricia explained her extraordinary altruism by saying simply, "I was raised to think about other people. I come from a family that was involved in trying to bring the world into our home."

Patricia's first involvement with Ethiopia began in 1999, when she read about a local woman named Jayne Gallagher who was trying to facilitate the adoption of children from that strife-torn, poverty-stricken country. Patricia attended a meeting at Jayne's home and was intrigued by the possibility of the good that could be done. At the time she had two daughters from her first marriage, Hannah Knowles, now 22, a graduate student at George Washington University, and Julia Knowles, now 18, an undergraduate who is also at George Washington. In addition, Patricia and her husband, Gary, were the parents of Madeleine Wells-Bogue, now 11, and a sixth grader at Grantham (N.H.) Village School. They thought it would be nice to add a little boy to the mix. "We thought we would adopt one other child and have four children," she says with a knowing smile.

In February of 2000, Patricia found herself on the way to Ethiopia with her friend Jayne. As an early childhood educator, Patricia had the experience to assess the children they would see. What she was not prepared for was the extreme poverty in a nation where the people were "accepting, open-hearted and connected to their spiritual nature, but also suffering from not enough food, not enough jobs, not enough education. You spend five minutes in Addis Ababa (the capital) and you get it," she says.

Once there, she met Dearie, who is now eight and goes by the name G.W. This was the little boy who would become her son, and standing beside him was his 12-yearold sister Waini, now called Grace. Grace was very sick; as Patricia explains it with a mother's pain in her voice, "This little girl was almost dead." At that moment, Patricia knew she had to go back and talk with her family.

"I said nothing about adoption to these children because I never make promises to a child that I may not be able to keep," she explains. "I gave them some money because they had not been placed in an orphanage and they were basically on their own. I returned to my family and I said to them, 'We have a choice here.' I really didn't think we had any choice, as I wanted to get Grace out of there even though I didn't know what we were looking at (in terms of Grace's illness). My family said, 'Of course

"Every child deserves

someone who will fight to the death for them.

If everyone here just opened up a little bit,

what a different place

this whole world

Adoption, especially international ones, can be a complicated, frustrating process. Undaunted, Patricia returned to Ethiopia, and, after five weeks of finding her way through a maze of permits, regulations, visas and blizzardlike flurries of paperwork, she returned to the United States with G.W. and Grace. Since the children did not speak English, it was difficult to determine what was wrong with Grace, whose illness worsened through the summer of 2000. "She was losing weight, having night sweats and just not flourishing," Patricia recalls. After some preliminary visits to doctors, Grace and Patricia spent ten days at the Dartmouth-Hitchcock Medical Center (DHMC), where Grace went through a comprehensive battery of tests. It was discovered by one of the older doctors there who had knowledge of the disease that her illness was tuberculosis of the bones and, among other problems it had caused, it was disintegrating the upper vertebrae in her spine. "This was treatable with the right medications," Patricia offers, "so they hit her full force with eight or nine different medications. They did some surgery to remove the ulcers that were growing on her muscles. They were concerned about her spine collapsing, so she had to wear a full body brace."

With this first-rate medical care, Grace began to improve dramatically within a few weeks and, miraculously, she was able to begin school in September of 2000. Today, four years later, she is fully recovered, plays sports, and is a beautiful, strong teenage girl with a shy smile that would melt the coldest heart.

As G.W. and Grace learned English and could better communicate, Patricia learned that they had an older brother who was still in Ethiopia. Once again the Wells-Bogue family decided what needed to be done. It was a year before they were able to bring Wegene, now 18 and known as Jack, to the United States to join his brother and sister. Despite his late start in America, Jack has run fast to catch up, as the following excerpt from the Sunday, May 30, 2004, Valley News attests.

Yesterday at the New Hampshire Class I track championships, nobody beat Jack Wells-Bogue anywhere. He won the 1,600-meter race by two seconds and the 3,200 by 1.6 to lead the Lebanon (High School) boys to their first outdoor title since the year he was born.

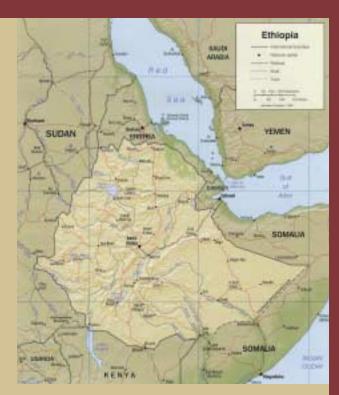

Patricia's birthday fund-raiser brought in $8,000 for the orphanage in Ethiopia, and Patricia herself returned to that country in the summer of 2004. What transpired next will go down in history in the Hearts of Gold Hall of Fame. "I continue to want to do more, and one of the things that happened as a result (of my last trip) is that I fell in love with three more children," Patricia says. Her family once again willingly agreed to the plans, so the process is underway to bring two sisters and their brother to join the Wells-Bogue family. However, the adoption process has become more convoluted and challenging than ever, and Patricia has a bureaucratic struggle on her hands. If she prevails and who would bet against her—the new additions will be two young women Yirgalem (16), Abeba (15) and their brother Merhawi (13).

One of Patricia's most notable characteristics is her complete lack of egotism regarding all the good she has done. In her choice of words, her inflection, her telling of the story, it's all about the children. In addition to showering her extended family with love and a wonderful home, Patricia runs the Turtle Mountain School, which is a child care center for infants, toddlers and preschool children, which also offers after-school programs.

Turtle Mountain is a place where Patricia has welcomed Colby-Sawyer child development majors to complete their practicum requirements. Her own Colby-Sawyer experience is one that Patricia values. It is with great emotion and an obvious catch in her voice that she says she "came to Colby-Sawyer's door as a continuing education student with two children, separated from my husband, and with $250 per month to live on. I said 'I need an education,' and the college gave it to me. They believed in me and I'm very grateful for that.

"Through grants and scholarship money what Colby-Sawyer did for me," Patricia states, "was affirm my capabilities. I've been very fortunate to be well prepared in many ways to run a child care center, to train staff, to work as a faculty mentor, to network with other early childhood professionals, to give back to the early childhood community, and to gain so much from the children and families I meet. When I have all that, it makes sense for me to give back as well."

In summing up the path she has taken, Patricia says, "If Gary and I had not done this, our lives would have been significantly different, significantly paler, significantly less

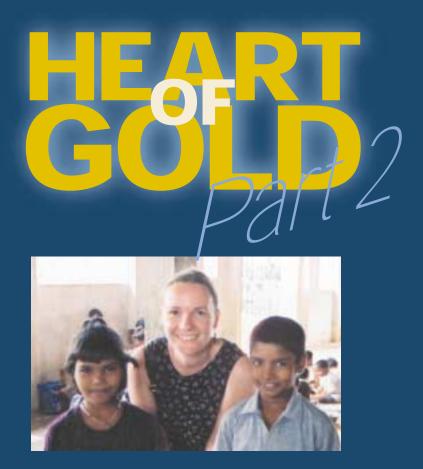

Ethiopia in Peril

Almost twice the size of Texas and located in eastern Africa west of Somalia, Ethiopia is one of the poorest nations in the world. The population of 68 million has suffered through civil and external wars and now includes more than 4 million orphans. These are children deprived of their basic needs and exposed to extreme vulnerability. The people of Ethiopia are in generally poor health as a result of severe drought, malnutrition and infectious diseases—particularly AIDS, which is spreading through the country and adding to the orphan population at an alarming rate. Exacerbating these problems is the extremely limited health care—for example, there is only one obstetrician for each 140,000 expectant mothers. It is predicted that by the year 2010, there will be more than 5 million orphans in Ethiopia.

enriched. What I see is not what we are giving our children, but what they are giving us. I look at my three children (from Ethiopia) and I see how they've flourished, how goal-oriented they are, and how they will achieve what they set out to do because they have the opportunity here—and I see my role as finding things to do that in some small way could just make a difference."

Patricia reflects on her deepest beliefs and her eyes burn with profound conviction as she says, "Every child deserves someone who will fight to the death for them. If everyone here just opened up a little bit, what a different place this whole world would be. After all, isn't that what we're supposed to do?" ■

Carolyn Norris '93: A global volunteer who builds bridges

by David R. Morcom

arolyn Norris '93 enjoys traveling as a hobby, and has taken vacations to Ireland, Italy, England, Germany, Austria and Switzerland. Her job as director of student activities for Boston University has allowed her to visit Jamaica, Iceland and the Dominican Republic as a chaperone for students on substance-free spring breaks. However, if you ask her about her travels, more than likely the first places she will mention will be Romania and India, two countries where she was part of a Global Volunteers team that spent their days teaching and befriending children who are achingly poor, orphaned or both.

Global Volunteers, an organization with ties to the United Nations, sends volunteers to 20 countries around the world and the United States with the philosophy that "we are more in need of bridges than barriers." The programs are not inexpensive, and the fees to the volunteers range from $750 to $2,595, airfare excluded. However, these fees help feed the children and also cover the volunteers' meals, lodging, ground transportation and other project expenses.

This past summer, Carolyn spent three weeks as a volunteer in India where she taught math, science and English while befriending the youngsters of Dazzling Stone Children's Home just outside of Chennai (Madras) in the southern state of Tamil Nadu. A privately owned facility, Dazzling Stone cares for 100 children, ages three to 16. Some of these children were found homeless on the streets of Chennai; others were brought to the home by their families who simply could not afford to care for them.

Carolyn developed friendships with the teachers and staff at the orphanage and was moved by the experience. She was surprised to discover moments of joy and serenity amidst a backdrop of grinding poverty. "I was struck," Carolyn recalls, "by how hopeful and positive the children were despite all the hardships they've faced. The work of the amazing Deva and Joy Dhas (Dazzling Stone founders) is truly inspiring. They don't turn anybody away. If more people undertook such missions, the world would be a better place for children." Housing more than 100 children in a building that—at the time of her visit—was one large room may seem unfathomable to most of us, but Carolyn says the children at Dazzling Stone were among the lucky ones who are in a "really, really good place."

India was Carolyn's second trip with Global Volunteers, but it was her first trip with them that opened her eyes to new possibilities in her life. It was the summer of 2003, and Carolyn, who has a master's degree in clinical mental health counseling and is working on her doctorate in education, was told that her planned volunteer trip to China was cancelled due to the SARS virus. Instead, she found herself on the way to Romania where she and the other 14 members of the Global Volunteers team could choose to work for three weeks at a school in Barlad, about five hours from

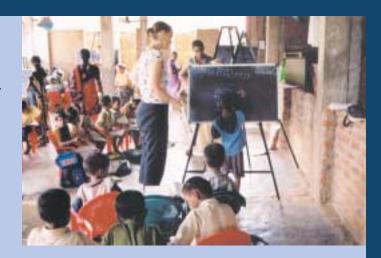

Bucharest, or in Tutova, near Barlad, at a hospital unit for failure-to-thrive babies and toddlers. Carolyn decided to make it a truly memorable "vacation" and opted for both opportunities. She taught conversational English at the middle school in the mornings and early afternoons and then nurtured the struggling babies at the hospital in the mid to late afternoons.

Carolyn found the middle school children had varying degrees of fluency in English and was surprised by some of their thoughts regarding the United States. "One little boy named Alex, who had good English conversational skills, wanted to know if we had a lot of gangsters in America, because he had seen the film 'Donny Brasco'," Carolyn remembers with a smile. "He also wanted to know if everybody was as rich as Bill Gates. I think they had these perceptions from their exposure to American pop culture and movies. They were so eager to learn that, even though this was their summer break, they would be waiting for me in the classroom in the mornings before I got there."

Carolyn's teaching plan for her 20 or so students consisted of conversations in English, playing games like cards, Scrabble and Hangman, and reading books. They also took tours of the town during which the students would tell her in English about the places they were seeing and she, in turn, would buy them ice cream or other food treats.

At the end of her teaching day, Carolyn would jump in a taxi in Barlad and head for the hospital in Tutova, where she would clean, cuddle, feed and generally nurture the babies and toddlers. "It was a clean hospital," Carolyn remembers, "and I don't know what I expected, but the first time I walked into one of the rooms, it was just cribscrib after crib — each with a toddler standing up in it. I don't even know how to describe the feeling. It was just not right. I wanted to scoop them all up and get them to the airport and take them home with me. Once you pick one of them up, they cling to you desperately. They don't want you to put them down."

Carolyn's volunteer work presented a full and challenging schedule, but when she was asked what she did for herself for fun on her Romanian holiday, Carolyn seemed

"It just changes

everything about your life perspective

for the better."

baffled by the question. Fumbling for an answer, she said simply, "I can't even think of anything better. This was fun."

The only part that wasn't fun for Carolyn was coming home. As much as she loves her family and friends, Carolyn had bonded strongly with some of the children she had helped, and she said, "I didn't want to leave. I was completely happy and content. It was perfect, the most incredible thing I've ever done. I know those children needed me for the time I was there, but I think in a way, I needed them too.

"It just changes everything about your life perspective for the better," Carolyn continued. "When I got home I pretty seriously considered leaving my life in the United States and going back there. Only a conversation with my dad about the realities of leaving my job and my schooling stopped me."

Carolyn is positive she will continue to be involved as a volunteer for children's causes, especially in the area of education. Although she is not yet at a point in her life where she is ready for it, Carolyn is equally as positive that one day she will adopt a child who greatly needs to be cared for and loved by someone like her, a woman with a heart of gold.

All-College Reunion

by Gaye LaCasce

HAT'S THE BEST PART OF REUNION WEEKEND? FRIENDS. RENEWING ACQUAINTANCES. ENJOYING THE BEAUTY OF "OUR" CAMPUS. RECONNECTING.

Great food. Touring the campus and New London. Interesting workshops. Meeting students. Spending time with President Ponder. Taking advantage of the facilities. Visiting Lake Sunapee and Mount Kearsarge. "Mixing it up" with other classes. The class reception. Seeing our faculty. The gorgeous weather—a stroke of luck in New London!

If you were on campus between June 4 and June 6, I'm sure one of these answers resonates with you. While many classes had planned special events in addition to the typical Reunion offerings, everyone found more than enough to do to stay busy, engaged, amused and well-fed. From the hilarious hypnosis stage show to the 5K road race, from cocktails at the President's House and The Curb to outings at Peter Christian's Tavern, from hugs to laughter, from wine tasting to children's literature —the weekend truly held something for everyone.

Once again, the All-College Reunion concept proved to be a big hit, as big sisters and little sisters, MTs, and dorm mates, teammates and friends from across the years felt welcomed to the celebration. The presence on campus of the Curtis L. Ivey Science Center, home of the Class of 1954 classroom, was a highlight.

During Reunion, time seems to stand still—or even be reversed—and Colby-Sawyer seems to be an oasis, safe from the problems of the outside world. This year, however, even we weren't immune to the influence of current events. Six o'clock on Saturday evening saw groups of alumni and spouses gathered around every available TV set as Smarty Jones failed in his bid to win the Triple Crown of horse racing. And on a different historical note, that weekend saw the passing of President Ronald Reagan.

The Reunion tent on the quad was the venue for a number of events throughout the sunny weekend, including the Saturday picnic.

Professor Randy Hanson gets an unusual ride from Professor Jean Eckrich during the Reunion Fun Run/Walk on Saturday morning.

Although Smarty Jones's failure was disappointing and President Reagan's passing was mourned, the Reunion attendees still enjoyed the deep and comfortable happiness that comes from sharing good times with good friends. As friends, old and new, bid fond farewells on Sunday, promises were made to stay in touch. If you weren't here on campus for Reunion 2004, know that you were missed. If you were here, thank you for helping to create a truly memorable celebration of all that makes Colby-Sawyer special.

A Life in Itself

by Kimberly Swick Slover

t the Reunion Weekend banquet this year, 98-year-old Louise Sprague Danforth '24 commanded a place of honor at the head table, where she had come to celebrate her 80th Reunion from Colby Academy. Louise smiled as she greeted Colby-Sawyer's president and the many alumni who stopped by her table, where she displayed her old photo album and "line-a-day" diary in which she chronicled her life as an academy student in 1923 and 1924. While she strained to hear the visitors amid the din of the crowded room, Louise reveled in the attention and eagerly shared her stories of days long past.

"My eyes are bad, my ears are bad," Louise told a visitor, breaking into a big grin, "but otherwise I'm doing fine!"

In 1923, Louise Sprague of Concord, N.H., was a fun-loving and athletic 17-year-old girl with long, thick red hair. Following her graduation from Concord High School, she had hoped to study library science at Simmons College in Boston, but she failed the college's required physical examination due to a heart murmur. So, following in the footsteps of her parents, both of whom were Colby Academy graduates, Louise opted for a year of post-graduate school at the academy, where she would take some of her least favorite subjects, ones she'd perhaps avoided at Concord High: chemistry, algebra and geometry.

In those days, few families owned cars, and Louise often traveled to the academy from Concord via the "Peanut" train, which she took north to Potter Place. From there her grandfather, a farmer who lived in nearby Wilmot Flat, picked her up in his horse and buggy and transported her to New London. Colby Academy was then a coeducational secondary school, and Louise and the other girls lived in Colgate Hall, the boys in Colby Hall on the village green. Soon after her arrival, Louise began to keep a diary, in which her brief entries revealed a schedule crammed with classes, labs, studying, sports, sewing and letter-writing, as well as the ups-and-downs of a typical moody teen's social life.

Though a conscientious student with good grades, Louise struggled with chemistry all year, as she often noted in her diary. On Sept. 27, 1923, she wrote, "Chemistry gets my goat!" followed by the Sept. 29, 1923, entry, "Chem was awful. In eve. Tuesday. How I dread it!" Predictably, on Oct. 9, 1923, she moaned, "Had chem. test. I guess I flunked it all right!"

Today she still recalls vividly her dislike of the subject. "I shared the chemistry lab course with a boy named Maurice Shepard. He did all the experiments, and I wrote them up," she says with a laugh. Somehow she rallied later that year, as she earned an "A" in math and a respectable "B" in chemistry.

Louise led a busy social life as well, in which she was involved in drama, the winter carnival committee, field hockey and other activities. Boys could come to visit the girls during evening calling hours, which were held in the Colgate living room and monitored by a chaperone named Mrs. Gray. "I had a boyfriend named Joe Fleming," she remembers, "and we'd sit in a corner and talk about games being played and such things." The school permitted no dancing or card-playing, but promenades were allowed, with supervision. "The dining room would be cleared and we'd promenade to the music," she says, describing an event in which boys lined one side of the room and girls the other. They would then come together in the middle to promenade side by side to music down a central aisle.

Like all students, Louise was required to attend church on Sundays, at least until ill health fortuitously intervened. One Sunday she fainted during an excruciatingly long hymn and a wagon had to be summoned from Shepard's Livery Stable to carry her to a house next door. There they revived her with a shot of whiskey, a memory she relishes. "I didn't want to take it because I had been taught not to drink!" she recalls. "After that I didn't have to go to chapel if I thought I might faint again," she says, breaking once more into her mischievous laughter.

While much has changed on the Colby-Sawyer campus, Louise enjoyed some of the traditions that continue to endure. Horse-drawn wagons brought her and her fellow students up to Mount Kearsarge for Mountain Day festivities, and many students participated in the school's spring play. For fun, students went into town for ice cream and to see films. And Louise, away from home for the first time, developed a newfound sense of independence and confidence at school.

Following her graduation from Colby Academy in 1924, Louise spent a year keeping house for her grandfather while her grandmother, Imogene Smith Emons, joined the first group of women representatives in the New Hampshire Legislature. A year later, Louise and her younger brother went off to the University of New Hampshire (UNH), where Louise majored in French, with a minor in German, and wrote for the campus newspaper. She also served as president of her sorority and met her future husband, H. Raymond Danforth. In her first year at UNH, she recalled her strong feeling for Colby Academy in her diary:

"Honestly, there is no place like Colby Academy. The spirit's wonderful. It just gets one and it holds. It's more than buildings, it's more than an institution, it's a life in itself. It's a life we all must leave, yet in leaving it, we get a stronger grip and take it with us to live again, for we cannot leave it behind."

Her peripatetic married life after college left little time for her own career, yet she raised three children and later served as the class correspondent for both her Colby Academy class of 1924 and for her UNH class of 1929, a position she continues today with her daughter's help.

To accommodate her husband's career goals, Louise and their children moved with him around New England, where he was the superintendent of schools in Epping, N.H., Concord, N.H., Foxboro, Mass., and finally, Nashua, N.H. In 1958, Raymond Danforth became president of New England College, which put Louise into the role of hostess and cook for trustees and other visitors to campus. During his tenure, the college experienced tremendous growth in its student enrollment, faculty and campus facilities. Her husband retired in 1969 and the new college library was later named in his honor. Raymond

Danforth died in 1984, ending what Louise calls a "happy life together."

In recent years, Louise has researched her family's ancestry, dating back to the 1600s in England, and recorded the genealogy in a book for her descendants. In her 80s, she was a member of a "Journey with Me" writing group that published a book of memories written by residents of Heritage Heights in Concord, N.H. Louise contributed tales of her life in all the homes she, her husband and children shared as they moved to different jobs in New Hampshire. Later the organizer of "Journey with Me" gathered a group of UNH graduates, and with the help of a UNH intern, they wrote and published a memoir of their campus life in the 1920s and '30s. Additionally, excerpts from the diary Louise kept as a UNH freshman were included in a book called A Pig in Congreve. She has also self-published a book for her children about her immediate family's history.

For the last seven years, Louise has lived alone in a retirement center in Concord, N.H., where she receives frequent visits from her children, grand-children and other relatives. At her advanced age, she no longer tries to befriend other residents, saying that she fears they will soon move on or die. Yet she continues to write, her way of preserving her own and her family's history.

Today Louise's memory is good and her wit lively, and although she grows frail, she is still as prone to laughter and mischief as the Colby Academy girl of 1924. ■

"You may think of today as the end of a glorious era, but that is true in only one sense. You may also think of today as a kind of anniversary, because the day you graduate you become an alumna or an alumnus, and this day will be celebrated with your classmates and your faculty and staff colleagues for decades to come. The work you have done here has been graded, certified, registered officially and voted on by the faculty and the Board of Trustees. Your work has been thoroughly approved. We are proud of you today and always as a part of Colby-Sawyer."

It was with this sentiment that President Anne Ponder began her remarks, "Celebrating Our Communitas," to the 205 members of the graduating class assembled to participate in Commencement 2004 on Saturday, May 15. The weather was warm and clear, the crowd of family, friends, faculty and staff filled the huge white tent on the front lawn of Colgate Hall to capacity, and the joyousness of accomplishment mixed with the bittersweet of leavetaking seasoned the day with a diversity of emotions.

The college's Distinguished Alumni Award was presented to Suzanne Simons Hammond '66, who was described by Chairman of the Board of Trustees Anne Winton Black '73, '75, as "an extremely bright person whose work is in finance, but whose passion is people. She has focused on the college's need to invest wisely in its most vital assets, including in the faculty, whom she sees as the linchpin to Colby-Sawyer's enduring success."

The Susan Colgate Cleveland Medal for Distinguished Service, the college's highest award, was presented to William "Bill" and Janet "Jan" Wesson. Among their many gestures of support to the college, Bill and Jan established a bequest to endow Colby-Sawyer's Wesson Honors Program, and their permanent support ensures that this academic opportunity will endure for generations of students to come. In honoring the Wessons, President Ponder said, "Bill and Jan are true friends of Colby-Sawyer who contribute not just their time and expertise, but, also most importantly, their profound belief in our ability to transform young lives through a comprehensive liberal arts education."

The Town Award, which is presented to a resident of the New London area who has shown extraordinary involvement in, and made noteworthy contributions to, the college, was awarded to retired Navy Vice Admiral Julien J. LeBourgeois. Julien was instrumental in launching Adventures in Learning, an adult education program sponsored by the college. As chair of the original organizing committee, he helped drive the effort to provide continuing education opportunities to Lake Sunapee region residents. He currently serves on the Adventures in Learning Board of Directors.

The Gown Award is presented to an individual from Colby-Sawyer College whose work and contributions in the New London area are extraordinary, and it was awarded to Jane Graham, who has been a friendly face at the college's Susan Colgate Cleveland Library/Learning Center since 1986. Jane has been active with St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, serving as a member of the vestry and in the choir. She also is a lay Eucharistic minister and a delegate to the state's Episcopal convention. In addition, Jane contributes extensively to theatrical productions in the New London area, having been involved in the arts for more than 60 years. For the past five years, she has also been a volunteer at the New London Hospital.

The Nancy Beyer Opler Award for Excellence in Advising was presented to Assistant Professor LaVonne Batalden, a member of the Natural Sciences Department. One student wrote of LaVonne, "Her wisdom, approachability, non-judgmental attitude and graceful understanding of every individual issue are only some of the many reasons for me to nominate her."

The Jack Jensen Award for Excellence in Teaching, the college's highest teaching award, went to Janice K. Ewing, chair of the Department of Social Sciences and Education as well as coordinator of the college's teacher preparation programs. One colleague said of Janice: "She encourages participation and cooperation in class by allowing students to voice their own opinions, question ideas and work together as a group to come to a conclusion." One of her students described Janice as "an incredible role model who encourages and aids her students in going above and beyond what they ever thought possible." In her keynote speech to the Class of 2004, Janice gave them "A Plethora of Points to Ponder." In an entertaining talk filled with playful poems from children's books and alliteration centered on the letter 'p', Janice proclaimed, "Lead playful, purposeful lives, live up to your potential, participate in your communities, value the people you meet and the places you go, keep your promises and find your passion."

The student speakers were communications studies major Stephanie Hicks and history, society and culture major Marshall Greenleaf who said, "The education we received here has given every graduate the opportunity to become a truly dynamic, motivated and strong person. The beauty and magic of Colby-Sawyer is that the small, intimate environment found on this campus allows for each student to take risks, to make mistakes and to truly be themselves." Stephanie spoke about her love for Colby-Sawyer and the friends she made during her four years living in her "home on the hill." She said, "When I look into the faces of the graduates sitting before me, it puts a smile on my face knowing that I share a memory with almost every single person in this class, a memory I'll never forget. And that is what makes this home of ours so special. We have all spent the last four years truly learning among friends."

SPRING 2004 SPORTS

Women's Lacrosse (4-10)

With nine first-year students on his 16player roster, Paul Stinson had more newcomers than veterans in his initial season as head coach of the Colby-Sawyer College Women's Lacrosse Team. After beginning the 2004 campaign at 0-3, the Chargers won four straight games and went 2-5 in the Commonwealth Coast Conference (CCC), but they fell one victory shy of qualifying for the league playoffs. Stinson's colleagues recognized his work with his exceptionally young squad by choosing him CCC Coach of the Year.

The conference also honored three women on Stinson's team. Becky Schaffer '06 (photo, at right) was named First Team All-CCC, while Ashley Dyer '07 and Megan Geer '05 were Second Team All-CCC selections.

Schaffer led Colby-Sawyer with 36 goals and 43 points, and she scored in all 13 games in which she played. She was also the CCC Player of the Week once and was on three of the league's weekly honor roll listings. Dyer and Geer followed Schaffer in the squad's scoring race with 31 and 30 points, respectively. Dyer scored 12 goals and paced the team with 19 assists. Her name appeared on the conference's weekly honor roll on four occasions. Geer's 26 goals were the Chargers' second greatest amount. She scored four times apiece in consecutive games and was selected to the CCC Honor Roll once. Three other players were acknowledged with postseason accolades. Co-captain Katie Arsenault '05 was Colby-Sawyer's Most Valuable Player, Lauren Walter '07 was the Most Improved Player, and Sarah Cook '05 received Paul Stinson's Coach's Award.

Baseball (15-20)

The 2004 Colby-Sawyer College Baseball Team recorded its second most Commonwealth Coast Conference (CCC) wins in the nine seasons it has been a member of the league. The Chargers went 11-9 in CCC play en route to their sixth winning record within the conference. Jim Broughton, who has served as head coach for all ten of the team's varsity seasons, led his squad to an overall 15-20 record.

Three Chargers received postseason recognition from the CCC. They were Jon Nicholas '05, Justin Litchfield '04 and Joey Magnani '04. Nicholas was named CCC Pitcher of the Year and first team All-CCC while winning six games for the third time in as many seasons as he became the team's all-time victory leader with his 18 wins. He was also honored with the Coach's Award.

Shortstop Justin Litchfield '04 was voted Second Team All-CCC. He was also the Chargers' Most Valuable Player. Joey Magnani '04 was also voted Second Team All-CCC and made his mark on team history by knocking in nine runs against Wentworth Institute of Technology, the highest RBI total ever by a Colby-Sawyer player.

Four other seniors completed noteworthy tenures at Colby-Sawyer. They were Matt Smith '04, Charlie Bazdanes '04, four-year letter winner Jon Clay '04, and Rian McCarthy '04.

Equestrian

In her first full season as head coach of the Colby-Sawyer College Equestrian Team, Pam Payson helped guide the squad to a fourth-place finish out of nine schools in Zone 1, Region 2 of the Intercollegiate Horse Show Association (IHSA). Colby-Sawyer was well represented in the postseason with nine individual qualifiers for the Zone 1, Region 2 Championships. The top two riders in each class at regionals advanced to the Zone 1 Championships and Kate Provencher '05 and Helen Peparo '06 both reached the next round before their seasons finally came to an end one step shy of the IHSA National Championships.

Co-captain Provencher earned a blue ribbon for finishing first in intermediate fences at regionals. One of two recipients of Payson's Coach's Award, along with Meagen Pollard '04, Provencher moved up to the open class this year and was a winner in open fences at the University of New Hampshire Show. Peparo, the lone Charger to qualify for the postseason in two classes, was second in novice fences and sixth in novice flat at the regional championships. Beth McElwee '04 capped off her collegiate career as the team's Most Valuable Rider. The twotime IHSA national qualifier led the Chargers in the region's Cacchione Cup standings by finishing fifth. Megan Neth '06 was a regional qualifier in walk-trot-canter and was the team's Most Improved Rider.

Men's and Women's Track and Field

The Colby-Sawyer College Men's and Women's Outdoor Track and Field Teams each wrapped up their 10th varsity seasons by producing the college's first-ever All-Americans at the 2004 NCAA Division III Championships in Decatur, Ill.

The top eight finishers in each event at the men's NCAA Championships were named All-Americans, and decathlete Scott Macdonald '05 earned this prestigious award by finishing sixth out of 16 competitors with a total of 6,501 points. Macdonald broke his own school record in the decathlon, which entails performing 10 events over two days. Macdonald was Colby-Sawyer's 2004 men's team captain, the Most Valuable Player and the recipient of Peter Steese's Coach's Award. He broke other school records in the 400-meter hurdles (57.06) and pole vault (12'3.5"/3.75m) in his third season and established the Chargers' standard in the high jump (6'4"/1.93m) in 2003.

Brittni Stewart '07 was Colby-Sawyer's first-ever, first-year student to go to the women's NCAA Outdoor Track and Field Championships. She returned as an All-American after coming in sixth of 18 in the javelin throw with a school-record of 142'1" (43.31m). Stewart picked up All-New England and All-ECAC awards in the javelin by coming in first (131'1"/39.96m) at the New England Division III Championships and second

2003-2004 Athletic Awards

The 2003-2004 Colby-Sawyer athletic awards were presented at the Chargers Club Senior Athletic Awards Dinner in May. The recipient of the Chargers Award for Outstanding Female Athlete was Mary Ann Prescott '04 (far left), who was a captain of the women's volleyball squad. The recipient of the Chargers Award for Outstanding Male Athlete was Scott Macdonald '05 (left center), who was the captain of the men's track and field team. Tennis player and top student Kate Rocheford '04 (right center) received the Wynne Jesser McGrew Senior Scholar-Athlete Award given to the graduating female senior who has made significant contributions to both the scholastic and varsity programs of the college. The Senior Scholar-Athlete Award for men went to Justin Litchfield '04 (far right), a standout communications studies major who was the three-year captain of the baseball squad.

(136'6"/41.61m) at the ECAC Division III Championships. She was also the team's Most Valuable Player.

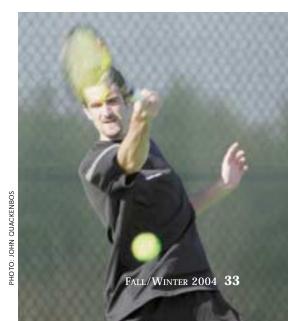

Men's Tennis (12-6)

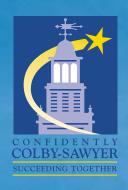

The Colby-Sawyer College Men's Tennis Team continued as one of the top Commonwealth Coast Conference (CCC) programs. The Chargers were 7-1 versus CCC opponents in the regular season and finished as the runners-up at the conference tournament for the second straight year. Rick Ellis completed his fifth year as Colby-Sawyer's head coach and raised his record to 65-32 (.670), including a 31-5 (.861) mark in the CCC.

After leading the team in wins (28) for the third time in as many years, junior co-captain Chris Pugliese '05 (photo, at right) was named CCC Player of the Year and the Chargers' Most Valuable Player. Pugliese claimed his last 13 singles contests en route to a 16-2 record out of the top position and earned First Team All-CCC Singles honors. He became Colby-Sawyer's all-time singles leader in dual matches when he won for the 51st time in the conference final at Salve Regina University. Pugliese will enter his senior season ranked second in the team's record book with 45 doubles wins and 96 total victories. He and Peter Christenson '05 were selected as a First Team All-Commonwealth Coast Conference Doubles tandem in 2004.

Co-captain Chris Adams '04 was the lone senior, and he ended his four-year collegiate career by being named Honorable Mention All-CCC Singles. Adams was also one of two recipients of Ellis's Coach's Award. Danny Munsey '07 shared the Coach's Award and achieved a notable rookie season in which he was named Honorable Mention All-CCC.

efore the late 1990s, Curtis L. Ivey had little connection to the college. Neither he nor his wife, Doris W., attended the college, nor were they parents or grandparents of Colby-Sawyer graduates. After touring the campus with family friends, Joan H. and Charles J. "Chuck" Lawson, a former chair of the Board of Trustees, Curtis began to envision a greater bond with the college. He eventually proposed contributing money toward a new science center.

On Sept. 17, Curtis and Doris, their children and grand-children attended the dedication ceremony for the Curtis L. Ivey Science Center. The two-story, 33,000-square-foot center was named for the Ivey family, in memory of their deceased children, Curtis Ivey Jr. and Elizabeth Ivey Jurgenson.

Reading from a plaque presented to the Iveys at the dedication ceremony, President Anne Ponder said, "Friends of the college, Curtis L. Ivey and Doris W. Ivey, provided the initial gift and the inspiration to many others who helped to make this splendid building possible."

Several hundred people gathered to celebrate the opening of the $6 million building, which houses the Natural Sciences Department and the Community and Environmental Studies (CES) Program. The building features Clements Hall, a 182-seat auditorium; a water-quality laboratory; a geographic information systems (GIS) laboratory; versatile classrooms; student project rooms and faculty and staff offices.

FIDENTLY COLBY-SAWYER: SUCCEEDING TOGETHER

During the event, faculty and students provided demonstrations that examined such things as the spread of water pollution and human breathing capacities. As Anne Baynes Hall '67 toured the building, she was impressed by the beauty of the center and the technology. Anne has long held an interest in sciences and the environment. While a student, she took biology and organic chemistry courses in Reichhold Science Center and has since become a supporter of the CES program.

"It was so impressive to see that students can do experiments in the chemistry lab on the computer rather than having to work with chemicals," she said.

Elizabeth "Libby" Moss Phillips '54, whose classmates donated money for one of the building's classrooms, said she was pleased to have commemorated her 50th Reunion with the gift. "I think the students are really fortunate to be exposed to such a magnificent structure. [The class of '54] wanted to come up with a totally different approach to our reunion, and we wanted to raise money and put it into an appropriate spot.

These rooms seemed like the right choice."

The event was capped with a dedication under a tent on the southeast side of the Curtis L. Ivey Science Center, overlooking Mount Kearsarge. Chairman of the Board of Trustees Anne Winton Black '73, '75 lauded Curtis and Doris for their visionary philanthropy. "It made possible the naming of this magnificent building in memory of two of your children, Curtis Ivey Jr. and Elizabeth Ann Ivey Jurgenson, both of whom passed away in recent years. Their loss is profound. But these lives, and the legacy of the Ivey family, will be celebrated and renewed every day within this splendid structure," Anne said.

As Doris spoke to the crowd of family and friends, emotion filled her voice as she recalled the family's decision to donate money for the science center. "Curtis's favorite subjects were biology and chemistry. He asked me one evening, 'What better memorial to the children we've lost?'" she said. She thanked the many others who generously donated to the science center, including the family's friend, Mark Clements, who recently passed away and for whom the building's auditorium, Clements Hall, was named.

Calling the building "one of the seven wonders" in Colby-Sawyer's history, President Ponder also expressed deep gratitude to the Ivey family. During the 42 years since Reichhold Science Center was built, the sciences have changed tremendously, and the college needed a new building equipped to meet those challenges. "You have turned a personal and family anguish into something that would benefit future generations," President Ponder said. "This building takes a perfect place in our history. The Iveys have figured out a way to help the entire region with a building like this."

Confidently Colby-Sawyer: Succeeding Together Update

he first report showing the capital campaign tallying over $40 million arrived on my desk in early July. What a great day for our office and the college! Reaching this historic mark demonstrates the tremendous commitment our alumni, parents and friends have made to Colby-Sawyer. It also shows that the confidence the Board of Trustees had at the beginning of this campaign, when $40 million seemed an impossibly large goal, was warranted. We now have refocused our efforts on wrapping up the capital campaign optimally by completing the unfunded initiatives, such as the Curtis L. Ivey Science Center and scholarship support, and committing ourselves to moving the Annual Fund toward $2 million annually. Your encouragement and support have made all the difference. Thank you!

The campaign section of the magazine demonstrates, once again, the influence that individual and collective gifts make on the lives of singular students and faculty, and the collective impact of these gifts on the overall educational enterprise. Colby-Sawyer continues its ascent in the higher education community because private resources have been available to influence the quality of the educational experience for our students and faculty.

Over the last five years, the campaign has pumped nearly $22 million dollars into the college for scholarship, faculty development, endowment and capital and current-use projects. An additional $18 million dollars will come in pledges and estate expectancies over the next several years. These gifts have allowed the college to

The campaign is not over, however. The college has decided to extend the campaign period to coincide with the conclusion of the Rooke Challenge, which runs through the end of the year. Gifts and pledges received by Dec. 31, 2004, will be included and recognized in the campaign totals. If you have not joined the Confidently Colby-Sawyer: Succeeding Together campaign, we invite your involvement and support.

ith each click of the mouse, Judy Bohn is giddy as she unearths one more clue to the fictional spread of the Bubonic Plague in an African nation during the 1970s. Judy, a former adjunct professor in the Natural Sciences Department, is experimenting with the new computers and software in room 113, the geographic information systems (GIS) laboratory in the Curtis L. Ivey Science Center. Though Judy's opportunities to work in room 113 are limited to the September 17 reception that opened the building to the community for an afternoon—Colby-Sawyer students will have numerous occasions to use the GIS laboratory.

The Ivey Science Center opened for classes in September 2004, and it is the culmination of more than five years worth of hopes and plans. Those plans paid off in a big way, with the multi-million dollar project bringing to campus the state-ofthe-art GIS laboratory; the 182-seat auditorium, Clements Hall; and flexible laboratory and classroom spaces.

The 33,000-square-foot building houses the Community and Environmental Studies and Biology Programs, as well as faculty in the Natural Sciences Department. At some point during their tenure at Colby-Sawyer, all students will pass through the Ivey Science Center's doors to fulfill a Liberal Education Program science requirement. The building also plays host to an array of classes and activities, such as psychology courses, poetry readings and administrative meetings.

During tours of the building in the fall, President Anne Ponder expressed that the flexible nature of the science center is much of what made the project possible. While science classrooms sit empty in some educational institutions, many of the spaces in the new science center were designed so that a multitude of disciplines could use the space.

The GIS laboratory on the first floor illustrates the farreaching outcomes of the Ivey Science Center. Geographic information systems allow people to map environmental features, such as the amount of open space or designated conservation land in New Hampshire's Upper Valley Region. But GIS is useful beyond environmental research, explains John Callewaert, director of the Institute for Community and Environment.

"There are applications of GIS in almost any discipline," he says. "Health professionals can map the occurrence and — continued, next page oom 108 is situated on the southeast side of the Curtis L. Ivey Science Center. Its windows look out onto Mount Kearsarge. This cozy space has a conference table that can comfortably accommodate a dozen people. The space would be wonderful for holding meetings with administrators, President Ponder points out during a tour of the building. Wonderful, with one caveat: an interior window in the room is a one-way observation mirror.

On the other side of the mirror is a room that allows people to monitor behavior in Room 108, which was designed as a psychology laboratory. The setup is useful for the type of research conducted by Lynn Garrioch, an assistant professor of psychology with a background in eyewitness testimony. When small classes or groups wish to meet in the room without being observed, they'll be able to draw blinds on the observation side of the one-way mirror, making the space unusually versatile.

During Professor Garrioch's first year at Colby-Sawyer, she talked with Vice President Judy Muyskens about a laboratory space for psychology experiments. Professor Garrioch envisioned a multipurpose room in which students could conduct simulated eyewitness interviews and jury deliberations, prepare for classroom teaching by practicing teacher-student interactions or debate challenging social issues. After several months, the idea was approved and she eventually met with an architect to describe her goals and ideas for the room.

"I'm thrilled with the space," Professor Garrioch says of the completed lab setting. "First-year students to seniors will have the opportunity to creatively apply their psychological knowledge from the classroom in our new laboratory. It will also accommodate faculty researchers who require its specialized features."

Professor Garrioch is now applying for grant money to equip the psychology laboratory with audio and video technology. She feels the equipment will ensure that instruction and research in the laboratory is confidential and controlled. She also feels the laboratory will go a long way toward providing problem-based learning experiences to cultivate college graduates who are creative and who demonstrate critical and analytical thinking.

spread of disease in a community. Businesses can use it to examine opportunities for expansion based on the location of their competitors. Sociologists and community planners can use it to study factors such as population, housing stock and crime."

Nestled in a corner near the main entrance to the building, the GIS laboratory is equipped with about two dozen computers. Money for the laboratory came, in part, from an $82,000 grant from the National Science Foundation. The laboratory is a big boost from the corner room in Danforth Hall where students formerly did their GIS work. "Last year we had 12 students working on four computers. I think we'll now see a lot of positive growth and expansion in what the students will be able to do," Professor Callewaert says.

Already, CES students and faculty are putting the room to good use. This year students are working with the Ausbon Sargent Land Preservation Trust (ASLPT) to identify conservation priorities for the Kearsarge/Lake Sunapee Region. Students will use GIS to analyze a variety of conservation variables and to develop recommendations. "Very few college students have at their fingertips a GIS laboratory like Colby-Sawyer's," Professor Callewaert says. "Because of their GIS skills, Colby-Sawyer students are in a position to do very well in the job market."

The GIS laboratory is just one of many spaces in the Ivey Science Center that offers unique opportunities to Colby-Sawyer students. Down a hall and around the corner from the GIS room, students test samples taken from the Lake Sunapee Watershed. The laboratory was set up as a collaboration between the Lake Sunapee Protective Association (LSPA) and Colby-Sawyer that pre-dates the Ivey Science Center, but the new space will be vital to the program's continued success.

Room 102 is a working laboratory. Water samples from nearby lakes, ponds and rivers are tested and then sent to the New Hampshire Department of Environmental Services, which assesses water quality. "It's a great experience for students who filter through this laboratory, and a good way to find interns for the LSPA," says Bonnie Lewis, the laboratory manager and an adjunct professor who also works part-time for the LSPA.

Senior Matt Cummings, a CES major, was one of the students who worked with Professor Lewis in the classroom and then became an intern with LSPA. With just a few weeks of experience in the Ivey Science Center water-quality laboratory, Matt says it's difficult to know just how much the new building will affect learning, but he's pleased with his new quarters. Senior Jenni Beaulieu, also a CES major, said the building's laboratory spaces and new computer learning tools offer students important skills when applying for jobs in the sciences. "The building goes above and beyond when representing the science programs," she said.

Throughout the building, faculty and students are eager to unlock the potential of the Ivey Science Center and the software and instruments new to the sciences. A Davis Foundation grant allowed the Natural Sciences Department to purchase Vernier probes, which can measure aspects of a person's breathing capacity or the amount of dissolved oxygen in a lake. The probes will be extremely useful in both the classroom and the field because they can be plugged into computers or graphing calculators, explains LaVonne Batalden, an assistant professor in the department. Semra Kilic-Bahi, also an assistant professor of natural sciences, says she's eager to explore how the probes will be useful in mathematics classes.

The new building may already have piqued students' interest in the sciences. "New student enrollment in the Biology Program is double that of last year, and that may reflect the new building and the college's commitment to science that the building represents," says Ben Steele, chair of the Natural Sciences Department. "The classrooms, wide hallways, open spaces and comfortable offices should foster greater interactions among students, faculty and staff." ■

College Dedicates Lethbridge Lodge

by Kimberly Swick Slover

he lodge's beams have a long and storied history. They've lent support to four different buildings in four locations in New London, including the town's first meeting house, a Colby Academy dormitory, a student athletic lodge on Little Lake Sunapee, and today, a community gathering place on the Colby-Sawyer College campus. Now this historic and beloved building has a new name. On May 13, 2004, the college dedicated Lethbridge Lodge in honor of longtime friend and former trustee, George M. "Bud" Lethbridge Jr. College community members and friends and family from near and far packed into the lodge's great room, framed by the New London meeting house's original hand-hewn beams, to take part in the celebration.

"For well over 200 years, parts of this building have served our community," said Board of Trustees Chairman Anne Winton Black '73, '75 in her opening remarks. "Its purpose grew from meeting the needs of a town, to serving the needs of Colby-Sawyer College, but most especially, its students. Today we celebrate not just the legacy of a building, but the even greater legacy of a philanthropist and his family. We celebrate now and for generations to come a man who chose to share not only his greatest philanthropy with the college he loved so well, but who also inspires many of us to heed his life's lessons: Be prudent, invest wisely, love deeply, laugh often and give of yourself without reservation."

As was noted by Trustee Peter Danforth P'83, '84, GP'02 in his remarks at the dedication, Bud's connections to the college extend back 50 years, through the terms of Presidents H. Leslie Sawyer, Eugene M. Austin, Everett M. Woodman, Louis C. Vaccaro, H. Nicholas Muller III, Peggy A. Stock and now Anne Ponder. Bud became associated with the college through his first wife, the late Helen Thomas "Tommie" Lethbridge '48, whom Peter called the "consummate cheerleader for Colby Junior College." In highlighting Bud's 50 years of service to Colby-Sawyer, Peter noted that Bud's acumen and experience in finance have paid enormous dividends for the college. By adopting what have become known as the Lethbridge Laws (balance the budget, grow the endowment, control financial aid), established while Bud was chairman of the Board of Trustees Finance Committee, the college has strengthened its financial outlook.

"Whether through philanthropy, endless hours helping formulate critical institutional strategies, or drawing upon his decades of corporate financing and budgeting experience, Bud has always been there for this place," Peter explained. "He has left his mark of work, wealth and wisdom everywhere, and it is perfectly fitting that this lodge bear his name."

Others who spoke during the ceremony included Trustee Susan Morrison Mayer '50, 'P75, who read a poem in Bud's honor; Bud's wife, Judith McLouth Lethbridge; and President Anne Ponder.

Bud Lethbridge, always gracious and full of fun, responded to the hoopla with characteristic humor. "What you have done here today in marrying the name Lethbridge to the > lodge is to join together for posterity and purpose two old relics who have in one way or another associated with and worked on behalf of this wonderful college for decades and decades and decades. Please know that both this lovely old building and I are very appreciative for, respectful of and deeply humbled by this great honor." He also couldn't resist giving his former colleagues on the Board of Trustees one more reminder. "As an old broken-

Lethbridge Lodge is named this day in honor of a person whose generosity and service to the college span more than half a century, George M. "Bud" Lethbridge Jr. This graduate of Princeton University noted that, "unlike gifts to larger, wealthier institutions every gift to Colby-Sawyer College makes a discernable difference and fills a specific need." His financial acumen and his tireless work for Colby-Sawyer College have been instrumental in its continuing growth, quality, success and vitality.

Lethbridge Lodge, erected on this site in 1998, is the fourth iteration of this building. Beams from this building date from the first New London Meeting House and have served the college as Colby Hall, from 1875 to 1934, and then from 1934 to 1996 as the Colby Lodge on the shores of Little Lake Sunapee.

George M. "Bud" Lethbridge Jr., in whose honor this building is named, joined his efforts to those of the college when he married his first wife, Helen Thomas "Tommie" Lethbridge. From the time that she graduated from Colby Junior College in 1948 and for the rest of her life, Tommie was an active and dedicated supporter of the college. Her inspiration coupled with Bud's own generosity and involvement influenced generations of alumni and trustees who recall her as the first and most persuasive person in engaging them in serving her college. Bud says he learned from her that no matter how much time, talent and treasure one devotes to this college, she always felt she received much more from the college than she gave to it. Both she, in 1984, and he, in 1999, received the college's highest honor, the Susan Colgate Cleveland Medal for Distinguished Service.

After Tommie passed away, Bud remarried. His second wife, Judith (McLouth) Lethbridge, encouraged him to become a trustee of Colby-Sawyer, joined him in his enthusiasm for the college, and encouraged him to continue and expand his service and support to the college. The Lethbridge legacy, apparent in the growth of our endowment and in the qualitative advances the college has made in recent decades, is nowhere more visible than in this historic structure, dedicated to the use of students and alumni for decades to come.

or many students, Colby-Sawyer provides the kind of close-knit and nurturing community in which they grow prodigiously and gain a newfound sense of confidence and purpose over the course of their college careers. For Suzanne

Blake Gerety '99, a self-confessed "driven" personality and "perfectionist," the Colby-Sawyer environment enabled a high achiever to become a part of the campus community and thrive from

Suzanne took on a double major in psychology and child development, joined the Student Government Association (SGA), and became a tour guide for admissions and a tutor for James House (now the Academic Development Center). She was elected class president in her sophomore through her senior years and served as cochair of the SGA for two years. At her commencement, Suzanne graduated summa cum laude with a sense not only that she had been an active participant in her education, but also that her friendships with students, faculty and staff would endure well beyond her college years.

"My years at Colby-Sawyer were truly special. I received a first-class education, made great friends, had real access to my professors and a lot of support," she explains.

After graduation, Suzanne's decision to serve as class cocorrespondent eased the transition from student to alumna. The volunteer position allows her to receive steady streams of news from her classmates and stay engaged in college life, and it helps keep her classmates connected. Suzanne also cochaired the class of 1999's fifth reunion last summer, which gave her plenty of chances to rekindle relationships with old friends and see the growth and change on campus.

> Following a year as a special education teacher and another year as a recruiter for the high-tech software industry, Suzanne joined Gerety Presentations, the firm founded by her future husband, Ed Gerety, in 2001. She now leads the Exeter, N.H.-based company's marketing and business operations and often travels with Ed as he makes presentations at middle schools, high schools and colleges. In December, the couple is expecting their first child.

> Since her graduation, Suzanne has contributed each year to the Annual Fund, her way of supporting the college's growth and financial aid for current students. This year Suzanne and her husband increased their contribution to ensure that the college received matching funds from the Rooke Challenge.

"Alums contribute in many different ways, and I feel grateful and inspired by the opportunity to give back. Financial aid made a big difference in my education," she says. "This is an opportunity to contribute so that students can have the same chance to attend the college that I had. I really had an awesome experience at Colby-Sawyer and have such fond memories of my time there. I still feel very connected, and for that I'm thankful." ■

Local Friends Making a Difference

Many local friends have become partners with Colby-Sawyer and choose to support this learning community by sharing their expertise and their resources. New London friends David and Janie Webster are two community members who are making a difference for Colby-Sawyer students.

To support the Confidently Colby-Sawyer: Succeeding Together campaign, the Websters have established the Colby-Sawyer College Community Agency Service Fund. Their thoughtful investment is designed to provide scholarship support to students who are engaged in community-based internships or projects.

Funds like that of the Websters are open for additional support. If you would like information about adding to an existing endowed fund or establishing a new fund, please contact Director of Development Beth Cahill at (603) 526-3729 or ecahill@colby-sawyer.edu.

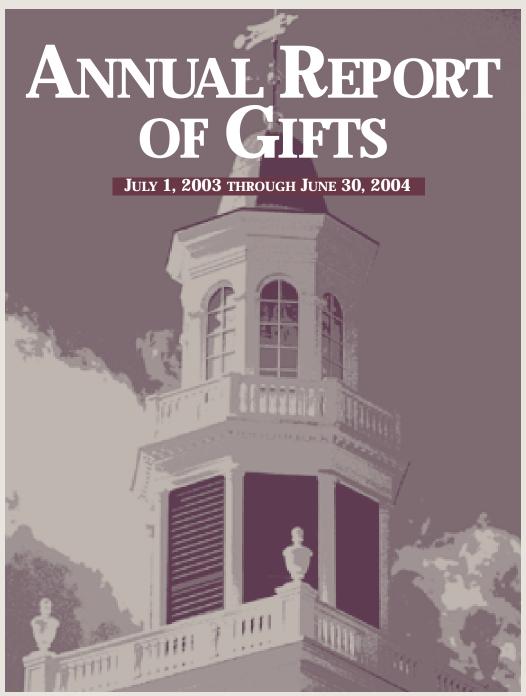

Take a Seat! The opening of the Curtis L. Ivey Science Center this fall marks the first addition of a new academic building for Colby-Sawyer in 40 years. The building is a spectacular addition to campus and is already a hub of activity for students and faculty members.

We are pleased to offer you an opportunity to name a chair in Clements Hall in the Ivey Science Center and to have you join the many who have already become partners in supporting the Ivey Science Center. A gift of $1,000 will provide you with the opportunity to have a chair in the Clements Hall named in honor or memory of whomever you choose. Recognition plaques will be permanently affixed to each chair.

This opportunity is limited to the number of chairs in the auditorium, and will be available to the first 180 donors. To secure your chair, please contact Director of Development Beth Cahill at (603) 526-3729 or ecahill@colby-sawyer.edu.

A MESSAGE FROM DONALD A. HASSELTINE, Vice President for Advancement

Dear Friends.

I was re-reading The Little Prince this summer and took time to reflect on its profound message of how love makes the ordinary special. Over the years, your caring and support have transformed Colby-Sawyer into an extraordinary college. In fact, our programs, facilities and the quality of our students' educational experience have never been better. The individuals, families and organizations listed in the Annual Report of Donors are playing a remarkable role in Colby-Sawyer's success, and we are grateful to each and every one.

In this report, donors are listed among many categories of giving, which recognize their capital, endowed, Annual Fund and deferred gifts. Most of you have chosen to make your gift through the Annual Fund, the most immediate way to invest in the college's current operations. The Annual Fund fuels our academic enterprise with funding for scholarships, campus maintenance and improvements, faculty development, student programs and information systems, to name just a few areas. As the college transitions out of the capital campaign, the Board of Trustees and the president have designated the Annual Fund as the most important way each of us can contribute to the college's well-being in the years ahead.

Deferred gifts are those the college receives after a donor's death. Bequests, gift annuities and charitable remainder trusts (CRTs) are some common ways people make deferred gifts, which they can designate for their program of choice. This past year Colby-Sawyer College received 15 new deferred gifts for $3,347,215. Capital gifts, used primarily for construction or renovation projects, receive a good deal of attention because they often lead to visible improvements on campus. Endowment gifts, on the other hand, create a permanent income stream to the college. Endowment gifts can also be restricted for just about any purpose, such as for the Annual Fund, scholarships or deferred maintenance. We were fortunate in the past year to receive 94 capital gifts totaling more than $1,684,263, and 61 endowment gifts totaling $395,611. All gifts, regardless of size or kind, contribute to the college's success now and in the future.

I'd like to recognize two special groups of donors for their gifts this past year. First, thank you to the class of 1954 for your tremendous support of the Annual Fund, as well as for your contributions to the Curtis L. Ivey Science Center, where a classroom has been dedicated in your honor. Secondly, I'd like to express our deep appreciation to all of you who have met the Rooke Challenge, which continues through December 31, 2004. Many donors actually increased their support to ensure that the college would benefit from the Rooke Challenge's matching funds! Our Reunion Giving Program and other special giving opportunities such as the Rooke Challenge enable alumni and friends to make a substantial difference to the college.

On behalf of the administration, faculty, staff and students of Colby-Sawyer, I thank you for your contributions. We are deeply grateful to all of you who view Colby-Sawyer as one of those special places worthy of your love and support.

In appreciation,

Donald A. Hasseltine, Ed.D.

Vice President for Advancement

ANNUAL GIVING REACHES RECORD LEVEL

The Annual Fund reached an all-time high of $1,230,000 this past fiscal year, thanks to the Rooke Challenge, a small group of volunteers and the broad participation of 3,735 alumni, parents and friends. Thank you for your generosity and for recognizing the value of such marvelous annual support. The Annual Fund is of great importance in helping Colby-Sawyer address immediate priorities and creates many new opportunities for students on campus today.

Although fewer alumni participated in the Annual Fund this year than the previous year, we achieved a 10 percent increase in dollars. Leadership gifts of $1,000 or more accounted for nearly 60 percent of the total dollars raised. Several thousand smaller gifts, added together, represented more than 40 percent of the total dollars raised. It is important to bear in mind that Annual Fund gifts of all sizes make a distinct and positive difference in the life of the college. It is the collective influence of all gifts, large and small, that makes such a difference to the college.

Ensuring the college's financial vitality through more effective fund raising is one of the goals of the college's strategic plan, and the Annual Fund has emerged as the college's highest fund-raising priority. Since the college has a relatively small endowment, the Annual Fund represents our key competitive advantage and helps to bridge the gap between the comprehensive fee and the college's expenditures for each student. In addition to scholarships, Annual Fund gifts support academic programs, advances in technology, facility enhancement, library acquisitions, student programs and athletics.

In recent years, Colby-Sawyer College has strengthened its position within the higher education community by striving for excellence and cohesion in its academic and cocurricular programs. Annual Fund gifts inspire the faculty, staff and students to do their best work. We hope you will find a way to inspire us again this year!

THE LEGENDS SOCIETY

Colby-Sawyer College honors our Legends, individuals and families who have contributed over $1 million to the college. These special friends have provided support to enhance the quality of our academic programs, to optimize the setting for learning and to provide endowment to build the financial strength of the college. We are privileged to recognize these friends and to salute their extraordinary generosity.

CLASS AGENTS 2003-2004

Mrs. Barbara Melendy Parker

Class agents are an indispensable link between the college and its alumni. Over the course of the fiscal year class agents communicate with their classmates by letter and telephone to encourage participation in the Annual Fund. The following alumni served as class agents during the 2003-2004 year and we are grateful for their dedicated involvement.

ANNUAL FUND STUDENT CALLERS

Chances are you received a telephone call from a student during the 2003-2004 academic year. Student callers reach out to alumni, parents and friends to provide news of campus events, to update biographical information and to seek support for the college's Annual Fund. Last year, this dedicated staff made over 29,000 telephone calls to raise nearly $135,000 for the Annual Fund. Thank you for speaking with the most important members of the Colby-Sawyer community, our students.

Student callers had another successful year raising funds for the college. Seen here are (I to r) Sara Gerlitz '07, Emily Savage '07, Kate McKenna '07, Adam Robitaille '06, Lisa Maggio '04, and Jennifer DePaul '07.

The Julia M. Gay Society

Contributions to the Annual Fund of $250 to $499 in a single year.

The Circle of Gold

Contributions to the Annual Fund of $150 or more from graduates of the last decade.

Contributors

All other contributions to the Annual Fund not represented by a Leadership Society or Giving Circle.

ALUMNI DONORS

Colby-Sawyer College depends upon the generous support of its alumni. The following class lists recognize all alumni who have made gifts to the Annual Fund and/or for capital and endowment purposes during the period July 1, 2003, through June 30, 2004. An asterisk denotes five or more years of consecutive giving. Annual Fund gifts are unrestricted and support the college's current educational programs. These gifts are expendable within the fiscal year in which they are received. Capital and endowment gifts are contributions received by the college for equipment, new and renovated facilities, special program support and for endowed scholarship and memorial funds. Leadership societies and giving circles are recognized and included in the Annual Fund lists. The dollar and participation totals noted for each class pertain to the Annual Fund.

THE ROOKE CHALLENGE

Robert and Natalie Rooke '48 have generously set up a challenge to encourage involvement in the Confidently Colby-Sawyer: Succeeding Together campaign. The challenge, which began January 1, 2004, doubles the impact of gifts between $1,000 and $50,000 directed to endowment, scholarship or the Annual Fund. Gifts will be matched $1 for $1 up to $500,000, and the challenge will conclude no later than December 31, 2004.

The following alumni and friends have already participated in the Challenge, and we gratefully recognize their support. Additional gifts for the Challenge will be received through December 30, 2004. If you would like more information about how to participate in the Challenge and how to DOUBLE the impact of your gift, please call Geri Holdsworth

FRIENDS OF THE LIBRARY

In 1967, a group of New London area summer residents founded the Friends of the Library to support what is now the Susan Colgate Cleveland Library/Learning Center. In addition to raising funds to enhance our library, the Friends support several programs throughout the year that are open and free to the public. The college is grateful for the enduring support of the Friends of the Library.

THE HERITAGE SOCIETY

The Heritage Society was established in 1992 to thank and recognize those individuals who have provided for Colby-Sawyer through a bequest or deferred gift. The college expresses its deep gratitude for the foresight and generosity of the alumni and friends who have joined the Heritage Society by informing the college of estate plans that include Colby-Sawyer. New members to the Heritage Society in 2003-2004 appear in bold. In the membership below, the symbol ^ denotes a member who has died between July 1, 2003 and June 30, 2004. Ways to Give to Colby-Sawyer College Gifts to Colby-Sawyer College are made in many ways, and may yield very attractive tax benefits. Listed below are ways in which you may contribute to Colby-Sawyer.

Gifts of cash are deductible up to 50 percent of a donor's adjusted gross income (AGI). Any excess can be carried over for five years.

Deferred Gifts

Deferred gifts may bring donors many benefits, including income for life or for a term of years, income for a second beneficiary, and reductions in income, capital gains, gift or estate taxes. These gifts take many forms, including annuities, remainder trusts, life insurance and bequests.

Gifts-in-Kind

Tangible personal gifts of property (such as art objects, jewelry, silver and antiques) can be donated to the college for educational purposes or for resale. Tax deductibility will vary. Personal property may also be contributed to fund a trust, which will produce income for the donor and help the donor to avoid or reduce taxes.

IRA Assets

IRAs are subject to estate tax if left to individuals other than a spouse. If you name a charity as beneficiary, such as Colby-Sawyer College, all taxes are avoided.

Matching Gifts

Corporate matching gift programs allow an employee to potentially double or triple a gift to Colby-Sawyer College. Typically, the employee obtains a company form and submits it to the college with his/her contribution. Please check with your human resources department for more information.

Real Estate

Gifts of real estate may be made to the college outright, in whole or in part, through transfer in a bargain sale, or to fund a gift annuity or unitrust. In some circumstances, donors may also contribute real estate to the college while reserving the right to occupy the property during their lifetime. Each approach has specific estate and tax benefits.

Securities

Gifts of appreciated stocks (including mutual funds), bonds and other securities may offer considerable capital gains tax savings.

For more information, please contact Elizabeth Cahill, Director of Development, at (603) 526-3729.

Is your name missing?

If your name is missing or if your affiliation is incorrect, please accept our apologies and notify us of any corrections by contacting:
Sue Reagan LeBrecht, Office of Advancement, 541 Main Street, New London, NH 03257. You may also call (800) 266-8253 or send an e-mail to sreagan@colby-sawyer.edu.

GIFTS THAT KEEP ON GIVING... TO YOU AND COLBY-SAWYER College

Life income agreements with Colby-Sawyer College will pay you income for life. There are several options to choose from depending upon your age, your needs and the way the gift is funded. A life income gift provides the following benefits:

- You will receive a stream of income for your lifetime and/or the life of your beneficiary. You will receive an immediate charitable income tax deduction.
- If you fund the agreement with low-yielding securities, you may actually increase your current income.
- If you give appreciated securities owned for more than 12 months, you may avoid capital gains taxes.
- You have the opportunity to establish an endowed fund in your name or the name of a loved one.
- You may reduce your estate tax.
- · You will be a member of The Heritage Society.

The college will be happy to send you a personalized financial analysis to illustrate how a life income gift can benefit both you and Colby-Sawyer College.

ALLIMINOTES

Reunion June 3-5, 2005

Save the date for Colby-Sawyer's popular All-College Reunion. Everyone is welcome, and special programming will be provided for classes ending in 5 or 0. Reunion committees are being formed right now; call the Alumni Office if you're interested in offering suggestions for activities your class would appreciate or to find out other ways to volunteer.

Alumni Service Awards

Please call, write or e-mail the Alumni Office with names of Colby-Sawyer friends and classmates whom you think have made contributions to the college, their profession and/or their communities, or whose public service reflects positively on Colby-Sawyer.

Call the Alumni and other Advancement Offices toll-free - (800) 266-8253.

Authors

If you have a book currently in print, please let us know. We would like to feature your book in the magazine and add it to our library collection.

It's so Easy - Join the Online Directory

The new online directory has gained widespread popularity in the past few months. Alumni of all ages have registered to be part of the password-protected online service. Once you've registered, you can post photos, write class notes, post notes on the electronic bulletin board, search for alumni and friends by class year, geographic location, or profession, make a gift to the college, register for events and change your address. It's easy and fun. Visit www.colby-sawyer.edu/alumni-friends and follow the step-by-step directions. Call the Alumni Office with questions.

Send Us Your Photos

Whenever a Colby-Sawyer gang gathers, whether you're someplace grand or doing something you'd like to share, snap a photograph. Send us prints (please don't write on the backs) or slides and enclose a caption or identification of all those pictured. We'll return them if you ask. Digital photos via e-mail are also welcome—just be sure that the resolution is at least 250dpi.

Marketplace Online

Order your Colby-Sawyer memorabilia today through our safe electronic storefront. Whether purchasing pens or furniture, you can display your affection for Colby-Sawyer for all to see! New items are added frequently. Proceeds from the Marketplace support the mission and activities of the Alumni Association for the benefit of Colby-Sawyer College. Visit the Marketplace at www.colby-sawyer.edu/alumni-friends/.

Upcoming events:

Colby-Sawyer Ski Day at Mount Sunapee — Friday, February 4, 2005. Plan ahead to bring your friends and family to beautiful Mount Sunapee for this very popular event.

Alumni Bed and Breakfast

If you're planning to visit the greater New London area, take advantage of our new Alumni Bed and Breakfast program. Guests and hosts alike report that the visits have been splendid! Contact coordinator Marsha Halpin Johnson '59 at (603) 526-4506 or marnam@tds.net, or contact the Alumni Office for details. The cost of your stay will be a donation—not to your host, but to scholarship programs at the college! Thanks go to our growing group of generous local alumni who have volunteered to be your hosts.

Colby-Sawyer College Alumni Inaugural Delegates

During the past months, Colby-Sawyer alumni represented President Anne Ponder and their college as official delegates to inaugural ceremonies at other colleges and universities. We are grateful to those who accepted invitations.

Nurses Reunited

Reunion Weekend 2004 marked the formal organization of the Colby-Sawyer Nursing Alumni Association. Representing eight classes of graduates dating back to 1993, nurses came together at a luncheon hosted by the Alumni Office, working with Kathy Meyer '03 and Prof. Cindy Loring, and held at the historic Lethbridge Lodge. With sincerity and sentiment, participants shared their journeys through Colby-Sawyer as well as their personal and professional lives. Graduates working in a diverse range of medical specialties discussed the rewards of their careers as well as the challenges within the field of nursing. Nicole Ferland Stone '97 gave a presentation on the development of a pediatric program for chronic and terminally ill children being served within the Visiting Nurse Association Health System of Northern New England. Jennifer Wilson '94 presented a program on the advancement in treatment for diabetes within the adult and pediatric populations. Later in the afternoon, Prof. Loring (N.H. Nurse of the Year in 2002) presented a Reunion workshop, open to the public, titled "Preparing Nurses for Today's World," which discussed Colby-Sawyer's cutting-edge, community-based nursing curriculum. The Nursing Alumni Association is establishing a web link, which will be accessed through the Colby-Sawyer Alumni and Friends Web page (www.colby-sawyer.edu/alumnifriends) and which will be a means of communicating future meetings and events. Please update your present contact information through the online alumni directory or by calling the Alumni Office, and plan to participate in the growth and development of your newest professional organization.

Dear classmates of Colby Junior College—now proud alumni of Colby-Sawyer College. It is Aug. and summer 2004 is half gone. Our class size is also decreasing. Only 13 double postcards sent to you, giving my dates for leaving Kendal in Hanover, NH, with the date of July 13, of my arrival on Block Island, RI. Only 2 replies have been received. Clara Burr Miller writes, "I continue to enjoy my apartment. I am still a deacon at Montview Blvd. Presbyterian Church. I do occasional publications for our apartment community, which is about 100 people. I enjoy my daughters and grandchild." Harriett Gray Vangsness greets us with her usual optimistic point of view. "In 2004 we each are taught, if so blessed, the lessons of courage and limitations. Keep the smile and a cheerful greeting." Leonard S. Kensworthy in his Meditations for Older People writes an important lesson: "To learn in our later years, to receive graciously." I, Barbara Clough, do try to receive graciously all the helpful, caring concern from my 3 neighbors on this hill, Swede Hill, and the many friends of decades on Block Island. I am thankful and appreciate the opportunity to be on my favorite island. Best wishes to each of you.

Barbara Johnson Stearns Woodcrest Village 356 Main Street, Apartment 217 New London, NH 03257 (603) 526-6339

On July 2, I sent out 24 cards to our class members. First I had a call from Nancy Gaunt Bradford, who is in a CO nursing home. She sounded great, even though she uses a walker and is on oxygen 24 hours a day. At least her spirits seemed high. Several nights after that, we had an entertainment group here at Woodcrest called "The Fondtones." This is a group of local men who love to sing. One member is married to Nancy's cousin and is actually her namesake. Then a few days later, Dorothy Melendy Scott called to say she had "no news." I did learn that her granddaughter, Tiffany, is still figure skating and is to be married next May. She is now teaching skating. A blank card was received from Helen Estabrooks Tebo, signifying she has no news. Couldn't she just say "hello?" A happier card from Dot Goings Hubbard says she enjoyed a barbecue on the 4th of July at the new home of her youngest granddaughter. She says that she, as the oldest, and a 2-year-old received the most attention. Barbara Wilson Lenox called to say that one of her granddaughters has been accepted at Colby-Sawyer. Her name is Madeline Lenox. So that will be a 3-generation family that has attended our college. Lois Kennedy Archer welcomed me to the world of retirement living. She's been in Cromwell Village for over 10 years and just loves it. She still does the same things, only she's a bit slower. Her place is near enough to Hartford to enjoy shows, concerts and the Bushnell Gallery of Art. Evelyn Kelley is still "praising God from whom all blessings flow" as she looks at a beautiful vista from her apartment. That's the right attitude, Evie. A postcard received from Florence Spitz Leventhal reads, "Can't walk, can't hear, but can acquire many new friends." She is living at New Horizon retirement community in Woburn, MA, and just loves it. Betty Ball Hughes is still living in an apartment at her daughterin-law's. I spoke with Gert Ball Humphrey who is well, but no longer driving. Mary Kennon Robertson says she is still well and continues to sell books. Helen "Dody" Reece French came for a visit with her daughter. She looks so young I almost did not recognize her. She's still as beautiful as ever. I, Barbara Johnson Stearns, am now living in an assisted living center. It's called Woodcrest and is on Main Street in New London. I have a living room, a bedroom and a bath. I get all of my meals in the dining room, laundry is done for us, and transportation is provided. I can walk to the library and the Academy Building, which is where I take my AIL classes. The church is just up the street. Two very sad bits of news: Lutie Grinnell Shanahan passed away on April 26. Her daughter said that she always had wonderful memories of Colby. I also received a notice that Ramona Adams Bieder died May 24.

At the age of 91, Mary Kathleen "Kay" Gowdey Walsh says she's still going strong. She drives her own car, keeps her own house, and does a lot of gardening. Sadly, she lost her husband last Dec., so she lives alone now. Kay enjoys volunteering her time at the Council of Aging and at the historical society.

Catherine Whited Shoemaker. who celebrated her 90th birthday in Sept., has lived in NC for the last 10 years. She has a care giver with her 5 days a week, but is still maintaining her own home. Doris Cooper also continues to maintain her own home in Lake Worth, FL. She enjoyed her 90th birthday party at the senior center in Aug. She would love to be in touch with more classmates. For her dear classmates who have passed on, Doris writes, "Tis said, 'To live in the hearts left behind is not to die.' I remember all of you and will until my last heartbeat." Mary Giddings Lawsing still spends 6 months on Cape Cod in Chatham, and the other 6 months of the year in Englewood, FL. She keeps busy with bridge, bocce and lawn bowling. Mary enjoys sailing with her son, daughter and 6 grandchildren. Sadly, Mary's husband, Dave Williams, died April 20, 2003. Our condolences to you, Mary. Barbara Stone Cornwell has been living at the Lake Anne

Fellowship House in Reston, VA, for 3 years, after having lived in Kissimmee, FL, for 15 years. She enjoys the climate there better than in FL. The building contains 230 apartments, and offers evening meals. Barbara is fortunate to have her granddaughter nearby to look after her. Barbara enjoys crossword puzzles, scrapbooking, Bible class, reading, and special get-togethers in the auditorium. We extend our condolences to Barbara, who lost her husband in Nov. 2003 after 60 years of marriage. Barbara Crampton Jones is living in a senior citizens 2-bedroom condo. She cannot walk and is confined to a wheelchair. She does have a live-in companion from Uganda. Barbara hears from Doris Cooper occasionally. Jane Newberry Foran says "life is no ball of joy." She's living in an apartment, which she likes, but feels lonely due to the loss of many of her friends. She does enjoy the company of one man, who helps her out a lot. Constance Alley French writes, "I've always had a warm place in my heart for Colby. My time there has meant so much to me all through my life." She's presently living in a town house in Kings Way in Yarmouth Port, MA. She sold her house in Chatham, where she had lived for many years. Constance has always been busy with art. After art school in Boston, she became a commercial artist. She's been active in the creative arts in Chatham, as well as the Chatham Guild of Artists and the Cape Cod Art Association. Constance's daughter, Laury Priest, lives in WY and is a 1963 graduate of Colby-Sawyer. Her other daughter, Gretchen, is an ordained monk with a practice in East Calais, VT. Ethelyn "Jackie" Dorr Symons writes, "I had a wonderful stay at Colby for 2 years and realized so many great adventures. The teachers were so special and looked after all the members of the class. With the time that has passed, I'm grateful to have been a 2-year member of our class." The Alumni Office received a note from Pam Thibeau, daughter of classmate Dorothy Young Fitzgerald. Sadly, Dorothy passed away July 15, 2003, at the age of 871/2. According to Pam, Dorothy years living in ID near her daughters and 2 granddaughters. Dorothy often told stories of her adventurous years at Colby and how much she enjoyed it. We extend our condolences to Dorothy's family. The Alumni Office received the following note from Beth Angier Holden, daughter of Elizabeth "Beth" Smith Angier: "I am sorry to inform you of the death of my mother on September 19 after a brief illness. She and my father, who predeceased her in 2003, had lived on Cape Cod during their retirement years, where my mother continued her lifelong love of painting. After graduating from Colby Jr. College, she graduated from Parsons School of Design, spending her final year studying fashion in Paris. Before her marriage she taught art at the college for one year. Lib [as she was called post-Colby] is survived by three daughters, nine grandchildren and nine great grandchildren. Her granddaughter Lindsey Holden Reeves attended Colby-Sawyer for two years before graduating from Hartwick College. Lindsey and her grandmother, who loved visiting her on campus, shared the distinction of having lived in Shepard Hall exactly 50 years apart."

had really enjoyed the last 7

Barbara "Barb" Melendy Parker 14 Little Britton Lane New London, NH 03257 (603) 526-2724

A very short column for the class of 1936. I was late in asking for news, but one faithful classmate responded on time. Trudie Myers Sunderland writes, "no news, but I want to repay in some small way as recognition of how hard you work to keep news from our class going. I continue to live alone, and I am so thankful that I can. The calico cat that I adopted a year ago gives me great comfort. She is 10 years old. I am fortunate that I have a number of friends much younger than I who keep in touch. I still drive on a limited basis, but no highways. I get out and about, picking and choosing what I want to do." A call to Geraldine McKewen Bateman at her home on Lake

Sunapee finds that she had a good winter in Deltona, FL. She is still singing. She now has 10 great-grandchildren. She headed back to FL in Sept. I received a note from Sue Handy Funk letting us know that her mother, Hannah Smith Handy, passed away June 11. Our deepest condolences to their entire family. Connie Mason Lane sent along a nice e-mail message to the Alumni Office. She is still living in the Taylor Community in Laconia. NH. in the small home that she and her late husband moved into in 1993. As she can no longer drive her car, she purchased a 4-wheel scooter last fall and loves the independence it provides her. Connie's 3 children (Steve, Hank and Nancy) and 4 grandchildren (Travis, Emily, Tim and Alex) are the joys of her life. Nancy retired this year after 30 years of teaching art in the Wolfboro and Center Tuftonboro, NH, schools. Nancy is now able to spend 1 day a week with Connie, which they both enjoy. Nancy's son, Travis, lives in North Conway, NH, where he is a mountain guide and rockclimbing instructor for Eastern Mountain Sports. Emily, Nancy's daughter, spent the summer in WA working with a group of teenagers on a 4H Teen Works Prairie Garden funded by AmeriCorps and 4H. Tim, Hank's son, is a horticulturist, and Alex, his other son, is a college sophomore. Connie has been spending much of her time writing the story of her life for the benefit of her children and grandchildren. She finds it very time consuming, but interesting and a lot of fun to recall the memories. Sadly, Connie lost her sister, Barbara Mason '30, in May. She passed away just 2 months before her 95th birthday. She had been living in a small assisted living apartment in another building on campus, so Connie enjoyed being able to see her often. Our condolences to you, Connie. As for your class correspondent, Barbara Melendy Parker, I am still running the flower shop at Cricenti's Supermarket. Since the new addition was completed, I have a larger area, which holds a lot more plants and other things. I still call it my "fun job." Have a wonderful winter, all you '36ers!

Marilyn Pease Perry and John celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary when 4 generations gathered at a family picnic. See the photo on this page of Marilyn and John and their 5 greatgrandchildren, who visited from Houston, TX, to join the celebration. John Perry Sr. celebrated his 65th reunion from Dartmouth College. Constance Arnold Martin and her husband, Earl, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in Carmel, CA, where they were married and honeymooned, staying at the same hotel! Their 2 daughters are well. "Healthwise, we are taking it day by day," says Connie. She still keeps in touch with Ina Hardy McLeod and Theresa Wilkinson McIntyre. Martha Ware writes that life has been good to her. "It amazes me that I'm still on earth," she says. Lots of us feel the same way, Martha! Barbara Cooper Cogswell writes that although she has a torn ligament behind her left knee, she is enjoying her 3 great-granddaughters, ages 7, 2 and 11 months. She attended her grandson's wedding at her ocean family home in Moody, ME. "It was a delightful beach day," she wrote. Lois Macy Wood sends a hello to all of her Colby classmates. She is no longer the singing lady due to asthma and heart problems. She lost her oldest son, Barry, to lung cancer in Oct. 2000, and her husband, Everett, to heart failure in 2001. The class of '37 extends our deepest sympathies, Lois. Lois is still in her own home, and takes short drives to the store and church. Knitting and crocheting are still her hobbies, but she's slowed down since receiving a stent in April. Lois sends her love to all. Theresa Wilkinson McIntyre writes that she has "no news," but hearing from her tells me she is still interested in Colby and I appreciate hearing from her. Won't the rest of you do the same? The blank postcard is convenient and I'd appreciate hearing from you when I write. Jean Morrison Bennett and I correspond and I'm amazed at how many books on tape she's read: 500 or more! She keeps active with swimming and still lives alone. I admire her spirit.

Class Correspondent Needed

Inez Gianfranchi Snowdon is still living in her condo in Kennebunk, ME. She lost her husband. Don. 4 years ago in July. Inez spent the summer relaxing at the lake in Acton, ME. At one point, she enjoyed the company of 12 visitors, 5 of whom were children (ages 4 months, 2 years, 3 years, 5 years and 8 years). It was not a quiet time, explained Inez, but everyone had fun in the cold and rain. Inez spends some of her free time volunteering at a church sponsored "budget box." Jane Hedlund Adams writes, "I'm in relatively good health. I play bridge at least 3 times a week during the winter at the condo complex where I live. My gentleman friend and I have taken 6 Holland America cruises. We have also visited the Scandinavian countries, England and Ireland. We plan another cruise in March 2005." Mary Trafton Simonds continues to keep busy with activities at the Brookhaven Retirement Home, as well as at

Mt. Auburn Hospital. She and her daughter, Gina Simonds White '64, enjoyed spending a night in New London on the way to their ski lodge in Jackson, NH. Mary says it was such fun to check up on all of the changes. Mary's granddaughter, Hilary, is a physician's assistant in a New Haven, CT, hospital. Hilary is a graduate of Yale Medical School. Joan Davidson Whitney enjoyed a week's vacation in Highgate Springs, VT, this summer with 7 family members, including 2 of her 6 children. Joan keeps busy with courses at the U of DE, exercising at a hospital facility, taking care of a 10-year-old, gardening, playing bridge, medical group dinners and parties, and Rotary Club events. Effamay Thomas Dahlstrand's residence is still in VT, though she and her husband spend their winters in Houston, TX, with their son and his wife. One of their grandsons is married, and the other will finish high school in 2005. Effamay and her husband also spend part of their time in Warren, RI, with their daughter and her husband. Effamay writes, "Considering our ages (my husband is 91!), we are doing well. God is good!" Shirley Johnson Watt continues to live alone, but is fortunate to have her children living nearby. Her 4 grandchildren are scattered around the country, so Shirley misses them dearly. Janet Marcia Drabble says life at the Village is never boring, as there are many daily activities. She does miss taking long trips and volunteering at the hospital, but says everyone has to slow down some time! Janet writes, "I often remember how carefree I was at Colby and so were my friends. We had many good times at Colby and we were all so congenial. I feel I received an excellent education at Colby, and I would highly recommend it." Betty Champlin Bottorf says nothing much is new, but she continues to get older every year! Betty's oldest daughter, Sally, lives with her. They have a constant battle with deer, which eat everything in sight on their property. Betty has 3 granddaughters and 2 great-grandchildren. Betty is close friends with Nancy Olcott Moreland '46. When Betty first met her, she told Nancy that her name reminded her of Colby. Nancy responded by saying, "he was my father-in-law." Mary Russell Little recalls happy memories of her time at Colby-Sawyer, including her fellow classmates, her teachers, and the lovely town of New London. She and her husband. Dr. Bud Little. settled in Helena, MT, where he practiced medicine for over 40 years. Unfortunately, Bud has been ill with a heart condition the past 2 years. Mary and Bud have 3 children. Son Jim (Dartmouth '65) is a pediatrician in Jackson, WY; daughter Susan is a lab tech. in Helena; and their youngest son, Roger, is a lawyer in Helena.

Greetings '39ers. It was nice hearing from so many of you. I was delighted to have a visit from my first roommate, Betty Higgins Hassell, and her husband, Henry, this summer. They were making their usual trip north to see family members. Betty's back was improved enough so that she could make the trip via plane. They are loving their new home in an Orange, FL, retirement community. Miriam Cluff

We look forward to hearing from you.

Worthley is still living at home. She writes, "My youngest daughter, Betsy, moved in with her two children, Will and Grace. Oldest, Jeep, is now a grandfather 3 times over. Meredith Worthley Motyka '68, a Colby-Sawyer grad, works as a massage therapist. Phil is out in MN, Dana and family up in ME, and Martha out in WA state with her 2 wonderful teenaged daughters." Marion Lovely Fleming has been living in the Moultrie Oaks retirement community for some time. Her youngest daughter, Debra, is living with her. Her health is not too good. The years have caught up with her but she is able to work in her garden some. She was looking forward to visits from other family members. As Annette Caldwell Blais lives in Harwich, a visit from her niece and family in the summer is a real treat for them and her too. Much to her surprise her new Schnauzer, Breezy, gets along real well with the children. Ann is still active in Red Cross and the caring committee for her church. Not as active in all their activities as they were previously are Edith Trollope Benjamin and her husband. David. They are, well, just a little slower. They are still living in the house in which she grew up. They have just celebrated their 60th anniversary with a happy family party, which included their 3 daughters and their 5 grandchildren. Natalea Brown's news is that she is still here! She is still living in Newburyport, except when she is in Winter Haven, FL, where she has a mobile home. She usually drives there each year. Nat got to Italy in April, visiting the Amalfi coast and Florence areas. Although diagnosed with Parkinson's, Connie Campbell Forsham is still active, although at a slower pace. She is a volunteer at New London Hospital. Her church is right next door and the library is just below that. She reads a lot. Her constant companion is a lovely dog, aptly named Pal. They take walks together daily. Margie Carter Colony is happily settled in at Carlton Willard Village, a retirement community in Beford, MA. She enjoys many interesting activities that they offer, such as concerts, lectures, trips to the Boston Symphony, museums, theater, etc., so it's an active and stimulating life for her. Margie has had 2 complete hip replacements within a year. She reports that her hearing and sight are not what they used to be. Margie has 3 children, 3 grandchildren and 1 great-grandchild with another on the way. Miriam Runels DeMallie still living at home. Her husband, Pete, has recovered almost completely from a serious illness in 2001 and still plays leisurely golf. They just celebrated their 60th anniversary with their 3 daughters and 2 sons, a very special experience. One of her granddaughters, who is college bound in '05, has looked at Colby-Sawyer and was much impressed. It brought back fond memories. Another convert to retirement living is Marion Sage Boyd and Jack. They moved to The Ledges in Laconia in April. It's only 4 miles from their former home in Gilford, so Jack could make many trips bringing little things. They love the new arrangement. Although she still volunteers several times a week at the local nursing home, Virginia "Ginny" Mahard Laming stays close to home now. That's why both she and Betty Higgins Hassell were not inviting you all to reunion this year.

Ginny got out her albums and there we all were as she remembered us, doing wonderful things with wonderful girls and teachers, learning how to grow up and go on. She and Bernie keep their fingers crossed so the good stuff continues. All is well with Frances "Frannie" Holbrook Armstrong and Ed. We seem to be more active than ever with all that goes on at The Seasons. I am now the president of the resident council, a dubious honor. In Sept. we celebrated our 62nd anniversary. Please continue to keep in touch and remember Joy. Luv ya.

A note from Jeanne Schwob Homer brought the sad news that Janet "Jinx" Tee Lynch died April 30, 2004, after a long illness. Jinx is survived by her husband, Robert M. Lynch, 2 sons, Peter and Bob, a daughter, Susan Lynch Gannon, and 5 grandchildren. She lived in Pelham, NY, until 1975 and then moved to Old Saybrook, CT, where she was active in her church, the Lyme Academy of Fine Arts, and the Old Lyme Country Club. Jeanne has been busy visiting family and friends with a trip to MO, another to VT, and one to MI. I, Judy Conover Reinicker, spent the summer at my cottage in Canada. I was pleased to learn that my book Klondike Letters, which was published back in 1984, is being used by the National Parks Association in their research on the area that is now the Yukon-Charlie River National Preserve in AK. The Alumni Office heard from Margaret "Peggy" Brewer Cooley, who tells us of a recent frightening experience. While crossing the street in a crosswalk, she was struck by a vehicle whose driver ran directly through the stop sign. The driver helped Peggy to her feet and escorted her to the curb. She then informed Peggy that she had to leave to pick up her daughter.

Fortunately, a man who witnessed the accident told the driver she must stay while he called the police. Peggy was transported by ambulance to the hospital. Luckily, Peggy received only minor injuries. She later discovered that the driver of the car did not have a license and didn't carry insurance!

As we get older, some of us get thinner (and some of us don't!) and this is the situation with our class news. As you will see, much of it concerns Anne Weston Miller. In the spring, her son, John Reading, arranged with Gaye LaCasce of the Alumni Office to take Anne up to the campus to see all that has transpired since her last visit some 10 years ago. Gaye showed her the new buildings, embellishments on the campus, changes in the town, and so on. Anne even had a stop at our old residence, Shepard Hall, and found it looked and felt much the same as it did 63 years ago. She had a wonderful time. Since then, she has been busy scanning the Boston papers and sent along the following 2 items. George A. Blair Jr., widower of our classmate Madeleine "Bunny" Collins Blair, and brother-in-law of her twin, Elizabeth "Betty" Collins, died last April. In June, Phyllis Carter deNapoli '44 died in Marblehead, MA. She was the vounger sister of our classmate Doris "Dorie" Carter Stryker and Margaret Carter Colony '39. I remember meeting Phyllie years ago when she lived in Bedford, NH, when I drove Dorie down there following one of our class reunions. Our sympathy is extended to the family members of these Colby-Sawyer family people. I have chatted fairly often with Margaret "Margie" Law, but was alarmed when I called on her birthday and heard that her number had been disconnected. After calling a friend of hers in ME, I found that she had died on July 28 from renal failure. I shall miss our long, chatty phone calls. As far as the Bordens are concerned, nothing startling through the spring. There was one family landmark when I went to IN for my eldest granddaughter's graduation from Valparaiso University. As I write this in Aug., she is preparing to leave for South Korea and a year of teaching English in an elementary school. The last word: 2006 will be our 65th Reunion. Prepare now!

Hi everyone! We have an undernourished column this time, in spite of the fact that I sent out over 50 return postcards. We need to do better, including me. I promise to send out the cards earlier so you can have plenty of time to respond. For those of you who did respond, I truly thank you, and for those of you who didn't have time to respond, send your news along for the next issue. I'd love to be ahead! And now for the news. Jean Gove Hines, who lives in Springfield, VT, writes that she has lived in the same house since 1944! Wait until you have to move, Jean. It's amazing what you accumulate! She works with hospice, has 4 children and 7 grandchildren, and a Siamese cat, Shadow, for wonderful company. I received a fun letter from Ruth Kerney Scott. She says, "Same house, same gardens, same weeds, too much rain!" Three of her 4 children live in her general area (northern VA), and one lives in OH. She has 16 grandchildren, 4 greats and 2 on the way. I envy her! However, she still has several in the military so cross your fingers and pray for their safe return. From VT, Mary "Terry"

Allen Caldwell reports that her lawn and gardens keep her quite busy in the summer. Her soil is sandy, so while others were complaining about New England's rainy summer, she gloried in the verdure! The Caldwells enjoyed a long weekend in Cooperstown at the Glimmerglass Opera in Aug. There were 4 operas and enlightening lectures, leaving them much to treasure. Terry and John's other yearly summer stimulus is the Williamstown Theater Festival. It consists of 4 plays, professionally produced, at 2-week intervals. They like to drive down early to enjoy either the Clark Museum or the Williams College Museum before the matinee. I quote from Melvina Crosby Herberger's reply. "In 1982 Chuck retired from college teaching, we sold our house in ME and have been living full time on Cape Cod (Centerville) in a house my greatgrandfather built. Our daughter is still in southern ME, as are her 3 children. When Chuck was still teaching we spent 6 semesters in Europe (mainly Austria and Greece), which really whetted our appetite for travel. We've done a lot of cruising since then, including 2 world cruises. Last winter we circled So. America on the Caronia. We were particularly impressed with Chile—the temperate areas to the south and the fjords and Beagle Channel are beautiful!" And a note from Jane Knowles Webb tells us that she has a manuscript, "Making of a Missionary in India," at the printers and will be available soon. Jane's daughter, Betsy, sold her veterinary practice in HI in June, and moved to eastern WA, near the Canadian border, where she and her husband have orchards. Her son, Philip, works in the culinary field in Chicago. And son, Scott, in Montclair, NJ, left Nickelodeon as creative director and now works with Oxygen, a new cable service. Jane and her husband run a wonderful B&B in Weston, MA, Webb Bigelow House, which is enjoying a good upswing in business, which had been softened by 9/11. It was nice to hear from Lois Wetsel Schweizer who wrote her reply from a hospital bed recovering from a broken hip (her first). She is grateful she lives in a life care community, where both Lois and her husband are being well cared for. Lois also reports that Joyce Staff Wood (Lois's roommate in CJC days) lost her husband of 60 years last month. She now is in an assisted living apartment and appreciates that, too. I called Janie Raynor Groo to find out about her expected first greatgrandchild and found Molly was born Oct. 3, 2003, and is, of course, gorgeous! We also compared our strokes—amazingly similar. We're both operating with one hand but since we're right handed, the left hand isn't as missed as it could be, and canes are a part of our wardrobe. Ah, the golden years! A call to Mardy Jack Johnsen revealed that she and her husband are waiting to move into a nearby "retirement" life care facility, Ashland Village. Dave and I too are awaiting the same move to North Hill, in Needham, MA. For us, we've been on the list for over 11/2 years and they tell us it will be another 11/2 years—harder to get into than college! God willing we'll live long enough to make it!! I checked with Jinny Leighty Severs who reports she's doing fine, just not as frisky as she used to be. Amen! My final catch-up call was to Marge Griffin Lesher, who was eagerly awaiting her final 2 weeks on the board of her condominium complex. As all of us who live in condos know, it's a thankless and time-consuming job. Marge's son, Schuyler, has been battling cancer and is now being helped by hospice, as the end is inevitable. Tough with 2 small children, ages 11 and 41/2. On a happier note, we discovered that one of our granddaughters and one of Marge's grandsons will be at Columbia Graduate School next fall and we hope they will meet. We grandmothers will make sure they do! As for me,

Bobbie Boyd Bradley, our news is continuing recovery from my stroke and seizure and our first cruise ever. We've traveled over most of the world but never by sea. We took a Princess cruise in April to the Panama Canal and loved every minute of it! As of this writing in Aug., we're looking forward to a 2-week Williams College (Dave's alma mater) river boat cruise up the Danube, leaving Sept 8 with a 3-day extension in Prague. Our fingers are crossed that the world situation will not interfere. All this pampering is in celebration of our 60th wedding anniversary in Oct. How blessed we feel! Remember, please keep the news coming. Use e-mail if you have it—MimiBrad@aol.com

Our thanks to all who answered my postal pleas for news. These were assembled as we were driving to Denver, CO, to participate in several conventions relating to square and round dancing. Most were mailed from IN, which was trying to cope with an unprecedented soaking wet spring time. Sometimes it takes time for sad news to catch up to us. A year ago last March, Barbara Buck Lipes' husband died. Two of their children live nearby, which is a big help. She keeps busy volunteering, golfing and being with her friends. This year she spent 10 days in France and later visited friends and attended an Elderhostel in FL. Lucille Clark Taylor and her husband, Wally, moved to found the people there very friendly and graciously welcomed them. For the last several years, Lucille has had severe health problems requiring physical and aquatic therapy/pain management just to be able to walk with a walker. Blanche Worth Siegfried did sell her lovely New London house and is dividing her time between Vero Beach, FL, and Bridgehampton, NY, where she is surrounded by family. She has 6 grands and 1 great-grand. Blani's still playing a lot of golf and bridge and doing a little bit of genealogy on the side. She also wrote how lovely it was to have Anne Ponder visit Vero Beach. A year ago, Mary "Shy" Scheu Teach's 6 children surprised her with an 80th birthday party on Martha's Vineyard. This year, the same kids have been playing nursemaid and caretakers for Shy after her surgery in late May and subsequent chemo. Then she broke her wrist and couldn't drive! So she's "enjoying" a lazy summer and a couple of visits from Sally King Cramer. Her happy news is that her granddaughter, Stephanie Young, has been accepted at Colby-Sawyer. That makes the 5th member of the Teach family to attend the college. She's so proud that her girls have experienced a wonderful education there. Shirley Webster Sheldon was so sorry to miss Alumni Weekend as she is pretty much housebound, but doing fairly well. She has an electric wheelchair to get around town. While her stroke 2 years ago affected her left side and she needs full time help, she still manages to paint and read. Shirley wrote that her husband, Irv, has made the 1st floor comfortable for her and is becoming a good cook. Their family also lives nearby and is a big help, too. Shirley had a very successful one-woman art show last year and is planning another this fall. She sends her love to all. As Jean Thurman Ramsey said, she guesses that most of our class are now octogenarians or will be very soon, but she doesn't feel like one. They're very happy living in a retirement village where they have a golf course (playing 3 or 4 times a week), 2 cafes, 2 pools, tennis courts,

health facilities and nice people. Barbara Huntington Megroz wrote that a year ago 44 relatives gathered for a Huntington family reunion on the family farm in Orford, NH, with relatives coming from as far away as WI. Last Jan., they boarded the "Sea Cloud" in Antigua for their 4th trip aboard her in the Caribbean. In Feb., Bobbie entered her next decade with a most unusual celebration. The immediate family was transported to a restaurant midway up Stratton Mountain by a Sno Cat on a beautiful moonlit night. Aug. plans included joining the American Yacht Club's annual cruise on board their 46' Grand Banks. Guess how many years Enid Belden Logan has been volunteering at the local hospital? Forty-two years! She's also chairman of the altar guild at her church. Last May, she and her eldest child, Susan, went on an awesome 2 week tour of "Stately Homes" (really castles) in Ireland. England and Scotland. Her granddaughter. Lauren Robertson. graduated from the University of CA-Davis in June. Grandson Schuyler Robertson is a junior at CA State in Chico. I laughed as I read Eleanor Hutchins Snider's note. Toni and Si bought a new Buick last May that has so many gadgets, including OnStar, they're still trying to figure out how everything works. Would you believe it has heated seats! What a good excuse to come north! Si is doing just fine, but Toni is trying to learn to live with her aches and pains as she's had enough surgery. When her left hip recently went out of joint, she was in a wheelchair for a few days. Life has overflowed at our home, and at our daughter's, who lives 2 miles away, as we all adjust to "Life without Father." We all remain very much involved in the square dance activity, as well as scouts and church. We could write a book about putting on a New England Square & Round Dance Convention when your main location is undergoing a 3-year refurbishing plan, but thanks to Herculean efforts of many, it was a tremendous success. Now all of the committees will work on repeating it all over again next year! Doc and I were stunned when at the convention's Saturday night show we were honored as Yankee Clipper recipients, which is New England's most prestigious square and round dance award. And how does one condense our 5,500-mile camping trip, with our family in CO and WI, into a few words. What fun it will be to write our annual Christmas letter this year! May your lives be as blessed as ours!

Editor's Note: A warm welcome, and special thank you, to Jeanne "Penny" Losey Bole, who has volunteered to serve as class of 1944 correspondent.

Our 60th Reunion was so special! Imagine, we have been gone from Colby-Sawyer for all of those years, yet the memories linger on and on. We missed all of you who did not return, but 11 of us managed to gather. Those attending were Shirley Tunison Eustis, Mary Jane Niedner Mason, Jean Bush Gabriel, Jane MacCabe Kelly, Jane Cooper Fall, Jane Cowles Parmenter, Ann Tilton Carpenter, Betsy VanGorder Minkler, Louise Jensen Todd, Barbara Janson Green, and Jeanne "Penny" Losey Bole. Because Jane MacCabe Kelly could no longer be class correspondent, I've accepted the job. But you all have to help me make this a success. Write news, e-mail me, or visit us in Shelburne, MA. Our door always swings in. Now, let me bring you up to date on our friends from 1944! Mary Jane Niedner Mason told me to be sure to list all of the members of our class who returned for Reunion, and that I have done. Also, Jean Bush Gabriel was a wonderful hostess to all of us, opening her home in New London for our welcoming dinner, our farewell brunch, and our hanging out place, where laughter filled the air. After leaving our Reunion, Mary Jane Mason left for a family trip to AK, which included 7 days of fresh water fishing, and she happily stated that she was the oldest, but had a ball! As for Jean

Bush Gabriel, who had a granddaughter married at her home in New London in July, her thoughts of college days 60 years past were, "We didn't feel older!" Jane MacCabe Kelly and her husband, Tom, were also there. Tom had surgery in June. They returned to their home in Wolfeboro, NH, where all of their children and "grands" gathered in Aug...all 17 members in their clan! Shirley Tunison Eustis came up from Annapolis, MD, and has the wonderful joy of having her very 1st grandchild! Her daughter and family reside in NYC and they are the proud parents. Shirley works in the Archives at the National Air & Space Museum, and has done so for 15 years. She loves living in Annapolis. Jane Cooper Fall was totally thrilled with the campus and, as we all did, loved seeing the Belmont Race for the Triple Crown in President Anne Ponder's den—a private TV for the class of 1944! A long note from Jean Ferguson Wilcox told of her family. Rick just returned from Nepal, where he treks with groups. Jane is musical and teaches singing at the Cotting School in MA. Her husband plays the bagpipes. Ben is the general manager of Mt. Cranmore in North Conway, and Robert sells yachts in New England seaside towns. An interesting mix of children and grandchildren, Fergie. I'm glad that your knee replacement is a moment in history. It's amazing to read from Ann Norton Merrill that she plays bridge on a weekly basis with Ann Tilton Carpenter. Ann also sees quite a few Colby gals from different classes through bridge, tennis, etc. She enjoys the 10th Mt. Association, but doesn't ski much any more. We were saddened to learn from Ann "Tilly" Tilton Carpenter that her husband, Thurston, passed away last Dec. They had a wonderful married life of over 50 years. We laughed at Reunion because 3 of us had our husbands with us. They were Tom, Dick and no, guess again, Al. Barbara Janson Green and Al and Dick and I went up to Kearsarge to see the view on Reunion Weekend. Well, we swatted those nasty black flies, never really got to enjoy the view, but will remember that wonderful winding ride up the memorable mountain. From our class, Elizabeth "Betsy" VanGorder Minkler traveled the farthest—all the way from CA. Respite time was in order for her, as she has been caring for her ailing husband for a very long time. She felt, as we all did, that Colby-Sawyer's campus is totally wonderful. And from another far away classmate, Jean Marquier Molloy from Scottsdale, AZ, came this word of wisdom: "Old age is not for sissies." She and her family have been survivors of medical problems. But at this point she relates, "All is well with the world." Janet Peters Gardiner from CA enjoys hearing about Colby, keeps in touch with Natalie "Nancie" MacBain and Mary Helen Mitchell Williams at Christmastime. I loved it when she wrote. "Dick and I feel fortunate that we are above the sod. Both of us have slowed down. Our spirit is there. but energy is not." Don't we all feel that way? And a word from Mary Helen Mitchell Williams speaks of 4 wonderful kids and spouses and 7 grandchildren. A full life, a great husband of 58 years, and a forthcoming trip to Prague, Vienna and Budapest come this fall. Word from Nancie MacBain related that she is enjoying retirement, but due to medical problems has to curtail long trips. She takes day trips to the museums, Philadelphia Orchestra, etc., and she hopes to see the campus either this fall or in the springtime. Way out in OK lives Shirley Lorraine McCullough. She and her roommate, Barbara Colwell Armstrong, had planned on attending the 60th Reunion, but for health reasons had to cancel. Her daughter has recently moved from OK to SD—a new place for her to visit. She states that she really misses the Cape Cod breezes, especially on 90 and 100-degree days! Kathleen (Ki) Howden Shellington relocated to MA from PA after her husband retired. Three of the children live nearby, and a daughter resides in VT. So, en route to VT they always stop at New London. Her spare time is involved with gardening, swimming, and she keeps in contact with Catherine English Kipe and Nancie MacBain. Down south in TN lives Margaret Kentfield Burkey, who has 12 grandchildren, from a college graduate in electrical engineering, to a group in college and all the way down to a 5vear-old. She states that it will be interesting to follow them as they mature and choose careers for themselves. From Lyme, NH, a note from Dorothy W. Sears, Jr. told of her involvement in the reconstruction of Lyme town records, which were burned in 1872. Even though illnesses and injuries have caught up with her, she isn't able to make those 35 miles to New London, but the part that caught my eye was when she said that she "pitched" the computer after 10 yearsin the 80s. Remember Pauline "Polly" Tringa Beckley? She has lived 16 years in GA, has 3 daughters, 3 grandchildren and 2 great-grandchildren. Her life has been full, having taught gifted high school students, owned 2 businesses and now owns properties, which she oversees. NH is the destination for the children and grandchildren of Elizabeth "Betty" Marden Hyde, who says it's wonderful having them, but not all at once! Sarah Schell Wright has 5 great-grandchildren. She, as most of us, cannot believe that we are 80, or nearly there. The health of each of us is so precious. From NJ, Anne Alpaugh Stone has written that arthritis has slowed her down somewhat, but she and her husband recently drove to NC to visit their son. Eric. who is a professor at Wake Forest University and now, back to Toledo, OH! Do you remember Alice Crowther Brooks, known as "Toledo?" In June, they celebrated her husband's 80th with family and friends. They are Naples, FL, residents 7-8 months of the year. They both play golf and she is sporting a new hip and knee. Alice has attended 2 Colby-Sawver functions, where she met Anne Ponder and she was very impressed with her! I believe we all are. A card from Anne Wilkens Walsh says, "Right now I'm in CT for the summer. Will leave for our FL home the end of Oct.—the best of both worlds. Husband Bill is my right hand couldn't survive without his loving support. Our 2 boys (men) are doing well and so are our 3 grandchildren ages 18, 17 and 16." Cynthia Alexander Carlson writes that they share the year between Bonita Springs, FL, and Florence, WI. Presently there are 3 daughters, 2 husbands, and 8 grandchildren living in WI. "I take lots of naps, and read books and boss from the distance. Food and laundry for 15 takes organization." Jane Cowles Parmenter writes, "My 5 daughters gave me an 80th birthday picnic in Douglas, MA, in July of this year. My son and family from CA couldn't make it, but it was great to see all of my family—the best present ever." Margaret "Nibby" Nelson Hornbrook writes, "I still remember with pleasure my college days—a memorable experience during those war years. Have managed to get back to New London once when a group stayed with Louise "Wee" Jensen Todd. Still a great place.

Wish I could have been there for the 60th, but too many graduations, weddings, etc. Best wishes to all." From FL, Joan Sandler Musen writes that their 1st greatgrandchild has been added to their huge family. She and her husband make an annual return to New England in the summer. All is well and they both are going strong. Barbara Phillips Mello has another great-grandchild on the way, making that a total of 6. As most of us, she too is experiencing some of the aging, calling it the "rusty years," which really isn't any fun. Barbara's roommate, Grace Riley Hunt. has moved to her son's home in ME, and these ladies keep in touch by phone. It's amazing how many grandchildren and great-grandchildren there are in our class. As you can see, most of the cards that I received have mention of these additions. This brings me to the note from Margaret "Peggy" Gilbert Stanton, who has an active real estate business, a beautiful home that her architect children redid, 6 grandsons, a son and daughter, a beautiful lab dog and 2 tiger cats! Full house, I'd say. Her husband passed on many years ago, and she says that she misses Sally Kleindienst Fifield, who was a wonderful friend and her roommate. From TX, a surprise and delightfully long letter came, along with some pictures, from Mary "Cush" Cushman North. Suffering from a bad back has restricted her travel, but the picture taken at a grandchild's reception in Austin, TX, shows a delightful family. A daughter and husband have moved down and they gather often. Two great-grandchildren expand her family and Cush has just gotten her 2nd computer and a digital camera. She looks forward to reading the news in the Alumni Magazine. My roommate, Natalie Slawson Goslee. and her husband, Sher, have moved to an assisted living facility in GA, to be nearer their son and family. We have chatted on the phone a few times—a big change, but then, at this stage of our lives, changes come often, don't they? Sadly, Sher passed away on Aug 5. As for your new class correspondent, Jeanne "Penny" Losey Bole, we are living in a beautiful part of the world, western MA. Dick and I have spent countless days and hours with volunteer work. No, we don't run our B&B any more, but so many who were guests now have become friends and often pop in. Any time you are in the area of Shelburne, please, call and come by. This has been a new adventure for me, using the computer and writing to all of you to ask for news so that we can have a full and interesting news column in the Fall Alumni Magazine. Thank you for taking the time to jot the tid-bits I asked for. A wonderful response, I'd say. Will you continue to let me know of news that comes your way? Let's share it with all of our class. And remember, recall it as often as you wish, for a happy memory never wears out. Just a final sad note to tell you that 3 classmates have passed on since the last issue of the Magazine. In Jan. 2001. Jean Nova Allen. in Feb. 2004. Betty Mei Yuke, and in June 2004, Phyllis Carter deNapoli. Our sincere condolences to their families.

I know how happy you all are to receive news about your classmates, because without exception, you have told me so. Therefore, come on gals, send me a postcard or a Christmas card. I love snail mail! Charlotte Epps Irion writes that after 32 years, she and her hubby are moving from VT to northern VA to be close to family. Send us your new address, Char. Joan Smith McIver and her husband of 55 years are in good health and enjoying their 4 children and 6 grandchildren. They live in Westport, CT. Suzanne Needham Houston lives a pastoral life on a hilltop in VT, surrounded by meadows, gardens and wildlife. She invites us all for a visit! Sounds wonderful. Let's see, when can I be there? Ruth Wilgus Rockwell and her husband of 57 years are retiring from their active traveling schedule to enjoy life closer to home. Ruth has sold her oil paintings of scenes in Europe. She works out twice a week and continues her study of French. They have 2 children and 3 grandchildren. Nancy Dean Maynard has 2 weddings of grandchildren this year. One is in San Francisco in June and another in MA in Oct. I hear from Nancy and Shal often. and I threaten if they don't send news for the Alumni Magazine, I'll make up something! That goes for the rest of you, and I'm very creative! I always love hearing from Shirley "Shal" Glidden Splaine, but I'm exhausted when she's through giving me her schedule. She is director of the Toy Museum her mother left the town of Ashland, and she's head of their garden group, whose tour includes her yard. However, the last e-mail I received was timed 6:54PM and she said it was 2 hours past her bedtime! She probably gets up before dawn! Jean Morley Lovett is spending her winters in Concord, NH, but goes back up to northern NH for the summers. Sounds ideal. As I write this, I am preparing to go to the Costa del Sol in Spain with the gospel choir from my church to sing at a Mission Outreach in Torremolinos. Since I am the only one in the choir with travel agent experience, guess what? It has been intense, but all seems to be in place and I'm looking forward to having a great time. We will be in the area 7 days, then my friend Gus and I are going on to Paris. Not bad, for an old gal, huh? Remember, either I hear from you, or I make something up!

Hello, Classmates! Another year; more news. Dorothy "Pam" Rice Brown said she had no summer at all. Welcome to the club! She still stays in touch with Catherine Otterman Peixotto and her husband Roland. They still reside on 40 beautiful, peaceful acres in West Topsham, VT. She and her husband have 6 grandchildren—all scattered across the US. After her days at Colby, Jean Manchester transferred to the University of Syracuse. She has worked in the book publishing world, Harcourt-Grace and Appleton-Century Cross and loved it. Jean still resides in Alexandria, VA, with her children and grandchildren nearby. Jean still finds enjoyment in doing freelance editing. Virginia Parsons Breuer called me this summer and we spoke of our terrific college days at CSC. Ginny is still active in church work—especially the choir. One of her greatest pleasures is going to the Bushnell Theatre in Hartford to enjoy the wonderful plays offered. To make the event even more wonderful Ginny has at least one of her children attend and enjoy with her! Jean Cammett Olsson resides in Lynn, MA. Jean and Olaf, her husband, enjoy their trips to FL. Her three children and four grandchildren live nearby. They are the reason Jean keeps going. Jean continues to stay in touch with Anne Foley Genest. Ramona Hopkins O'Brien has had a rough year this past year. "Hoppy" has been hospitalized for a bleeding ulcer, had a pace-

other procedures—all performed on holidays! We're glad to report that she is doing well. "Aunt Mona", as we know her, continues to visit CSC and keep up with her fellow students and write the "news". Come on, kids! Call! Write! Tell her what you're up to so she can tell the rest of us. That's it for now. Keep your updates current. We care about you and yours! Hope to see your news in our next issue!

Don't you just love surprises? I do. Helen "Abe" Abeling West e-mailed me in June (my 1st '47 CJC e-mailer) requesting an address for Cornella Fay Rendell-Wilder. She wanted to contact Cornella to set a date for a get-together. Fortunately, that information was available to me and I relayed it to her. Through e-mail, Abe and I have happily reconnected after too many years. She and her husband, Tex, have been FL residents for 20 years, having moved from Palm Beach Gardens to less "hustlier and bustlier" Tequesta when Tex no longer had to commute to Palm Beach. The Wests occasionally meet with Marilyn "Marnie" Kachel Lorish and her husband. Pete, who live a little further north in Stuart, FL. The Wests had hoped to see Barbara "Punkie" Hunt Peirson and her husband, John, this past winter while the Peirsons were vacationing on the west coast of FL. Several dates were set and unfortunately, each fell through. Better luck to them next year. Picking up on Cornella again, her joyous news of 2004 is that she became a great-grandmother through the Wilder family, after never having been a mother or a grandmother! Now, that's news! And, oh boy, is she having fun buying baby clothes when she's not teaching voice and piano, swimming, talking, and ballroom dancing twice a week. To quote her, "Life is good!" Congratulations to Betty Funk Smith (still a resident of Louisville, KY). Betty was a lucky winner during the Kentucky Derby when she placed a bet on "Smarty Jones" on a hunch because the owner of Smarty lives in Boca Grande, FL, and, of course, she won some money. Jean "Je-Je" Harding Pierce has a home in Boca Grande...hence the "hunch." Sadly, "Je-Je" lost one of her sons in Jan., a handsome 6'5"er who had been very ill for several years. We all extend our condolences to her. Happily, 2 of her others sons and families will soon be residing close to her in Boca Grande. She was reelected president of her local women's club, which evidently is a very strong organization. Good job! Occasionally, I, Marilyn Perry Sagar, hear from one or another of you requesting information to locate a fellow alumna. I, as well as the Alumni Office, happily will be of assistance. We both encourage all of you to add your name and e-mail address to the Colby-Sawyer alumni directory at www.colby-sawyer.edu. It's a great and secure Web site as well as a super communication tool. There is even a hidden mail feature to hide your e-mail address from view if you still feel nervous. Here's hoping all of you will have happy holidays and that 2005 finds you healthy, wealthy and wise! Adios, adieu, ciao, ta-ta until next time!

Barbara "Bobbie" Hamilton Hopkins and Rich reported the birth of their 8th grandchild. Hannah is 10-months-old, now walks, and doesn't miss a thing! The Hopkins' daughter, Sally, has MS, but does quite well and is blessed not to have impacted the family's lifestyle. All of the other grandchildren are healthy, happy, and doing their own thing. In the spring, Bobbie and Rich stayed in their New London vacation home and attended the Annual Spring Art Show. She noted an outpouring of town people for the preview party, some impressive works, and found the buildings and barns that comprise the Historical Society's "campus" a perfect place to display paintings. After 50 plus years, she still recognized some familiar faces. Bobbie says New London is as picturesque as ever and Mt. Kearsage is still a mighty presence. They planned to return in July for a Garden Tour and hoped to see the finished Ivey Science Center, which was well underway. Their house in New London is where their paths most frequently cross with their children and grandchildren. Each moment is joyous and a treasure, since they all live elsewhere. The Hopkins' travels continue to be mainly on their sailboat, Thursday's Child, a 30' Nonsuch. They race in Vespers in season, and leave shore as often as they can. Casco Bay is their Aug. destination. In May, they had the good fortune to go to Istanbul, a fascinating city with an Asian-European culture. before cruising some of the Greek Islands on a 26-passenger ship. In 2005, they'll chart a course for the Baltic. This fall, they plan to go to Spain for their annual bike trip. They've biked in France for a number of years and one year biked in Ireland. This activity began when the son of a close friend established a bike touring company. They signed on and can't stop now! Bobbie and Rich have many volunteer commitments in Greenwich, such as the First Congregational Church, Greenwich Hospital, Call-A-Ride, Junior League, etc. While Bobbie continues to be active in real estate, their days are filled with a balance of community involvement, treasured friendships, and time to play. They don't have time to think about age! Bobbie remarked that our last Reunion, sparsely attended as it was, is a treasured memory and before we know it our 60th will be rolling around. Hopefully there will be more to come and more to attend. Martha "Patsy" Dimmitt White and her husband, Peter, keep plugging along. They are both involved in volunteer work in the community and manage to keep very busy. Their 3 kids are all doing well. Their grandchildren are grown. Granddaughter

No more babies are presently in sight. Patsy sends her love to all of her classmates. Barbara "Barb" Hoyt Baker '49 MT says she doesn't have any exciting news. She has several physical glitches to contend with, but says who doesn't at our age? In Aug., the Bakers will visit Barb's sister, Nancy Hoyt Langbein '56, in Brunswick, ME, for a few days. She planned to drive over to New London after a visit with Joan Boyd Veazy '49 MT, who lives in Gilford, NH. In late Sept., they will be in Phoenix with their youngest son, Tab, and his 3 very athletic kids. There will be lots of games to watch. In Oct., they return to Naples, FL, for 6 months of warm weather. Bobby would like to visit old St. Augustine this winter. She thanked me for taking on the difficult job of a class correspondent. Not to worry, as long as you write. Mase and I (Phyllis "Les" Harty Wells) have spent a few weekends helping our daughter, Holly, get our oldest granddaughter, Heather, settled in Orange Park, near Jacksonville. Heather received her master's in early childhood education in May and was hired to teach kindergarten in Green Cove Springs, FL, on her very first interview. Heather knew Mase and I, Navy people, had moved 21 times, and were educated on how to settle a house fast. There I was, after 28 years, sitting on the floor, cleaning under kitchen cabinets, under the stove, and lining her cabinets and shelves. I was amazed I could still do this. Mase had a good laugh as I hung on to cabinet doors so I could get back up! In June, we took a great trip to Italy with our kids and grandkids. When Mase was a naval officer stationed in London, we often took Holly and Peter abroad, sometimes just for pleasure or Mase's NATO meetings. What fun to take our grown children and grandchildren to places we visited in the '60s. The family trip to France in 2001 was so great we decided to try again. Our Italian adventure was just our family; no other people were on this tour. In about 2 weeks time we managed to see Venice, the Dolomite mountains, Padua, Florence, Lucca, Pisa, San Gimignano, Montereggioni, Sienna, Chianti, Assisi, Sorrento, Capri, Positano, Amalfi, Ravello, Naples, Pompeii and Rome. A lot covered, but in the comfort of our 12 passenger vans with English speaking drivers and guides. Next time, we'll try Greece. Betsey Cook Willis and Dave prefer tennis to golf, but say their NC mountain area offers a great challenge to FL golfers as they have "ups and downs" that are more than 2 feet high! Betsey and Dave spent the summer downsizing from a 3,300 sq. ft. house to one about 2,000 sq. ft. The pictures are hung, the beds are made, and the porch is being remodeled. They took a great trip to Chile on a winetasting tour last March and are still waiting for several cases of wine they ordered. Luckily, they didn't have to downsize their beloved wine cellar. Mary "Oggie" Ogden Sutcliffe has slowly recovered from the shock and sadness of the tragic death of her former husband. They were still good friends and he was the father of her 3 oldest children. His wife, who had severe mental problems, killed him after many attempts. The Durango 4th of July parade and Oggie's grandchildren helped her cope. Her 5-year-old granddaughter, Dana, belongs to a Durango pony club and rode her pony, Peanut, in the parade. Dana's 2-year-old sister, Gretta, waved flags and watched her fireman dad do safety tips with a firehouse golden retriever. Oggie rode in the DAR float and then switched to the Republican Women's float. Since there are few Republicans in Durango, the women needed her help. Oggie signed up for the first ever Senior Olympics in Durango. Unfortunately, no one else signed up and it was cancelled. However, as Oggie ran most of the 5K race, she got another free t-shirt. Later in July, the Sutcliffes loaded their RV and headed for NH. Husband Herb, an active 85-year-old, plays pingpong 3 times a week and recently took up tennis. Oggie had just started a Tai Chi class, so her instructor gave her an instruction tape so she could practice on her trip to NH and MD. Mase and I were sorry to miss some fun, but we were busy the 1st week of Aug. when Carol "Shoe" Shoemaker Marck and Chuck celebrated their 50th anniversary in CO. Several CJC gals were in attendance. Our very own classmate, Emily "Emy Lu" Simson Croke, came with her daughter, son, and daughter-in-law. Carol and Chuck's 2 daughters, Margaret "Peggy" Marck Vinnenberg '76 and Christina "Christy" Marck MacCormack '82 came with their families, and their brother. Charlie, attended with his. It was a great party, with old and new friends, Shoe's cousin, Washington (DC) friends, and Snowmass acquaintances. About 70 people attended the festivities at the T-Lazy-7 Ranch, located near the base of the world famous Maroon Bells mountain peaks in Aspen. The ranch operates under a special permit from the U.S. Forest Service. It's in the 2-million-acre White River National Forest, one of the largest and oldest national forests in the Rockies. Entertainment included a country western band and line dancing, while their kids surprised them with a great video. They researched and came up with old pictures and pertinent music of their parents' time together. Each child stood up and made a speech, including their 5-year-old grandson, Jack. Shoe was tickled that the entire family had gone horseback riding and little Jack got 3rd prize in a sheep-riding contest! Their family went rafting, fishing, hiking, and biking whenever Chuck and Shoe had a rest. It was a most memorable time for all the Marcks. Their children said it was the best time they'd ever had together. The Marck's oldest grandchild, Lindsey, couldn't the butterfly in the final Olympic swimming trials. Only 3 swimmers are chosen in each category. Lindsay has her full 4 year swimming scholarship at UNC and that's the most important thing right now! Cornelia "Nini" Hawthorne Maytag also missed the festivities, as she is in CA during the month of Aug. Nini says that exciting things are happening in CO Springs! A small group, headed by a friend, is making C.S. headquarters for World Theatre! It's taken off like mad in the 1st year and has received great support. They're beginning to reap the benefits as in mid-July, a theatre festival started and starred such actors as Linda Purl. Lucie Arnaz. Eva Marie Saint, Sally Struthers, Ben Vereen, and the American Phantom of the Opera Co. The locals are getting fired up about it, as in Aug. 2005, they'll have big time theater. Plans are for 3 new different sized theaters in the mountains. Before leaving for CA. Nini went to Vail for the NY Philharmonic Orchestra and then Aspen's Annual Food & Wine Classic, where 5,000 people attended. Five friends went with her and all 6 women had a ball attending classes, eating in Aspen's wonderful restaurants, shopping, and enjoying the mountain views. The food and wine cooking classes are always great and all came home eager to hit the kitchen. Nini stays busy with Colonial Dames and garden club. She recently gave a lecture on Chinese art for 60 guests and has been asked for a repeat performance. She enjoys it and it's good for her brain cells. Nini grew up surrounded by Chinese art as her Marine Colonel father spent time in China and came back with a great Oriental collection. Another CO classmate, Priscilla "Pan" Irish Demos and George spend winters in Grand Junction and summers in the old, 10,000 ft. high, gold mining mountain town of Tincup. One of the Demos' daughters, Dori, recently moved from Phoenix to Colorado Springs. Naturally, the entire family is happy about that. Pan's excited about spending more time with 9-year-old Kyra and 6-year-old Jake, who have discovered skiing and are already fast and fearless. Pan sent along a picture of herself with her daughter, Dori, and the grandchildren in ski-clothes. I would recognize Pan any day. She has the same smile in both photos. She also enclosed a photo, taken in 1947, of Catherine "Kay" Crosby Sherman, Beverly "Bev" Hastings Shepherd, Pan, and Nini Maytag, at June Alexanderson's beach home. Does anyone ever hear from June A Starbird Brown? I've written to her several times, but never heard back. Sybil "Billie" Adams Moffat says she and Paul are content living on the shore of Lake Willoughby, VT, until Oct. and then heading "south" to Bennington for the winter. She sent along a great article about Nancy Dexter Aldrich's husband. Roger was one of the 100 World War II veterans selected to receive the prestigious French Legion of Honor Medal on June 5, the day before the 60th anniversary of the Normandy invasion. Nancy and Roger were flown to Paris first class aboard an Air France plane with all those who were selected to receive a medal. Local gendarmes escorted the motorcade of special buses to their hotels. They were able to travel at high speed as the cross streets were all blockaded. When Nancy and Roger arrived at their hotel, the staff were lined up and applauded as they walked in. The medal ceremony was held at the French Army Museum and a French General, who thanked each veteran as he pinned on the medals. Roger was a member of the 62nd Engineer Topographic Survey Platoon. His unit landed on Omaha Beach on June 23, 1944. The Aldriches were astounded by the way the French people treated them. The

give the honorees the time of their lives. Roger will never forget this honor by the French government and its people. After their chance meeting at the Balsams in NH, Jane Maynard Gibson has stayed in touch with the Moffats. She wanted to thank Paul for sending her son-in-law's brother some wonderful, helpful info on "blacksmithing." She thinks it's great that Paul can shoe a horse and Sybil can shear a sheep. When she saw them one year ago at The Balsams, both Moffats looked wonderful. Jane and Jack took off for a little jaunt to Bermuda for 8 days. When they got back, they were going to Norfolk, VA, and to tour the new air-space museum in Chantilly, VA. Jack was a Navy flier, so is so anxious to see it. They heard it is an awesome museum. Jane's kids had been visiting her in Ponte Verda. When we talked on the phone, Peter was there with his 4 children. Bet and her children visited in June. Anne and her boys had come and gone. Susan spent a week or so, too. Living in FL means vacation time for all the family. Jane reported that Beverly Williams O'Keeffe had just received a new hip. The two of them keep in touch. Jane gave her husband, Jack, a "Warbirds" flight as a gift. He flew a Corsair for an hour. He had a wonderful trainer with him and it was fun to watch him take off. He came home with a video of the whole thing...a special day since he was trained in a Corsair. What else could an old Navy man want? She asked me if my Mase would like another submarine ride. Big differences between the wild blue yonder and the deep blue sea. Sara "Sally" Ackerman Frey thanked me for all the fun and interesting news columns.

"thank you" and they wanted to

She feels fortunate, blessed, and lucky to have the means, the health, and resources to travel and to enjoy life as so many of us do. The Frey's godson's sister was married May 22 in Terrasson, France (in the Dordogne). The wedding seemed like a good event to attend so off they went on April 22. A weekend in NY and a Wagner opera at the Met was the start of a grand holiday. They sailed on the QE 2, its last eastbound Atlantic crossing, and in tandem with the Queen Mary 2, complete with fireworks, bands, fireboats and water sprays. It was quite a send-off as well as an historic event. Their week in London was perfect, complete with a day at Greenwich investigating the Prime Meridian and how Greenwich Mean Time was established. On to Paris for an odd but informative exhibit of Picasso and Ingres, whose works were being compared. A week in Provence and the Les Baux area was delightful with great sunshine and ice cream! They did get to the wedding and loved revisiting in the Dordogne and found the Lascaux II cave paintings fascinating and the surrounding landscape very beautiful. The wedding was conducted mostly in French and was held in a 14th century church, with an international collection of guests. The bride and the 2 witnesses were former students of the Freys. The bridal couple's traditional walk across the historic town's old Roman bridge was charming, and the sitdown dinner for 160 guests went on for hours. The Freys left at 2:00 a.m. with the wedding cake not yet cut. Their godson flew in from Buenos Aires, and joined aunts, uncles, relatives, friends, and the charming French family for a 3-day celebration. The Frey's mundane world is still there. They continue their volunteer work at the Memphis Central Library, St. Mary's Episcopal Cathedral, and consulting at Hutchison School. Where next? VT and CT in Oct., GA in Nov., and Eastern Europe next spring. Sally sends her best regards to all the wonderful Colby classmates in our lives! Ann Dyson Grimm and Glenn are also fine and in good health. Life perks along in CT. Ann is still painting and will have a show in the fall. She loves her work at the local art museum, while Glenn stays busy with some kind of new project each day. All 5 children and 6 grandchildren are doing great and there's not much to complain about. Sylvia Jacobs Alden sadly lost her husband, Brad, last winter. They'd been married for 53 years, so life is quite different. She's doing well and her children give her great support. Sylvia's happier note is that one of her granddaughters, Kirsten, will arrive in New London this fall to start Colby-Sawyer College. Naturally, this proud grandmother is thrilled. Our deepest sympathy goes to Sylvia and to Patricia "Pat" Anderson Schmitt. I just heard she lost her husband, Dan, in July. Virginia "Ginny" Orr Welch '48 MT, and Bob remain hale and hearty. They were guests of Bud Lethbridge, the husband of our late classmate, Helen "Tommie" Thomas Lethbridge, at the dedication of Lethbridge Lodge. Bud knew how much Tommie loved Colby Junior College and has been committed and generous to the school for years. The Welches were pleased to have some time with Bud and the Lethbridge children and grandchildren. Ginny found it great to be on campus and see all the changes that have been made. She loved seeing the park given by Jean "Je-Je" Harding Pierce '47. Charlotte Huke Canha's twin grandchildren are beautiful, healthy, happy, walking, and almost talking. Their parents were told they would never be able to have children, but went to a fertility clinic to see what could be done. Karen and Kevin were born in April 2003. At birth, the boy was a tiny 4 lb. 9 oz. baby, but at 15 months both children are very close in weight and height. During their first year, Charlotte helped out often. Now that the twins are ok, she visits once a week. Charlotte remarked that she had 3 children of her own but it wasn't until these babies came along that she realized what true miracles children are. In vitro fertilization made it possible to do the impossible.

Sally Jenkins Kimball was sorry to not be able to attend Reunion, but she was attending her granddaughter, Stephanie Kimball's, high school graduation. Sally is quite pleased that Stephanie entered Colby-Sawyer this fall. Sally keeps busy playing tennis 3-4 times per week. She is also very involved in the Harwich Garden Club and the Pilgrim Women's Fellowship at the Congregational Church. Sally reports that her children are all doing well. The oldest, Rick, has been a comptroller at Curtain Bluffs in Antigua for the past 3 years. Sally has enjoyed her visits with him at this 5-star resort. Kim (49) was re-married in Oct. He has 2 daughters, 21- and 19years-old. Sally's son, Lance, is busy making money for college for his 4 daughters. Twenty-yearold Amanda attends Mt. Holyoke College, Stephanie is at Colby-Sawyer, and Melissa is 13 and Jennifer is 9. Deb and Bob have 2 boys and live in Harwichport. Sally enjoys being able to attend their basketball games, baseball games, and tennis and karate matches. Sally has gotten together with Joanne "Judy" Brown Remington Broomhead and Evelyn Hesse Coughlin. She says it was fun to see them and they hope to do it again soon.

Happy holidays! Your classmates look forward to seeing you at our 55th Reunion, June 3-5, 2005. Susan "Sue" Morrison Mayer enjoys being a Colby-Sawyer trustee. This pleasure allows her to see and do many things relative to our college. Please return to campus for our 55th Reunion and tour the new Ivey Science Center and many other buildings and improvements. You will be amazed at our college. Sue and Gerry, of Newbury, NH, remind us that gathering together is a blessed treat for us all. Eleanor "Ellie" Morrison Goldthwait '51 MT is another of our trustees. She and Jerry are delighted with their recent move to New London, NH. With 2 trustees originating in our class, life on campus is very good indeed. Lindy Clapp Macfarland and her husband, Will, of Orchard Park, NY, wish us all a healthy and happy year. Jean Hubley Meyer of Cleverdale, NY, is now working a day a week as dental hygienist. During an office emergency she worked for 3 months on full-time schedule. She enjoyed the challenge. Recently Jean received a prize for a rose she grew herself. Dick wishes we all could be there to taste his Aug. corn. Betty Alden Parker of Mattapoisett, MA, visited China again this year. She is looking forward to travels with her new 4-wheel drive for visits with her 3 daughters and their families. They live in Danville. VT; Concord, NH; and Andover, MA. Jeanne Marquis Williams and Ron enjoy their grandchildren during the summer at home in Newbury, NH. They vacation in FL each winter. Joan Hubley Sundeen and her husband, Bob, of Manchester, NH, enjoy having their son, Rand, living just a few towns away. Virginia "Ginny" Colpitts Bowers and Buzz say hello from Orleans, MA. They are living in the home they built 16 years ago. Buzz is consulting for the Red Sox. Their 4 daughters and families, one from FL and the others in New England, are frequent visitors. Special mention is one granddaughter, who is a student at Colby-Sawyer! Ginny and Buzz very much enjoy their visits to campus. As for me, Patricia "Pat" Davis Hoffman, of Topsfield, MA, please contact me anytime with news. It is always a treat to hear from you. My son and family are in Williamsville, NY, and my daughter is in CA. Our visits are treasured. Our class of 1950 extends deep sympathy to both Bill Bowen and Bill Oaks on the deaths of Ann Roraback Bowen and Gertrude "Trudie" Riley Oaks. Both couples are remembered for their many happy times during our campus days.

I haven't much news this time. If I don't have an answer to my postcards, there is not much news. Last Jan., Jan Ten Broeck Pierce answered one of my cards and wrote that they are enjoying their family ski lodge at Waterville Valley. She now has 10 grandchildren and entertained 5 of them recently. At the time, they were heading to the Cayman Islands. Hope it was fun, Jan. I am enjoying the summer, taking short trips and painting, knitting, and doing a lot of reading. Joan White Snively hosted a delicious luncheon in late Sept. for Ruth Gray Pratt, Ellie Morrison Goldthwait, and Mary Loudon Eckert, all from New London, and Anne Rantoul Conner from Grantham. Joining them from Philadelphia was Bobbie Green Davis. The group had a wonderful time, reminiscing and looking at pictures. Barbara Easterbrooks Mailey and Sally Conner Parry attended the recent dedication of the new Ivey Science Center on campus. An amazing feature of the beautiful new building is that the colors of the walls and carpets echo the hues of Mt. Kearsarge, in different seasons. Ann Houston Conover and Roger see Ruth Gray Pratt and Paul each summer in Brewster on Cape Cod. In April they plan to get together in Venice, FL. Ann and Roger are planning to take a Panama Canal cruise. Elinor Goodrich Jones is a bird counter (hummingbirds?) for the Audubon society. Please send me your news so I can have even more to report next time. Enjoy the remainder of the fall.

Thank you to those who returned their postcards or e-mailed me. Please, though, when you e-mail me, include your last name. To those who haven't contacted me, please do so whenever. E-mail is so easy. I have one of these columns to write twice a year, so any time is great for me. Please, keep us up-to-date on your e-mail addresses. It is so much easier to communicate over the Internet. Thank you. The years seem to be flying by. Many of us are celebrating 50th wedding anniversaries or children turning 50, (heck, isn't that how old we are?) Congratulations to you all. Marion Pennock Calhoun was one of those people. All her children and grandchildren (9) went to St. Simons Island, GA. Everyone had a grand time. Mary Jane "Fritzie" Fritzinger Moeller's 3 children and their families gave Fritzie and her husband, Walt, a big bash for their 50th. Isabelle Barnett Berglund and her husband, Neil, Fritzie's neighbor, were among the guests. After a year of recuperating, this was especially appreciated. Her son. Bill. has moved to Stamford. CT. within 5 minutes of their home. This and his pending marriage are making the Moellers very happy. Joyce Philibosian Stein went to CJC for one year (1951) before attending the U of PA. She lives in Indian Wells, CA. One daughter lives in London (11 years) and the other just down the road. She has 6 grandchildren. She and her husband love to travel, play golf and listen to opera. She also celebrated 50 years of marriage. Not everyone lasts for 50 years. Patricia Simmers Thompson, too, celebrated her 50th. They are celebrating another miracle. Her son, Hugh, was diagnosed with lymphoma and had 3 months to live. Their oldest son, Boyce, Jr., was a perfect match for Hugh's stem cell transplant. He is doing well. Their daughter, Nancy, is a professor at St. Olaf in MN. I have to compliment all of you on your 50th anniversaries. It's no small miracle. Rosanne "Honey" Trilling Aronson is busy campaigning for her daughter, who is running for judge. By the time we read this, it will be over. I was sorry to hear your son passed on, Honey. So young at 48 years old. Keep up the tennis and walking. Walking is great therapy, especially along the beach here in FL. Noel

Henriques Brakenhoff has been coming to FL for a few years and finally bought a lovely home in Venice, FL. Golfing is her new challenge. Marilyn Chase drove over to the west coast to see her this winter. When Barbara "Bobbie" Smith Day-Schoen is in the RI area, Noel organizes lunch. (Bobbie comes back east to visit her mom.) Marta Marano Ackermann, Nancy "Shum" Shumway Adams, Sarah Bond Gilson, Joan Salmon Nesbit (what a trooper, all the way from Boston for lunch), Bobbie and Noel met in Stonington, CT, for lunch. I imagine wine glasses tinkled, tongues waggled and laughter lofted through the restaurant. Bobbie Smith Day-Schoen always gives 100%. The Denver Children's Hospital is only one of her causes. We are all proud of you. Keep up the great work. Bobbie and her husband, Stan. spent the night with Roger and Shum. Ingrid Mellgren Davidge and Gordon McAllen Baker '53 spent some time with Shum in May. Ingrid is happily living in Westport, MA, in a charming house. The Adams are looking forward to their trip to Jackson Hole this winter. Mimi Bentley Burton says hello to everyone. Mimi and Neil have 3 grandchildren. She has been unable to come to any of our reunions, as they seem to have always had a trip planned. They are ornithologists and travel around the world (Alaska, Belize and Galapagos) to observe their feathered friends. She and Neil just came back from the Baltic, where they were studying their history (as she says, "we need a balance"). Mimi just had a visit from Patricia Caswell Dey and her husband, KV. She reports the Deys look great. Patty, glad to hear that all is well. Joan Rablin Keppler lives nearby, but Mimi hasn't seen her yet. Ingrid Mellgren Davidge reports that Shum is still working as a sales rep for a lovely knitting yarns company, and whenever she is in the southeast area, she stops in. Mary Anne "Mia" Lutz Mackin and her husband, Tom, went to the Newport Flower Show in June with Ingrid. Ingrid and her husband, Ed, are off to Greece in the fall. I recently talked to Marilyn Chase. She summers in Hendersonville, NC. Marilyn is escaping the humidity and playing much golf. She will be back in Tequesta, FL, in mid-Oct. She plans to visit some of her old haunts in VT and NH, and also plans to spend a night with Shum. Sally Hueston Day is the proud great-grandmother of 4 great-grandsons. She is a volunteer at her church and Sister Cities of Myrtle Beach, SC. I love it, Sally and husband Richard stay busy doing who knows what! Seems I'm always busy doing who knows what. At least she does travel. While in NY for the summer. Ann Dovle Gramstorff and her husband. Herb, took their family to AK. Herb had his 55th reunion from Dartmouth. Donna Oosting Muenzberg '49 and Joan Hamilton Sweetland '49 were there with their husbands. Since then. Herb has had some medical problems and they had to return to FL. Barbara "Bobbie" Freeman Jones '52/'53 joins our many classmates who love to hit the road. They have been to the British Isles, Poland, Scandinavia, Italy, Middle East, China, Canada, Australia and New Zealand, and hope to do much more. The Jones spend half their time in CA and the other on the Jersey Shore. They have 3 granddaughters, who are all athletes. We are sorry to hear that Joan "Joanie" Rablin Keppler's husband, Bob, passed away in Aug. Joanie packed up her 2 German Shepherds and took off for CA to be near her 3 grandchildren. Good job, Joanie. She is looking forward to connecting with Mimi Bentley Burton and Donna Robb Trask. "Life is good," according to Polly Black Koerner '52/'53. Sounds as if Polly and her husband, John, keep pretty active at their Lake George home, golfing and kayaking. I think the 11 grandchildren alone would keep anyone busy. We have a real pro in our midst. Claudette La Bonte has been a member of the Ladies Professional Golf Association since 1965 and a master professional since 1982. She was the golf pro at The Country Club of New Seabury and most recently at Southport on Cape Cod, which has been voted one of the top 100 master planned communities in America. She lives on the Cape for 7 months with an old friend, and then winters in Lakeland, FL. I'd say life is good for Claudette. Mary Lanius has retired, but is still teaching 2 classes at the U of Denver. So many of you say you've retired, but keep it up, ladies. In Oct. Mary is off to India for a trip in the Himalayas and then to a meeting in New Delhi. Mary is working with a group of women to raise $2 million for an endowment for the Hotel de Paris Museum in Georgetown, CO. It will be the first property associated with the National Trusts in the Rocky Mountains. Anyone who is interested can e-mail Mary at mclanius@aol.com. Judy Chamberlain Nickerson retired 2 years ago from an assisted living facility in Falmouth, MA. but is still involved. She is getting more involved with her church and the Red Hat Ladies. Judy has 11 grandchildren. As Judy reports, there are quite a few Colby girls on the Cape. Adrienne Pease Guptill '55 has recently moved to Southport in Mashpee. Janica Walker McDonough is still working at Harwich Realty on Cape Cod. Yvonne Kuehndorf Speidel and Judy Fowle Hinds rent from Jan's office. Remember that. It is always good to have a contact on the Cape for rentals. Those of you on the Cape give Judy a call and plan a get together. Her e-mail is mimi11@gis.net. For those who have wondered what happened to Joan Comeskey Whiting, she lives in Hernando, FL. "Comesk" has been here for 81/2 years. She has 13 grandchildren. Before moving to FL, she lived in NJ. I am writing this last bit of our class news the Sunday after Charlie hit Punta Gorda, FL. I do hope June Niedner Bernoth (Punta Gorda) and Mary J. Erickson (Marco Island) haven't suffered too much loss. My niece has been with me. They left Punta Gorda at 1:00 just ahead of the hurricane. All their windows and doors were blown out. All the tiles on their roof are gone. I hope June and Mary let us know how they fared. M. Jane 'MJ' Montgomery is looking forward to her annual get together with Virginia "Ginny" Erb McGinley and her husband, Rick, in ME in Aug. MJ, please give Ginny our best. What good sports she and Rick were at our Reunion. I felt so badly when they missed the boat ride after that long drive. Margaret "Peg" Kunkel Ploss is a vice president of the Wilton (CT) Play Shop. They run a full course on musicals, mysteries and comedies. Peg is a member of the Berkshire Festival Chorus and she just came back from England, where they gave a concert at the Canterbury Cathedral. Her group comes from all over the world. Janet Udall Schaefer met with President Anne Ponder on June 3. Anne gave her a tour of the marvelous new Ivey Science Center. It was in the final stages of construction, so it will be in use this fall. "What a fantastic addition to the campus," said Janet. Rosamond "Bunny" Hubbard Shillito will be moving to Chapel Hill, NC, in Sept. Patricia "Patty" Caswell Dey is there, Bunny. Look her up. Sally Smith Miller is now permanently located in Hiawassee, GA. She loves the small town atmosphere and living on the fringe of the Smoky Mt. Nat. Park. She plays lots of bridge, and welcomes any visitors. I will be in Wilton, CT, for Thanksgiving and Christmas this year. Previously I've been in Tucson, AZ, with my daughter, Margo, her husband and her 2 girls, 9 and 11, and in Scottsdale with my mom for New Year's Eve. This year my youngest daughter, Penelope, is having her first baby, due on my birthday, Nov. 29. I will be in CT for the holidays with my other 2 girls and older grandchildren, 19 and 23. The girls are all excited to be having a baby boy, George Arthur, in the family. Mary Jane "Fritzie" Moeller is making an album of our classmates who have passed on. She would like to include some words of interest to highlight that person. Please, as you read In Fond Memory, if you have something special for Fritzie, send it on to her. Her e-mail is mimoelle@adelphia.net or you can reach her at 13 Summit Lane, Queensbury, NY, 12804. Finally, Nancy MacCalla Bazemore '51 sent me an article regarding Cynthia Donoho Ensor. Cynthia passed away peacefully May 13, 2004, with her family by her side. She was a volunteer with Fauguier Hospital and a rider with the Warrenton Hunt. While riding in 1972 she suffered injuries and was paralyzed when her horse fell. Memorial contributions may be made to the Fauquier SPCA, Inc., PO Box 733, Warrenton, Virginia 20188-0733. Deborah Dettenborn Cheney passed away July 23, 2004, in Pendleton, OR. She was survived by a son, a daughter and 4 grandchildren. Be happy. Looking forward to more of your cards.

The 51st reunion continues to resonate happily for our classmates. Martha Funk Miller reminds us that returning to the CSC Reunion is a wonderful way to see old friends and enjoy the beautiful campus and town of New London. Great memories, and accolades for the Ivey Science Center. Gordon McAllen Baker enjoyed seeing Agnes Lind Werring '54 at the reunion and plans to see Sarah "Sae" Bond Gilson when she comes to NH. Gordon and Barbara "Bobbi" Johnston Rodgers attended the 50th Reunion for the class of 1954, reminiscing with Margot Thompson, Mozell Zarit, Mary Balzac, Sandra Davis Carpenter, Claire Mufson Carter, Jean Cragin Ingwersen, Anne Dwyer Milne, and Sally Roesser Johnston, among others. Bobbi visited Barbara Young Camp and Ann Radcliff Stephenson in PA. Reunions with classmates continued for Jane Pearl Dickinson and Janet Arminio Connolly in PA and NYC, and in CT for Gordon McAllen Baker, Nancy Shumway Adams '52 and Ingrid Mellgren Davidge '52. Travel continues to be the benchmark of our class! Gordon McAllen Baker treks annually to the Great CT Jazz Festival. She visited Crater Lake, OR, with her son and family, and made a nostalgic trip to Turkey, where her missionary great-grandparents are buried. Barbara "Bobbi" Johnston Rodgers celebrated a new grandson in San Franciscoher 5th grandchild! Suzanne Betts Burrell's RV travels from her home on Cape Cod to North Naples for the winter. She enjoys visits with her 6 grandchildren on the ocean at Brant Rock. Following an emergency appendectomy, Joan Vincent Donelan toured Switzerland with her granddaughter, seeing her daughter, Linda, and family. Carolee "Chiz" Chisholm Miller climbed Mt. Kearsarge last year. This year she biked Prince Edward Island with her 14-year-old granddaughter and her daughter-in-law. She also completed a walking tour of Yorkshire England. Chiz has 3 teenage grandchildren in MA and CO, plus horses, dogs and cats. Elizabeth La Gorce Kramer biked from Salzburg to Vienna with the VT Biking Tour group. "Working full time does interfere a bit with training, but I can always walk," she says. She is a docent for the new Smithsonian Art Museum, scheduled to open in 2006. Her children have presented her with grandchildren and step-grandchildren and an incredible menagerie of animals. Time passes a bit too quickly for Mary Heinrich Curran, between 11 grandchildren, summers on Canandaigua Lake, and winters in Naples, FL. For the past 50 years Joyce Luckett Sturdy's old family home on Long Island, NY, has been a summer escape. Winters are spent in Cohasset, MA, with visits from her 6 children and 15 grandchildren. Barbara Young Camp welcomed her 10th grandchild and moved to her dream house near her grandchildren in Malvern, PA. Margaret "Peggy" Magoun Rothrauff visited her preschool grandchildren in Dallas, TX, and Berkley, CA. The 3 teenagers live fifteen minutes away. Jean Owen Izard's 14 grandchildren range from 2 years old to college age. Sonia Collom Oram's daughter graduated from Princeton with a degree in anthropology. Her younger daughter in AZ has 2 preschoolers. All of Jane Borden Brogden's children and grandchildren from ID, NJ and ME joined her at Duck Key, FL, for her and Grant's 50th anniversary. "Enter to Learn, Depart to Serve" continues to inspire and motivate our classmates. Suzanne Betts Burrell volunteers at the Cape Cod Museum of Natural History and is a member of the South Side Civic Assoc. Life is good for Katharine Purrington. During tax season, she volunteers with AARP in Williamsburg, VA. Retired for 6 years and taking classes, she traveled to Australia, Africa and Italy. Sandra Sharp Rhodes sold her home to the retirement community next door and is renting it back. What a great plan! She winters in Mexico and enjoys 6-wicket croquet. Lois Holt Rodenburg vacations in Weare, NH, near Colby-Sawyer! She enjoyed a Mediterranean cruise around Italy and Monaco. She has 16 grandchildren and her first great-grandchild is on the way! She stays in touch with Nancy Stern Steiner, Francie Heberton Hannafin, and her CJC roommate, Pat Perry. Lois works 3 days a week doing insurance physicals. Barbara Fenn

Wysession thinks often of the 50th Reunion and hopes we all can do it for our 60th! She created a painting of Lake Sunapee just before a thunderstorm and it was displayed at the Randolph, NH, Town Hall. Barbara has 2 grandchildren. Vicki Sawdon Banghart works part time in a gift shop in a restored mill in Elkhart Lake, WI, but found time for an escape to Hilton Head. Her 9 grandchildren are in WI, IL and IA. For the past 25 years Sue Murdock Rogan has worked full time as a realtor and is a grandmother of 7 grandchildren from preschoolers to teenagers. She still, however, finds time to enjoy her hobbies. Susan "Sue" Wiesner Bray escapes the icy north in FL. She took off 2 years for a successful removal of a spinal tumor and is back to work as a general liquidator, lecturer and appraiser. Her daughter in Hanover, NH, and her son's horse farm keep her busy. The entire family will be together for Sue and Watson's 50th anniversary. Myrna Perry Heald and her husband, Henry, recently celebrated their 51st anniversary. They have 6 grandchildren—one in college and 5 college graduates. "They are great kids and they have brought us much pleasure," says Myrna. For the past 22 years Myrna has worked part time for an insurance agency, scheduling her work around golf and wintering in Sun City Center, FL. Marsha Halpin Johnson '59 had the wonderful idea to offer New London alumni homes as B&B's, with a modest charge donated to CSC's Annual Fund! For the CSC 2004 Reunion, Carolyn Nagel Kaufman hosted Pam Carpenter Welch '74 and her daughters. Tracy Rickers Siani sang with 29,000 Estonians in their song festival. She traveled to St. Peterburg, a spruced up city, celebrating their 300th anniversary. She said the city was overwhelming in artistic scope and shining with gold spires and statues. But it was good to return to Jupiter, FL. "A winter escape to FL; a spring cruise of the rivers of Europe; back to work on a young adult novel; in the middle of a collaboration for a staged musical; (gulp) giving my first public lecture in over 6 years; and with 5 fantastic grandchildren, life is grand," says Tracy. And it wouldn't be CJC '53 without an update on our twins: Jane Carpenter Patterson and Edyth "Edie" Carpenter Sapp. Edie escapes the AZ summers, joining Jane in her FL golfing community for some "very special sister/ sister time." The twins even bought a small fishing boat. I am so inspired by the positive energy of our classmates. Editor's Note: A special thank you, to Margaret "Peg" Lewis Moreland who served as 1954 class correspondent for many years.

The planning and anticipation of the 50th Reunion Weekend of the class of 1954 has come and gone, but the group picture, snapshots, class Reunion booklet, souvenirs and memories live on. A smaller turnout than we had hoped for, plus hearing a name mentioned now and then asking if a friend or roommate had been seen was the only disappointment when we learned she had not signed in. You see, you were missed. Everyone received a weekend program guide of things to see and participate in that the CSC Alumni Office staff had planned. Members took in tours the Abbey living room to cheer Smarty Jones gallop to the finish line. The college has new building sites to check out, but made our old Abbey Hall residence feel right at home with the same furnishings we lived with 50 years ago! We appreciate these notes sent in to inform classmates who were not able to attend Reunion about their impression of the campus, activities they enjoyed, and the people they met. Many notes used the word "wonderful" or "terrific" and people were pleased with how the campus appeared and how good we looked as well. And, we weren't the oldest there either, as you will probably read about in these pages! The reunion committee was also commended for putting a great weekend together. Agnes Lind Werring from Norway, who had the longest travel route to CSC, wrote that she had Arline Soderberg Ely to thank for convincing her to come to Reunion. She said it was grand to see classmates again, and she was impressed with what she saw around the campus. A few of us, including Agnes, brought our old CJC pins and mementos we had kept over the years. Even Libby Moss Phillips donated her Colby jacket for display among the other pictures and newspaper articles on posters for the Abbey living room. Margot Thompson wrote back that what was special for her was seeing the Class of 1954 Classroom in the new Ivey Science Center. Jean Cragin Ingwersen added that the science center is a "superb building;" both feel we should be very proud to have contributed to a large corner classroom with a view of the mountains. Elizabeth Laidlaw sent us a snap of the classmates standing inside the

and receptions, and gathered in room—a few looking at the camera, some visiting with each other, some walking toward the group to be in the picture. There were two surprised correspondents who were so busy visiting other people and places that they missed it and found they were locked out! We live nearby, so we'll have another chance and maybe even attend the dedication ceremony. Thanks, Betts, for a peek in the room. Margot continued her note about having a pleasant time touring NH with Anne Dwyer Milne after Reunion. She had a chance to visit some "old haunts" like Cannon Mountain. In Sept., she could be seen around Cape Cod, and in Nov., there was a planned early 70th birthday celebration in HI. Happy birthday from all of us! Anne noted she thought everyone looked wonderful in our golden years and what a good variety of activities to choose from at Reunion. Helen Johnson Sargent noted, "a grand time was had by all." She especially enjoyed being with Nancy Paige Parker, who also wanted to thank everyone who worked so hard on the Reunion to make it so special. Helen enjoyed being with Carol Nelson Reid, too, and renewing acquaintances with other classmates and exchanging information. "Accolades to the committee for its outstanding efforts and enjoyable results. We all share great pride in having graduated from Colby-Sawyer College so long ago and seeing our college progress so well under the able direction of Anne Ponder. Check out the Colby-Sawyer web site, it is excellent!" Pat Jezierny Short wrote about the campus looking so good and the very informative tour given by one of the students. We agree with Pat, who said "the planned programs and food were great, but the best part was seeing old classmates." Nancy Brown Cummings enjoyed seeing classmates not seen in many years, plus all of the new buildings on campus. She enjoyed the evening dinner cruise on "beautiful Lake Sunapee." Carole Binney Haehnel '55 MT came from VT just for this event and found other '55 MT classmates Sandra Davis Carpenter, Jane Shoemaker Storm, Nancy Sellers Mion, Sally

Roesser Johnston, Mozell Zarit, and Mary Balzac with whom to share a table. Nancy finished off her note with plans for the summer at their cottage on Newfound Lake with the family, except for a trip to St. Maarten in the Caribbean for a 50th anniversary celebration. Mary Balzac wrote several pages about her entire trip, the growing excitement and anticipation while flying north from the Bahamas and being met by Sandra Davis Carpenter and Bernie Carpenter in Boston. Driving north the next day, they picked up Mozell Zarit and after arriving in New London they began to take in just about everything they could from the program, and had a few more ideas up their sleeves. Registration and packets containing nametags and information; enjoying an outdoor picnic under a tent on the quad, and meeting and greeting classmates came first. It was Mary's first visit since graduation and as she looked over the campus, she discovered the trees had grown tall, but wondered what happened to the woods with the trail they used to ski over to the top of the New London slopes with its rope tow and wood stove heated warming hut? Later, while walking around the campus, first visiting Screw Ball Alley, as they called it in Colgate, she saw the assigned room that she shared with Marjorie Dexter Ayars. Shepard's 3rd floor triple also had to be seen. She added they were sad that roommate Jane Doherty Johnson couldn't have been part of the weekend. Cocktails were enjoyed at a reception held at President Ponder's garden, where it was remembered only tea was served by Dr. and Mrs. Sawyer. Enjoying the dinner cruise on Lake Sunapee on a lovely warm evening completed the first day's events. Saturday morning began with breakfast at a round table at the Commons by the windows while watching younger alumni participate in the Reunion 5K Fun Run/Walk. That was followed by a drive up Mt. Kearsarge. Back on campus, we attended the Alumni Association's annual meeting, where President Ponder presented a strategic planning process. Then came a 1954 class tour of the new Ivey Science Center and a buffet lunch in Lethbridge

Lodge (the Colbytown Camp building). The afternoon consisted of campus tours in golf carts driven by Colby-Sawyer students-new dorms, the library put together out of 2 pre-Civil War barns, and the Hogan Sports Center. Their group squeezed in a quick tour of the local shops around town before returning to campus to dress for class photos, the cocktail hour and the Gala Reunion Banquet in the dining room of the Ware Campus Center. Here we learned that our class had the most attendees, tied with the class of 1999. Following dinner, the group returned to Abbey living room, where a quiz was used to recall memories. It was then that Mary remembered snow pudding with lemon sauce! Then came Sunday, which involved breakfast and packing up. It seemed to everyone the final day came so quickly. They enjoyed one more visit to Reunion Headquarters to peruse the old vearbooks and reminisce. Then it was time to join others for a Service of Remembrance with music by Alumni Director Gaye LaCasce and her family, in honor of our 32 deceased classmates. Following Myrtle Westhaver Flight's luncheon, it was time to leave for home. Mary's letter ended, "Sandra started the CD of The Buzzin' Dozen, and we listened to "Mood Indigo," "The Naughty Lady of Shady Lane," and the voice of Dr. Sawyer as we rode back to Boston." Mary said she was so grateful that Sandra encouraged her to come to Reunion. Her letter sounded as though she took home memories of a very wonderful and eventful time. Thoughts that have been stored away of college life and good experiences return in such a setting, and remain with us a bit longer. Thanks for sharing your Reunion Weekend letter with us, Mary. Janet Rich Nixon enjoyed sharing the experience of dorm life again with her wonderful roommate, Maria "Tweet" Tweedle Anderson. Janet sent in 2 pictures, one taken 50 years ago in Aspen, CO, on an adventure in which 4 seniors traveled in Jean Cragin Ingwersen's new car during spring break. They stopped at Louise "Weezie" Moser Stoops' home outside of

for a required 1,000 mile auto check up. Then moving on to Denver, CO, where Mozell Zarit's parents welcomed them overnight following the 52 hour drive. Later, they had a chance to visit Colorado Springs and the U. of Boulder, where Mozell's brother fixed the girls up with dates for the Greek Ball at the Glenn Miller Ballroom. Finally, arriving in Aspen for skiing, they were surprised to meet the members of the Dartmouth ski team on the slopes! The 4 classmates sat for a current picture at Reunion and are pleased to be able to share their "then and now" pictures and story. Reunion Weekend was extended due to the invitation from Myrtle Westhaver Flight to meet at her large screenedin porch on Lake Sunapee on Sunday. A luncheon was prepared for the group and tales and ideas were shared that could have gone on all day. If traveling wasn't a concern, we would have gotten better acquainted by lingering there into the afternoon. Myrtle has many activities she plans to check out, from sports to painting and considering writing another book. Many thanks to you and your son for your hospitality. Margaret "Peg" Lewis Moreland, who was unable to attend our Reunion, is the New London archivist and has the assistance of 2 other people. She is now on a committee to fill out a form for the First Baptist Church to be on the State Historic Preservation Register. Stored away are photographs of the building that Peg has catalogued, to assist in the project. She spent time in ME in June and in Sept., she was off on a trip to Ireland. Glenice Hobbs Harmon enjoyed Reunion and renewing old friendships. She was lucky enough to find a Colby Academy yearbook with several pictures of her father, who was president of his class, and the alumni staff was most helpful in producing some copies for her to take home. There were many yearbooks available in the reception area to thumb through, plus displays and items to purchase and always refreshments and tables and chairs to sit and relax and catch classmates as they registered or moved about. Glen had a pleasant surprise during the summer where she lives in Windham, NH. At the closing of the June local garden club, where she and her husband, Vic, are members, they were presented with the Golden Trowel Award for achievement and service. Their club also won the National Garden Club's top award for a 170-page handbook for gardening in southern NH. Two other items not mentioned: the CSC staff decorating the dining hall with flowers and candlelight table settings, tiny white lights around the poles and buffet tables were arranged to tempt the eyes to try everything. There was a toast with wine, happy conversation around the tables and ended with introductions and short speeches at the end of the dinner. We were surrounded by other groups celebrating their reunions as well. Entertainment and class get-togethers followed the banquet. Also, no one mentioned anything about the husbands who attended Reunion, except Pat Short. Some we met who attended were Jim Cobban, Ted Short, Bob Howard, Dave Chick, Wendell Phillips, Jon Holstine, John Mion, and Jack Reid. We may have missed a couple, but they all appeared to have enjoyed life on the hill for a few days and they gave their support and enthusiasm to the activities as well. From around the country, we hear that Jean Samuels Stephens is teaching drama and has 1 of 3 grandsons attending Lawrenceville in NJ. Still going strong with involvement as president of Princeton English Speaking Union, National Travel Chairperson of ESU, and on the National Student Exchange Committee. Jean also finds time with the alter guild at her church. Barbara Knight Price enjoys living in a senior community in Carlsbad, CA, where she is involved with the activities that are available there. A good camper, she introduced the experience to her grandson, Daniel, age 16, during the summer with a trip to Sequoia National Park. She added that it's been 10 years since her husband, Jack, had a heart transplant at UCLA. Nancy Fish Perior wrote that she was sorry to miss Reunion and seeing everyone. She seemed to think that the summer was warmer in Venice, FL, this year-maybe it was—as a lot of the hot, humid weather was leaking back up to the north country more often! Nancy said they are enjoying the grandkids and watching them grow up. Only a few words from Jane Turner Machain this time, to say that they were dividing their time between Gilford and Freedom, NH, for the summer. Janet Hofmann Hansen wrote a note to tell us that she and Tobev were having a wonderful summer in Harbor Springs, MI. They had experienced a cooler summer there with temperatures ranging from the 40s to 90 degrees. Their CA hometown is a busy place, but the town in MI has no traffic lights or fast food restaurants and she adds that it is very refreshing. How many of you have pictured yourself crossing the Atlantic on the Queen Mary II? Check with someone who has sailed to England during the past summer. Jane Potter Nelson enjoyed calm seas to South Hampton and then she and her husband motored to one of their favorite spots in Portloe near Truro, in Cornwall, for an extended visit. Nov. will find them once again at Amelia Island, FL, for the winter. She sends "best wishes to everyone." Jo-Anne Greene Cobban and her husband, Jim, spent late June visiting the cities of St. John and Fredericton, New Brunswick, Canada and all around Nova Scotia's coastline, with a stay in Halifax to see the International Tattoo. (Jim's Scottish heritage calls him back.) To see it while the lupine is in full bloom in soft pastel colors along the highway is the best time. We were glad to hear from Barbara Rogers Berndt from NC, who indicated it was a long hot summer there. Last year she experienced a broken ankle and this past Aug. it was surgery for her rotator cuff.

"Right shoulder and of course,

sewing for a while." Barbara had good news about her oldest son, Ed, and his wife, Robin, who have 3 girls (18, 15, and 11). They entertained a sister, age 9, and brother, age 7, from a Russian orphanage and, with the necessary paperwork to adopt Annya and Pasha, expected to travel to Siberia in Nov. to complete the adoption and pick up the children. Ida Cuneo Brandt writes, "Remember? Camaraderie among the girls, raccoon coats, playing bridge, knitting argyle socks, trips to Dartmouth, movies 'downtown,' snow sculptures, Mountain Day, the Maypole, good classes and teachers, but most of all a wonderful roommate and dear friend, Carolyn Hawley Burke." Joan Batchelor Brown in NH entertained her twin sister. Anne Batchelor De Grazia from Augusta, GA, during the summer and invited Jo-Anne Greene Cobban and Glenice Hobbs Harmon for an afternoon of dinner, photos, stories and a walk to the town park and waterfall. If we counted right, there were 45 classmates that sent in a page of news and snapshots of themselves and family for the Reunion booklet. Some of you sent in a request to have one mailed to you, but if you didn't and are now interested, you could check to see if there are any left at the Alumni Office. Thank you to all who participated in that project; they were all very nicely prepared and you made them very interesting. Emily Spencer Breaugh was sorry to have missed Reunion, but was so glad to receive her copy of the Reunion booklet. She said they have made plans to enjoy a cruise to Nova Scotia in Sept., leaving from NY. Joan Dryden May wrote in that she was pleased to receive a copy of the Reunion booklet and what fun it was to read about the experiences of each person has had since college days and to look at the pictures sent with the writeups. There were 35 members at a May family reunion over the 4th of July in Charlevoix, MI, coming from around the country. For Sept., she planned a visit to her family home in Charlottesville, VA. that has been turned into an historical house that dates back

I'm right-handed," she said. "Oh

joy! There goes my knitting and to 1775. She has not seen the property since college days. While in the area she and Mike will include a visit to the homes of Thomas Jefferson and James Munroe. Oct. was devoted to visiting children who live in Mendham, NJ, and Bloomington, IN. Mail was returned from Janet Dodge Neff in Gilmanton, NH. If anyone knows her whereabouts, please notify us. Be sure to let CSC know your change of address if and when any of you plan to move. We had to check on the address for Shirley Marshall, who lives in Goffstown, NH. She had attended the Reunion held 10 years ago, but the 50th wasn't in the cards due to limited mobility. Asking how she spends much of her time, we learned that she is an avid reader—historical and biographical books, noting the titles she had lined up to read. Letters and notes are nice to receive, but having a chat over the phone is even better. The tennis players met again in Aug. at the summer cottage of Anne Dwver Milne. Included were Natalie Langley Webster, Sandra Davis Carpenter, Jean Cragin Ingwersen, Jane Shoemaker Storm, and Sarah Bond Gilson. Probably the next issue will include stories of skiing together! Is it true that "old friends make the best friends?" One note signed off by saying, "See you at the 55th Reunion." That is a good positive sentiment to think about!

I am so glad to be back with you all and report on your news. I did not have a very good response from the postcards, but do continue to send me your news. I had a marvelous telephone conversation with Allison "Sunnie" Barker Chapell, who lives in Fairfield, CT. I was sorry to hear that her husband was sick. Sunnie has a son, who is married with 2 children. Sunnie has been involved in a lot of activities, mostly music. She hopes to spend more time in Fayston, VT, where they have another home. I wish you the best, Sunnie. It was also fun to hear from Barbara Zeigler Bugbee. Barbara and Jon moved from their 8-bedroom house in Merion. PA. to a condo. I was sorry to hear that their 2 oldest children had died, but their 2 youngest are living nearby. She and Jon are retired and now have time to spend at their cottage in ME. Yes, Barbara, I will call you when I am in Philadelphia. I was glad to hear from Patricia "Patti" Cook Cohen. Patti owns Derby Farm Flowers in Hanover, NH, which is a flower, gift, garden and baby shop. She lives in N. Sutton, NH, just 5 miles from Colby-Sawyer College. In the last issue of our Alumni Magazine, there was a picture of Patti with her classmates form Swampscott High School. Patti has 3 children. and 7 grandchildren. Her best pal is her Jack Russell Terrier. In 2003. I celebrated my 50th reunion for Agnes Irwin School, in Rosemont, PA. I, like Patti Cook Cohen, had classmates who went to Colby also. Barbara Beecher Clark and Sandra Reiger Ryan were there. I did not get a chance to talk to them, but it was fun to see them again. Sadly, our classmate, Frances Judson Kennedy, died of cancer in Park City, UT. A memorial service was held at a Quaker Meeting House in Haverford, PA, on July 19. A note from Martha Dodge Gould Altemus said that she had relocated to NH about 5 years ago after living in Sedona, AZ, for 15 years. Her husband died 2 years ago. Her only child is living nearby. I just got word from Augusta "Gussie" Crocker Stewart '56 that they have moved into a townhouse in Sudbury, MA, but still own their summer home in Manchester. As for me, Diane Longmaid Kelly, I have graduated from Bible College. I am very active with the UCC Church and am president of the Southwest District of CT. I had 2 beautiful art experiences in VT and NY this summer. Diane reports that her high school planned to hold an alumnae art show this fall, and she entered 6 of her colored pencil works. She'll also be represented at a show in Greenwich, CT. I am also gallery liaison on the board of the Rowayton Art Center, where I volunteer whenever they need me. Blessings to you all and keep me posted. A note from the Alumni Office—your 50th Reunion planning committee is hard at work to make your Reunion weekend an outstanding and absolutely memorable one. Plan to spend June 3-5 at Colby-Sawyer with all your classmates; bring your spouses, friends, or family; call your big sister or little sister to invite her—it's an All-College Reunion, and everyone is welcome!

Nancy Hoyt Langbein 2 Appletree Drive Brunswick, ME 04011 (207) 729-3879 e-mail: wlang@blazenetme.net

Nancy Hoyt Langbein is recovering nicely from a knee replacement she had done in July. She encourages all of you to keep in touch with her, submit notes, etc. Betty Boyson Tacy and her husband, Stu, continue to work in their own business with their son, Stu Jr. They feel very fortunate to have all 3 of their children living nearby. They now have 4 grandchildren, ages 10 months to 9 years old. The youngest, Isabel Love, was born the day of Hurricane Isabel. The Tacys spend as much time as possible at the new home they built at Goose Rocks Beach, near Kennebunkport, ME. Fortunately, the computer allows them to do business from both NJ and ME. Betty says they think about retirement, but not hard enough to really take the final step. Pat Anderson Little reports that she is still working at the Acton Library in Old Saybrook, waiting for her husband to decide he wants to retire. They spent 2 weeks this summer at their family cottage in MI. Their daughter, Amy, and her 4-year-old son, Aidan, came from Memphis to spend 1 week with them. "There's nothing like having a 4-year-old in the house," says Pat. "He spent most of his time in the water, feeding the chipmunks bags of shell peanuts, and watching the deer." Pat sends along the following message to Nancy Hoyt Langbein: "Hang in there, kiddo. I had a hip replaced in 1997, and the word for the day was exercise. It gets better every day, believe me." Nancy Whitaker Lazarchik was enjoying a summer tour of the New England states when she and her husband decided to stop by Colby-Sawyer and the Alumni Office. They took a tour of the campus and enjoyed lunch in the dining hall. Nancy encourages all classmates to attend the 50th Reunion next year. Sarah Clemence Hardy and her husband, Dick, spent part of their summer enjoying a 3-week tour of China, including Beijing, Xian, 7 days on the Yangtze River, Lenming, and then Bangkok and Hong Kong. Their last trip to China was 16 years ago, so they were amazed at the changes. In May, Sarah and Dick enjoyed a visit with Anne Conner Wood and her husband. Dick. in NC. The Hardys were en route from FL on their boat. "Inspiration." Pat Thornton still goes back and forth between her condo in Cambridge, MA, and her cabin just outside of New London. "I have greatly enjoyed my involvement with Colby-Sawyer over the years, and I hope our class has a great turnout for our 50th Reunion in June 2006. Yes, the college is growing and has changed, but the friendly atmosphere remains and our excellent reputation continues to spread. I hope to see a lot of classmates in June 2006," writes Pat. In Oct. 2001, Karen Fowle Johnson retired after a 30-plus year career with United Airlines. "My years with United allowed me to live in a number of great places—Honolulu, Atlanta, Orlando, Atlanta (a 2nd time), and finally northern VA, where I worked at Dulles International Airport as an international concierge. It has also afforded me the opportunity to travel extensively over the years, and to meet many interesting people from all over the world," writes Karen. She currently lives in Potomac Fall, VA, and she spends her free time doing volunteer work at Wolf Trap National Park for the Performing Arts and for Travelers Aid at Dulles Airport. Karen still finds time to travel quite a bit, and her last big trip was in Dec. to Ireland for a wedding in an Irish castle. Sadly, Karen reported that her longtime friend, Patsy Miller Bennett, passed away in April. Patsy leaves 2 children. Carole Bennett and Jim Bennett, Jim's wife, Michelle, and their daughter, Emily. Marsha Smoller Winer keeps busy playing bridge, working out at the gym, reading and traveling. In May, she and her husband, Nate, enjoyed a trip to Venice and the Veneto (the countryside of Venice). Before embarking on that trip, they made a stop in Boston to see Marsha's sister, Corinne Smoller

Goldstein '52, and her family. In Aug., the Winers were in Chicago, where Marsha was able to visit with her dear friend since grade school and Colby classmate, Phyllis Leader Paladino. Marsha reports that her husband is out of retirement once again and is working 4 days a week as an independent contractor for a chemical company in Gardena, CA. Marsha's son, Andy, is an attorney living in HI. Son Dan is working toward his master's in sports psychology and lives near Oakland, CA, and their daughter, Ellen, is head of ticket sales for the San Diego Padres. All 3 of their children are married, but no grandchildren as of yet!

I am writing this column in Aug. during a hot spell in Sacramento —l05 degrees—ouch! Pam Senn Anderson wrote, "It's been a long time since we were romping through Burpee Hall and 'flying' over to Hanover! I cannot tell you how shocked I was to find that my roommate, Sandy Neary Braddish, passed away. I had met her and her husband, Dave, in the Keys about 7 years ago where they were renting a timeshare. I am well and so happy here in Ft. Lauderdale. I have 2 grandchildren, Ricky (11) and Lauren (8). They only live about an hour 15 minute drive, so I see them often. I recently purchased a condo in Naples and plan to move over to the West Coast about a year from now. Ft. Lauderdale is really 'rocking' with people these days with high rises going up, townhomes, etc. It seems everyone wants to come south. I am semi-retired. I have been working part time the past 2 years and decided to take the summer off and enjoy the beach, the kids, and life in general. It's just me and my 2 shih tzus, Emily, 17, and Rags, 14 and Beauty, my ragdoll cat." My (Jill Booth Macdonell) news is my 1st grandbaby, Evan, was born Oct. 21, 2003, to my 3rd child, Katie, 36. John, my oldest son, an ex-rocker, is a pastor on staff doing adult ministries and music at an Assembly of God Church (Pentecostal) in Sacramento. As I went over our class directory, Sandy Neary Braddish and many of our other classmates have passed on. God be with you in your new lives. We're missing addresses for Martha Allen Combs. Beverly Brewer Macklin and Judith Abbe Madden. Please let me know if you know how to reach these ladies. Also, I'd love to hear from you all about your ideas on what is meaningful to you at this stage of life.

"Dibbie" Spurr Appleton underwent bowel resection surgery in April. Though it wasn't an easy surgery, she is doing well, though still sore and still healing. Dibbie writes, "I do know that we all need to go for those periodic tests. They are quick and easy. My own request to have an endoscopy may just have saved my life. While it wasn't cancer yet, it most certainly would have been eventually! If you've never had a colonoscopy or endoscopy, ask your doctor why he hasn't ordered these important diagnostic tests! Do yourself a favor!" Marcia Vieth Koppes and her husband, Dave, continue to eniov retirement and time spent with nearby family, especially their 2 granddaughters. Over the summer, they enjoyed a 7-week driving trip, which brought them through Canada, into AK, where they spent a couple of weeks, and then down the west coast to visit family in the northwest area of the US, and then home to NJ. Marcia says it was a wonderful experience and the scenery was absolutely breathtaking. Marcia and Dave plan to move from Stockton, NJ, to New Hope, PA, in the near future, though a definite date has not been set. Eleanor "Ellie" Hubbard Anderson says news from the Gulf Coast is mostly good. Thankfully, they escaped the wrath of Hurricane Charlie. Ellie is the very proud possessor of a new hip. "It's been a huge adventure and a great relief. To say that I am eager to get back into the swing of things and do a lot of what I was unable to do pre-surgery is an understatement," she says. Ellie has 15 piano students and still sings in her husband, Paul's, choir. Paul is the organist/choirmaster at a very lively Episcopal Church. Their daughter, Robin, has had to resume chemotherapy. Her tumor is inoperable, but probably benign. Ellie writes, "She is remarkably resilient and maintains her considerable wit. Her children thrive and are for sure the most remarkable ever." Ellie's son, Chris, has reconnected with his 6th grade sweetheart, whom he met at Shady Hill School in Cambridge, MA, when Ellie and Paul taught there. Ellie's mother lives about 2 miles away and thinks that being 87 is not much fun. Nancy Carrell Sanborn welcomed a 4th grandchild, Mary Elizabeth, on Aug. 7. That makes 2 boys and 2 girls, all of whom live within 11/2 hours from Nancy. Nancy and Mary's other grandmother combined efforts to make her a twin size quilt.

I was sad to learn that The College Sport Shop in New London is about to close its doors. I am sure vou all remember this store when we were at Colby. I found my college blazer recently...you remember the navy wool jacket with the white piping and the college emblem on it! It has The College Sport Shop label on it and is in good shape. My husband, Verne, and I spent a month in Palm Springs, CA, this past winter. It is our favorite spot and usually wonderful weather. I received good news from Prue Jensen Heard just before Easter. Her daughter, Sarah, gave birth to Madison MacKenzie Dalton on March 11. Prue's daughter, Diana, is in real estate and has recently written a screenplay. Prue is busy remodeling houses, babysitting and playing tennis. Her husband, Peter, is the golfer in the family. I spoke with Martha Clark when she was at her condo in Hanover, NH, this spring. She was soon to attend the wedding of Maritza Barnett Johnson's oldest son in Apalachicola, FL. Congratulations, Maritza and family. I was very pleased to hear from Linda Peterson Colby, who lives in Savannah, GA. She writes that her husband. Larry, is a retired colonel who is a state court prosecutor. Linda has retired from real estate, but still does training for Century 21. Her son, Ted, and his wife live in Savannah. Her daughter, Mary, is a vice president for Charles Schwab in San Francisco. Linda's nephew is a freshman at Colby-Sawyer. I received a note from Dorothy Bartels Denault. Her husband, Eliot, had a hip replacement last winter. She writes that they enjoyed a cruise with their family down the St. Lawrence River in Aug. In Sept., they had a trip planned to Bora Bora and in Feb., they're off to HI. The Denaults winter in Delray Beach, FL, and are in Jamestown, RI, during the summer months. This past March, Dottie's daughter, Marcy, had her 2nd baby boy and named him Eliot. Mary-Anna Fox is still a church librarian in ME and very involved with the Mount Desert Island Alcohol and Drug Abuse Group. Two hundred fifty alumni gathered at Colby-Sawyer for an all-college Reunion from Friday, June 4 through Sunday, June 6. Anne Baynes Hall '67 and I enjoyed helping out at Reunion Headquarters, which was set up in Alumni Lounge in the Ware Campus Center (the location of our old library and dining hall). I had a wonderful chat with our former Colby gym teacher, Elizabeth Laidlaw '54. I recognized her right away and she looks great. We shared some nice memories. Send me your news, girls!

The only classmate I've heard from recently (and it isn't the 1st time) is Bea Campbell Kempster, e-mailing to say hello. Her son, Ted, was married last July in Watertown, MA, at the Commander's Mansion, which used to be an arsenal where Bea and her husband, Jack, lived in the 80s. Now a resident of Lakeland, FL, Bea and Jack have 5 grandchildren by their other 2 children. As for me, Donna Dederick Ward, my husband, Cliff, and I still own and run the Battenkill Inn in Manchester, VT. It's a lot of work and we plan to retire soon. So this is your opportunity to visit with us and get a CJC discount. It's a great place; very pretty and relaxing. However, don't plan on dropping by this winter as I'll be at our home in Naples, FL, and Cliff will be running the Inn only until mid-Feb. Come by for the holidays. Manchester has designer outlet shopping, exquisite restaurants, and usually snow for sleigh eaders have been eagerly awaiting the third installment of best-selling author Joan Anderson's trilogy of life on Cape ON THE BEACH Cod. Following A Year by the Sea and An Unfinished Marriage, Joan's third book chronicles her extraordinary friendship with author Joan Erikson. This amazing woman, perhaps best known for her ing An Explained Marri collaborations with her pioneering psychoanalyst husband Erik, became a mentor who helped Anderson "navigate the transitions she faced as she grew beyond middle age." This celebration of friendship and possibilities through the aging process shows, once again, why Anderson's writings are highly anticipated by her many fans.

Anderson is a graduate of Yale University School of Drama. She has written numerous children's novels, as well as critically acclaimed adult nonfiction. Joan and her husband live on the Cape. riding. On Aug. 7 our daughter, Lauren, was married at the Inn. We do lots of weddings here during the summer, but this one was special. Lauren lives in Tahoe City, CA, as does her brother, Cliff. Okay, classmates, let's get going for the next issue. You must have some interesting information: children, grandchildren, retired yet? Relocating? Whatever? Contact me at innfo@battenkillinn.com or, better yet, stop by the Inn and stay awhile.

Virginia "Gina" Simonds White's daughter, Hilary, graduated from the Physician's Associate Program at Yale Medical School. She is now practicing at Saint Raphael's Hospital in New Haven. Gina is busy sitting on the Dover (MA) Zoning Board of Appeals, running trips for The Colonial Dames of Massachusetts, working on the board of a historic house in Roxbury, The Shirley-Eustis House, and learning to play golf. Jean Howell Vose and her husband. Dick, relocated from MA to ME in 1998. Dick is fully retired and Jean retired from nursing, but is currently working as an administrative assistant to the superintendent of schools in their local district. She's been in the position for 5 years and truly enjoys it. "There's quite a difference between the medical and educational fields, but it's stimulating and interesting," says Jean. Dick and Jean continue with their hobby of keeping bees. They direct a beekeeping school each spring, and they were instrumental in starting a county beekeeping chapter. Jean also continues with her master gardener activities. They have 4 grown children and 6 grandchildren, all of whom live in New England, so they are able to visit often. The highlight of Alice Lawton Lehmann's summer was the wedding of her son, Fred, in July. He and his wife, Erin, are living in Concord, MA, just a mile from Alice and her husband, Bill. Erin teaches AP history at Wayland High School, and Fred is vice president of strategic operations for Lehmann Infomediaries, a market research enterprise focusing on customer acquisition and retention, which was founded by Alice and Bill 4 years ago. Alice and Bill's daughter, Heidi, lives in NYC and recently joined ThirdScreen Media as executive vice president of business development. Alice and Bill remain active with running, biking and swimming. They both secured 3rd place medals in their age groups for a Sprint Triathlon in Falmouth, MA, in July. Alice is currently training for the NYC Marathon in Nov. Lucy White Dean spent 24 of her years since Colby Jr. as a med tech. For the last 16 years she has been a mom and volunteer. Lucy has enjoyed performing on stage for a local Gilbert and Sullivan group, and has been a gardener for the New England unit of the Herb Society of America. She's also spent years working for her church and the local school. Lucy's daughter, Liz, left home this year. Lucy's husband hasn't retired yet, so Lucy felt really lost and lonely. So, at 61 years old, she decided she must start a new learning experience and realized that she really should have majored in art at Colby Jr. Elizabeth "Lee" Reisner Murray wishes she could have attended our Reunion, but there was a family wedding that same weekend. Sadly, Lee lost her husband in March, and she misses him very much. She keeps as busy as possible with her figure skating activities (judging) and learning accounting, and by taking care of her 2 granddaughters once a week. Lee's oldest daughter, Barbara, has moved to Philadelphia, and is teaching at Drexel University. Middle daughter, Julie, is mother of Lee's 2 granddaughters. Julie is working in the computer industry in Boston. Susan, Lee's youngest daughter, recently returned home from 11/2 years in Malaysia, where she studied bats in the rainforest. Hedy Ruth Gunther said all was well this summer in the TX heat. She said they spend most summer weekends at their lake house, which is approximately 2 hours away. They enjoy that time reading, relaxing, boating and swimming. In June they took a river cruise on the Danube from Bucharest to Passau, Germany. Hedy keeps busy with gardening, sewing, tennis and volunteer work. Daughter Kari has just begun her 9th year of teaching 1st grade, and they feel fortunate that she lives close by. Kyle, on the other hand, works for an American company in Turkmanistan (north of Iran and Afghanistan). Hedy says he's great about keeping in touch frequently by telephone and e-mail. Hedy sends her greetings to everyone. Valerie Taft West lives and works in Charleston. SC, which has been voted one of the friendliest cities in the country for many years. She lives on a golf course, and enjoys playing both with a women's group and with her husband. The couple also enjoys scuba and snorkeling, and they have taken some wonderful trips to enjoy the pleasures of clear water and aquatic life. They have 4 children, 3 of whom are married, and 3 grandchildren. Valerie recently enjoyed a trip to NYC to visit her 9-month-old granddaughter. Valerie continues to enjoy her career as professor and associate provost for education and student life at the Medical University of SC. Her position allows her to teach, to work with education and curriculum reform, and to direct all student services, including financial aid, wellness, student activities, etc. Check out www2.edserv.musc.edu/scholars/ faculty/west.htm to see a picture of Valerie and to read about one of her programs. About a year ago, Valerie enjoyed a visit from her former roommate, Sally Sonntag Gale, and her husband, whom she was dating during her college days. They are doing well and are considering a move south as well.

Pamela Dodd is still running her executive coaching business with her son, Doug Sundheim. Her newest area of learning is Internet marketing and she's been doing a lot of reading and attending conferences on the subject. Pam continues to mentor low-income high school girls as part of a countrywide scholarship program. "I get to see first hand what it's like to be a teenager these days. It's very rewarding to help kids survive high school and make worthwhile choices for the rest of their lives," says Pam. Pam's mom, Peg Van Duser Hurlbut '40, lives in a retirement community in FL. about 2 hours away from Pam's home. "I hope I got her genes," says Pam. "She remarried for the 3rd time 2 years ago and is still going strong playing golf, dancing, attending jazz concerts, and serving on community committees!" Sue Feltham Kenyon works for New York/New Jersey Scientific, where she is a sales representative for Olympus microscopes. She has enjoyed her career in sales and is still able to keep in touch with medical technology through her association with area hospitals. Her husband retired over a year ago and is now able to travel with Sue on business trips. Sadly, Sue's sister, Patricia Feltham Rawson '67 passed away in Dec. 2002. Patricia's daughter, Caitlin, now lives with Sue and her husband. Caitlin entered Mohawk Valley Community College this winters can be challenging, one of her true loves since her Colby days is skiing. "We did purchase a rather exotic Kubota tractor with a powerful snowblower and climate controlled cab to combat lake effect snowfalls," said Sue.

Judith LeBeau retired from teaching art 4 years ago. She now spends most of her time painting and volunteering for local art organizations. Judith shows her work in the Detroit-Metro area and teaches watercolors to adults. Sue Chapman Melanson ran into Joan Thacher Tiffany at the Northfield Mount Hermon reunion in June. Sue writes. "It was totally unfair that she looked exactly as she had the last time I saw her. She is the president of an organization in Boston called The International Honors Program, which gives students an opportunity to study overseas in multiple countries for a semester or a year. It focuses on a global itinerary that involves comparative study in several contrasting societies." Kay McDowell Nicklas spent 3 weeks of her summer vacation in NY and VT. Part of that time was spent on Skaneatales Lake with family. A short time was also spent with her daughter, Melissa, in VT. The remainder of the vacation was spent with her mother and sisters, getting her mother's house ready to sell. Her mother recently moved into an assisted living facility in Canandaigua, NY. Kay returned to Fairfax High School this fall, where she manages the office for the special ed. dept. She says it's a fun position and that she has no plans to retire any time soon. Kay's oldest child and family live in CA, while the middle child and family live just 10 minutes from Kay. In June, Linda Brooks Hiross' family celebrated her mother's 90th birthday with a lovely brunch at Silvermine Tavern in Norwalk, CT. Her mother won't actually turn 90 until Dec., but with the number of teachers in the family and the sometimes inclement Dec. weather, they decided to hold the party in June. Party favors were little jugs of maple syrup, which was the product of Sue Chapman Melanson's 1st run from her Maple Syrup Sugar House in Hiram, ME. In other news, Linda became a grandmother for the 1st time in March. She finds it hard to believe how quickly her grandson, Eric Michael Brennan, is growing. In April, Linda spent a week in Soufriere, St. Lucia, seeing the gorgeous botanical gardens. driving through a volcano, hobnobbing with the natives, and enjoying the underwater marine life. Linda continues to be active in her homeowner's association and serves as both treasurer and fundraising chair for the local Sierra Club. Joan Thacher Tiffany continues to work for the International Honors Program, a comparative international education program for college undergraduates, operated in affiliation with Boston University. Students take a full academic course load while traveling around the world with a faculty team, meeting with local experts and living in homestays. Tiffany's son, Thacher, has been living and working in Washington, DC, for the past 3 years. He helped to start a community sailing program on the Anacostia River. Her son, Will, started graduate school at MIT this fall. Her daughter, Kathrene, recently graduated from Bates and is teaching sailing. Joan's husband works for a software company in Cambridge, MA. They have lived in the South End of Boston for 28 years. They enjoy traveling (including a trip to China last fall), sailing, tennis, and skiing. Susan Ottesen Prentke reported that several members of the class of '66 got together in April in NYC at the apartment of Nancy Schiller Schlesinger for a reunion luncheon. The group consisted of Susan, Nancy, Barbara Wade Jackson, Midge Herlihy Tilney and Anne Cluth Stewart. Drina Sherwood Gordon was unable to attend, and was missed by all. "It was fun to reconnect after more than 30 years, and we had a great time rehashing all the good times we had at Colby," said Susan. Ann Blackman Putzel is working on having her latest book, Wild Rose, published. It is the true story of Rose Greenhow, a prominent Washington society woman who became a spy for the South during the Civil War. Ann is the author of 2 earlier biographies: Seasons of her Life: A Biography of Madeleine Korbel Albright and The Spy Next Door, which is about FBI agent Robert Hanssen, who spied for the Russians. Ann has enjoyed a long career as a news reporter for the Associated Press and TIME magazine, where she covered politics. social policy, and the powerful personalities that make up Washington society. She and her husband, Michael Putzel, live in Washington, DC, and they have 2 grown children. Christine "Tina" Hewitt Morrison tells us of the very exciting month-long trip she took to various parts of southern Africa with her son, Jeff, this summer. them in Johannesburg, where he was scheduled for an LSAT test for future law school plans. The trip began with a 3-night stay in Zambia at the top of Victoria Falls. They thoroughly enjoyed the breathtaking falls as well as wild baboons, monkeys and a resident herd of zebra. From there they spent 3 nights at Inyati Private Game Reserve, which is located on the border of Kruger National Park in South Africa. Tina explains that the private game reserves have the advantage of allowing vehicles off the main roads for viewing elephant, cape buffalo, lions, leopards and rhinos. The highlight of their safari was when they came upon a leopard stalking a herd of impala. The last and longest leg of Tina's journey was their 17-day stay on the island of Mayotte, a French territory where her son, Mike, and his wife, Sylive, have been living for the 1st year of their married life. In Mayotte they swam with large green turtles, snorkeled around pristine coral reefs and played with the lemurs. The highlight of their time in Mayotte was a 5-day sailing trip on a 40' sloop to Moheli, one of the Comoros Islands. Sounds like the trip of a lifetime, Tina. Thanks for sharing with us!

in Newport, NH. Anne Stocker Mills works for Bassett Healthcare in Cooperstown, NY, managing 2 outreach medical clinics. She has been in this type of business for 20 years and continues to find it fun and challenging. Anne is the grandmother of 2-year-old grandson Taylor, and another grandchild is on the way. "I recently had lunch with Susie Benner Worthen, Nancy Glesmann Calderwood and Carolyn "Lindy" Avery Merriam. We haven't changed one bit and we had a blast," wrote Anne. Anne Bavnes Hall, her sister, Janet Baynes Benzie '71, and Janet's daughter, Laura, attended a wedding in Memphis, TN, in July. (See photo on this page.) They had a lovely time at the wedding and had the opportunity to do some sightseeing on the return trip. They visited Graceland while in Memphis and the Hermitage in Nashville, in addition to eating at the Nashville Palace, across from the Grand Ole Opry. They also traveled through Hershey, PA, and Amish country. When Deb Gould's email arrived in late Aug., she was "winding down a lovely (albeit rainy) summer of gardening, kayaking on the Kennebec River, playing tennis, and relaxing." She recently began her 6th year interpreting for a student who just entered the 5th grade. She finished her book over the winter and is now doing the agent/ publisher search thing. "Does anyone have any connections?" asks Deb. Polly Whisnand Butler dodged one hurricane in NC after visiting her daughter, Bridget, and her family on the Outer Banks, only to return home to Naples, FL, to survive the wrath of Hurricane Charley. Polly wrote, "We were spared major damage, but our neighbors just 60 miles north in Sanibel, Captiva and Punta Gorda have, as you know, experienced in some instances total devastation." Polly visited for a week with Janet "Jannie" Sawyer Campanale at her home in Kingston, MA, in July. They had a great time catching up with one another. Jannie works in Duxbury, MA. She and her husband, Ken, have a charming home they are redoing room by room. According to Polly, they also have a very prolific garden that produces yummy vegetables! Shenna Jane Bromberg Moqeet stopped by the Alumni Office in July. She was visiting relatives in the area, and decided to pop in at Colby-Sawyer to show her daughter where she attended college. She says hello to all of her long lost schoolmates and hopes that her old buddies are doing well. Shenna has been living in Southern CA for 24 years. She has 2 daughters, ages 28 and 30. Shenna says, "I never thought I'd find myself in politics, but I am now the mayor of Calimesa, CA. I've been on the council for 6 years, on the Southern CA Council of Governments Water Board, and I also serve on the County Transportation Board. We're trying to create and preserve a wildlife corridor of up to 5,000 acres of open space in Calimesa. That's a real challenge in Southern CA!" Sadly, word came from Sue Feltham Kenyon '65 that her sister and our classmate. Patricia Feltham Rawson. passed away in Dec. 2002. Patricia's daughter, Caitlin, is living in NY with Sue and her husband. Our condolences to the Feltham family.

this past Aug. my friend called to suggest that we go to the 71st Annual League of NH Craftsmen's Fair at Mt. Sunapee. Our day trip was a great way to help ease me into writing this class update. My oldest memory of Sunapee was skiing there after the holiday break during freshman year. My mom drove us back to school. I think that our car included Sue Schantz Spiro and Lynn Macdonald Bishop, both from my hometown of Barrington, RI. We spent the day skiing and then headed back to Colby Jr. That same winter I spent a wonderful day skiing there after a fresh snowfall with Meredith Dodd Taylor. We went there with our boss from the CJC News & Information Office. Lou Thomson. He took our picture climbing up one of the trails. The next week it appeared in the Newport Argus Champion newspaper. I'm sure that anybody who went to our Winter Carnival celebration in 1967 will remember singing along with The Shirelles at the Mt. Sunapee Lodge. Here's news from our classmates. Ann "Tak" Takala Boule shared, "This has been a tough year for the Boule family, but we are making an effort to rebound. Bob retired 7/29, and I took an administration position in an acting role for a year in the Worcester Special Education Dept. Interesting that Bob will be off and I will now be working full days and full year. I think there is something wrong with this picture! Our daughter, Kristin, and her husband, Grant, expected child number 2 (a boy, Sean Robert) in Oct. Gabby and her new brother will be 15 months apart. Life will be busy in the Miller household. Our son-inlaw, Scott, is holding up well after Kimberly's premature passing. The Boules are thankful that he enjoys their family and remains close." Sue Schantz Spiro sent me a "just moved" announcement. She and her husband, Jim, moved to Barrington, RI, this spring. They purchased a house across the street from Barrington Harbor. What a great location! Cornelia "Nina" de Schepper spent her summer holiday with a few weeks at her house in Greensboro, VT. and playing golf and tennis when the weather permitted. Nina contin-

Francisco, "where the prices continue to astound us all. It's good to be back East for a bit!" Cynthia "Cindi" Pappas Shanley writes, "I'm proud to say that my daughter, Tristan, graduated from URI with a degree in TMD (textiles, merchandising, and design). She moved to San Diego in Sept. We will miss her, but look forward to visiting often." Meredith "Merrie/Mez" Dodd Taylor dropped a note to say, "Tory and I have been busy with summer horse pack trips through the wilderness areas of Greater Yellowstone ecosystem. We're doing archaeology survey trips now and have made some incredible discoveries of the SheepEater Shoshone culture. It's a great summer for rain too, so it's lush, and there are lots of wildflowers blooming now. It's a very good mushroom year, so we're picking lots of wild 'shrooms. We just returned from 8 days with 8 ladies who we enjoyed on the 'Women in the Washakie Wilderness' trip. What a hoot they were! We had a blast." Meredith and Tory have been running an outfitting business for over 20 years and take wilderness horseback trips into Yellowstone. Someday I hope to make it out to WY for a longoverdue visit. Kathy Fleming-Blake writes, "I left my post as a professor at Georgetown U in 1994 to go to law school at Emory U in Atlanta. The stockbroker I had been dating in DC followed me to Atlanta, and then to FL, where we were finally married at the turn of the century. I opened my own law firm in Key West and have practiced there ever since. Jeff and I have 2 catsone named Ptolemy, because she thinks she is the center of the universe, and the other we call 'Cat-o' Cailin, the uninvited guest. Cato is a polydactyl—one of the original Hemingway cats, as it turns out. The Keys are a great place to do the happilyever-after thing. Don't take our word for it; come down for a visit!" Sounds like a fairytale romance. Both Kathy and I are living proof that it is never too late to change careers and go back to school. been an adventure. I taught a newcomers class at Beech Street Elementary School in Manchester, NH. My class had 15 kids from various African countries; they have been in the US less than one year. Some had never been to school before. The kids are very cute and full of beans just like any other kid. This academic year I am teaching a class of 3rd grade English language learners at the same school. Our 2 kids are both full-time college students. I finished grad school just in time! My 21-year old son, Casey, has entered Southern NH U in Manchester, and 19-year old Jill has returned for her 2nd year at American U in DC. My husband, Jack, continues to sell homes in the Nashua area for RE/MAX. Don't forget to add your name to the Colby-Sawyer Alumni Directory (www.colbysawyer.edu/alumni-friends) where you can submit an update about yourself. Let's have more news about our class for the next edition of the Alumni Magazine!

long illness. The company where she worked as an editor, translator and tech writer for 20 years has just folded. She is hoping to expand her own business as a textile designer. Her husband works at the university in Charlottesville, VA. Carolyn "Callie" Coburn finished CJC and went on to Northwestern U, where she graduated with a major in art and a minor in business and law. She has a master's from Peace Theological Seminary and hopes to earn her doctorate there. She was ordained as a minister in 1999. After an early career in advertising (Chicago, NYC, Europe) where she produced commercials, she continues to be a freelance producer. Both she and her husband, Stewart, work out of their home. Where is Amy Overton, she wants to know? Barbara Baum Freethy and Marjorie "Peggy" Berger from Abbey Dorm get together every summer with Anne Laverack Gallivan from Best. They spend a week with their families on an island off the ME coast. Barbara is a pediatric psychotherapist in Portland, ME. Both Peggy and Anne are multi-media specialists. Peggy is with the Cambridge, MA, schools and Anne is with the Rutland, VT, school system. All 3 enjoy their young adult kids, ranging from 21-26 years old! Emily "Bunny" Apthorp Goodwin went to the U of CO after CJC and ski bummed around CO, UT and Europe for 7 years. She finally settled in VT, where she received her MS in speech language pathology. She married, moved across Lake Champlain to Keene, NY, and is a speech pathologist for kids under 5 and homebound adults. Her husband writes hiking/skiing books and manages non-profit trail organizations. Their son, Morgan, spent the last 2 years on the US Ski Team (Nordic combined) and started Williams College this fall. Robbie, 17, is also a Nordic combined skier in Lake Placid, and Liza, 14, is a cross-country skier. Last winter Bunny raced in the Great Glen to Bretton Woods Nordic Adventure, 50K around the north side of Mt. Washington! Christine "Chris" MacDade Haney is living in Phoenixville, PA. She meets Maureen "Mo" Collins and Gale Sparrow (all from McKean Dorm) every month for lunch and laughs. "Please join us," she writes. Cynthia Cole Heslam in Braintree, MA, writes that instead of a facelift at 50, she went back to school and became certified to teach high school English. She has published a book of short stories titled Thirst. Her daughter, Jessica, is a reporter for the Boston Herald: Juliette is a middle school math teacher; and son Matthew recently joined the Braintree Police Department as a student officer. Victoria Leidner lives in Southport, CT. After living in Manhattan for 20 years, working in corporate PR as well as being a publishing editor, she moved to VT. where she worked both in a ski academy and as a ski instructor at Stratton Mountain on weekends. She has hit a happy medium now, living in a sophisticated small town near the beach, just north of NYC, where she works as an office manager for a small family owned corporation. Margo McVinney Marvin wrote from Putnam, CT, where she is superintendent of schools. She and her husband, Dave, have 2 sons, Jeff and Keith. who live in AZ and TX. Both sons are engineers, married to wonderful women, and they have 3 beautiful grandchildren. They have a summer cottage in VT on Lake Champlain and 2

home in Gold Canyon, AZ. Margo sent a great picture of herself with her 2 golden retrievers! Wendy Noll Oliveira has been living in San Francisco for the past 16 years after being transferred from NY, where she was working in advertising. She is now a real estate appraiser and likes it. She's married and has a 15-year-old stepson who is a delight. She says she is "very lucky." Deborah "Deb" Arnold Reale lives in Hillsdale, NJ, where she is associate editor of Contemporary Surgery, a medical journal for general surgeons. She graduated in May from Fairleigh Dickinson U with a MA in corporate organization. Her son, Matthew, 26, married his wife. Michele, a year ago. Her daughter, Amy, 22, graduated from Franklin & Marshall College (Lancaster, PA) and is an activities counselor at The Therapeutic Learning Center in Ramsey, NJ. Nancy Gill Richardson and her husband. Clyde. have 170 acres in FL. where they produce many types of ferns that they sell to wholesale florists. Nancy sees Cathy Weisner in Cape Coral, where Cathy has a condo (she lives in Boston). Viola "Vi" Pica Bernard and her husband, Wayne, are building a condo in Punta Gorda. She and Nancy have kept in touch all these years. We hope you all fared well during hurricane season! Janette "Jan" MacLean Weir recently moved to East Aurora, NY, where her husband, Dan, is the rector of St. Matthias Episcopal Church. Their daughter, Meghan, 25, graduated from Princeton in 2000, completed 3 years at Stony Brook Med., and is currently doing a MPhil at Oxford in medical anthropology. She'll then return to the States to complete medical school, her residency, and begin to make a dent in her astronomical debt. Their son, Matthew, graduated from Hobart, having won the Philosophy Department prize. He shall think (very) deep thoughts and seek employment or graduate school very soon. My son, Garth (USNA '98 and submariner), has just finished his tour as Flag LT (Admiral's Aide) and has been appointed to the Naval War College in Newport, RI, where he is working on his 2nd master's degree. He and his wife, Konstance, have a beautiful little girl, Charlotte Foss, born 18 months ago. My daughter, Emily (Sweet Briar '02—a small women's college in VA), landed a job in London 2 years ago. She is the advertising and public relations director for a 350-year-old auction house in Bloomsbury. The worst thing to happen to her this summer? Dropping her "pinkie" class ring down the toilet on a trans-Atlantic flight. Did I hear you gasp? (I still have mine!) My youngest son, Alec (USNA '04—submariner), is in Panama City, FL, at dive school with the SEALS (during hurricane season!) He starts nuclear power school in Charleston, SC, in Nov., where he and 3 of his classmates have bought a condo in Daniel's Island. Can you believe it's been 35 years? I can't! Hi everyone! Hope your summer has been eventful—if so or if not—please e-mail me a note for the column and your alumni friends. Hopefully, it will help renew acquaintances, which is just what Suzanne Warren from Burpee is looking to do. A great note from her says she would like to get in touch with Christy Hoyt and Karen Ralph Maandag. I will share her e-mail if I hear from you two! Suzanne lives in the Portland, OR, area after traveling to Europe and graduating from the U of OR. Suzanne is a school psychologist and her husband, Tony, is a painting contractor. Their son, Toby, graduated from Whitman College in WA. Their daughter, Elise, just completed her freshman year at U of MT and daughter Rebecca (the girls are twins!) completed her freshman year of U of Portland while on an athletic scholarship for soccer. Wow! Suzanne says that life in the Northwest has been a good one and her e-mail surely sounded that way. Thanks for the note, Suzanne, and for sharing some of your life. A very happy birthday wish to my old friend and roommate, Carol Kobayashi...54! Kobe has moved to GA with her husband. She works at Agnes Scott College as the assistant director of the Information Technology Services Dept. Labor Day brought me, Gail Remick Hoage, some vacation time with my family at our camp on Little Millinocket Lake in ME. I'll be looking forward to some e-mails from you on my return! Cathy Allen Abbott is currently a substitute teacher in Fort Walton Beach, FL. Her son, Chris, graduated from FL State U and is selling real estate with his father. Her daughter, Lindsey, recently graduated from Clemson U in SC and will be attending nursing school next year. Cathy recently purchased a farm and 2 horses, so when she's not substituting, she's riding, playing team tennis, volunteering for the blind, and enjoying farm life. Having retired from the Massachusetts District Court Probation System after 27 years of service in the Dorchester and Orleans District Courts. Mira Fish Coleman followed in the footsteps of Anne Pouch and began a small jewelry business called Whimsy (www.whimsybeads.com). She is hoping to relocate from crowded

Cape Cod to Farmington, ME, with her husband, Ken, and their 11-year-old son, Peter. Mira enjoys her e-mail contact with Anne Alger Hayward, and has been receiving lots of support and advice from Anne Pouch. Susan Gronbeck went to work in her family business following graduation from Colby-Sawyer. She and her brother continue to run 4 companies, all related to the commercial marine industry. They supply wire, cordage, hardware, anchors, etc., to barges, tugboats, tankers and cruise ships all over the country, but mostly in the port of NY. Much of Susan's free time is spent as a volunteer for the Children's Make-A-Wish Foundation of NJ. Susan is a wish grantor and is very involved running the fundraisers. For the last 3 years, Susan has enjoyed the company of a new man in her life. He's a regional vice-president for MetLife Financial and the couple eventually plans to marry. Susan lives part time at her home in Rumson, but shares a condo with her boyfriend in Hoboken. Linda Nilsson Lombard is currently working in home care as a LPN, holding both a MA and CT license. In her leisure time, she enjoys playing golf, skiing, bowling, camping, and just relaxing. Over the summer, Linda enjoyed a trip to St. Lucia, where her oldest daughter, Jennifer, was married. "It was a real special day for us because my parents were there and they were celebrating their 55th wedding anniversary as well," wrote Linda. Jennifer is an RN and works in the emergency department of a Cincinnati, OH, hospital. Her husband is a pilot for Delta Comair. Linda's 30-yearold son, Jamie, returned from Afghanistan in April. The family is so happy to have him home and Linda says they pray for all of the other men and women serving overseas to return home safely as well. Jamie, his wife and their 5-year-old son live in Albuquerque, NM. The 5-year-old is into quarter midget racing, so the family is hoping they have the next Jeff Gordon on their hands. Linda's youngest daughter, Kelly, her husband, Shawn, and their 16-month old daughter live in Bristol, CT. Kelly works for Otis Elevator and Shawn is in heavy construction. The Alumni Office received a note from Jane Kernan Sayed. "I am enclosing a photo taken at my daughter, Lisa's, graduation from Lafayette College in May 2004. In the photo with me is Linda Ressa Schaeffer '74, who is the mother of my daughter's roommate and very good friend, Liz. We were so surprised when the girls discovered that both of their mothers had gone to Colby-Sawyer and that we had both lived in Abbey. We met for the first time at our daughters' graduation and had a wonderful time talking about Colby and New London!" (See photo, previous page.)

Hi There! Sorry about the last newsletter. I thought I had sent something in, but it seems I did not. Oh well, you know how our memories go these days! As I write this, I am sitting out the remnants of Hurricane Charley while on vacation in NH. As much as rain is needed, it's time for him to move out! News of our classmates is scarce, as usual, so I am just waiting for all of you to get online and e-mail me an "I'm alive" note. I guarantee it will make your reading this column much more fun! I do know that Debbie Ross Chambliss planned to take a wonderful trip to Tuscany in Aug. with some friends from Baltimore. Deb is turning into a world traveler, having spent last Thanksgiving in the Galapagos Islands! You go, girl! Susan "Kate" Watson worked at the Country Press in New London from 1981-2000 as a prepress customer service supervisor. Her daughter, Alix (23), graduated from the U of RI in May with a degree in textile, fashion merchandising and design. Alix recently moved to Altamonte Springs, FL. Kate is currently in Casselberry, FL, remodeling a condominium for resale. I, Linda Kelly Graves, spent a fun few days in State College, PA, with Nancy Bianchi Miller and family to attend her second son's graduation from Penn State. It was a very impressive ceremony. Only about 1,000 times as many people as when we graduated 33 years ago! I am sure many of you had children graduating this year, too. We would love to hear about it (hint, hint!) My daughter and I traveled to New London in late July on a rainy Friday to take in a show at the New London Barn Playhouse. celebrating its 50th season this year. We caught a great production of Annie, and saw a cast picture from the 1971 season that included Ellen McManus Flack. So, Ellen, where are you now? I have very fond memories of Ellen playing Lucy in You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown that season, as I was in New London as a counselor at Colbytown Camp, along with Patsy Lannon Brown, Sherrill Howard, Karen "Stretch" Faloon Durham, Nancy Neustadt, Patty Herbert, and Ruth Ann Riley among others. I would love to hear from any of you Colbytown alums. So, that is the news! Christmas is coming, so send me a present early and catch us up on your lives. Nothing is too boring or trivial! Until then, have a great fall.

It was so nice to hear from Jan Lyle Malcolm, who lives in Barrington, RI. She is thrilled to report that her son, Chris, and, coincidentally her niece, Haley Pittenger, are both members of the class of 2008 at Colby-Sawyer! Jan keeps in touch with lots of other Colby alums in the area, including Pattie Crowell Mitchell, Jill Messenger Wilbur, Heidi Christ Colella, Lisa Smith Hardiman and Nancy Blount. They all have kids about the same age, so they have crossed paths frequently over the years. She also stays in touch with Maggie Philbrick Bresnahan, who is still living a year-round idyllic life on Martha's Vineyard. She sees Chris Armbrust Rooks through Wheeler School and every so often is in touch with Terrie Egert Wood. Sandy Cumings Sullivan and Jan visit almost monthly, alternating between Ridgefield, CT, and Barrington. They continue to have a good time after all these years. You can reach Jan at jlmalcolm@cox.net. By the way, they wonder about some of their dorm mates from Abbey. Margie Newman White and her husband, Bob, have an empty nest, as son Brett began college at FAU (Florida Atlantic U) in Boca Raton. Their daughter, Cindy, graduated from Tulane in 2002 and has finished her Navy commitment. After looking for jobs all over the US, Cindy will be settling in lovely San Francisco as regional director of the New Frontier Region for United Synagogue. This includes 11 conservative synagogues in northern CA and northern NV. She will be overseeing youth groups, planning conventions and running leadership programs. Margie's daughter, Allison, recently graduated from FL State U. Bob and Margie have been married for 28 years, and both are teachers north of Orlando in the Lake Mary area. Interestingly enough, Lisa Hicks, also from Best Dorm, married one of Margie's relatives. Lisa and Nancy Cole Barges were roommates. You can reach Margie at Maw5791@aol.com. How 'bout an update, you two? Christine Gram Croarkin lives in New Canaan, CT, with her husband, Richard, and their 2 kids. She is currently a Silvermine River Ranger for the Norwalk River Watershed Association and an assistant waterfowl rehabilitator. Christine has taught French for 5 years on a voluntary basis in the elementary school system there, in addition to being a garden writer for the New Canaan Nature Center, as well as serving on various boards. Her son, Christopher, was born in Athens, and Christine learned to speak Greek! Her daughter, Jenna-Louise, was born in Surrey, England. Kayaking, tennis, painting, drawing and birding keep Christine busy. It was the mention of her pet Hama Nishiki Crowned Pearlscale Goldfish that piqued my interest! Since moving 2,200 miles (first to an apartment in Fort Lauderdale, then buying and moving into a new house, and subsequently selling our old house in Denver at a loss) starting 2 new schools and a new job wasn't enough, our son, Peter, had open heart surgery. In March, we took him to Miami Children's Hospital to have the 2 holes in his heart patched. During that procedure it was discovered he had a much bigger problem - PAPVR (Partial Anomalous Pulmonary Venous Return). Two veins were not there to carry blood away from his heart. So in June he underwent 51/2 hours of surgery. He is now doing just great and has a lot more energy. And I aged about 10 years and have no energy. That's all for now. Please e-mail me with your news, life events, anything. I'm just waiting to hear from you!

Hi everyone. Reunion weekend was lots of fun. Although we were hoping for a bigger turnout from our class, those of us who did attend had a great time. Attendees included: Ann Woodd-Cahusac Neary, her husband Matt and children Emily, Paige and Mack; Sally Williams Cook; Paula Cerulli Welford and her husband, Steve; Melissa Langa and her husband Jeff Wuffson; Pam Carpenter Welch; and my husband, Mike, and me. Sally, Ann and Matt went kayaking on the lake very early Saturday morning and marveled at the loons they saw as the sun was coming up. Sally entertained young and older alike with a reading of her new children's book, "Good Night Pillow Fight," followed by a book signing and discussion of what's involved in publishing an illustrated children's book. While some climbed Mount Kearsarge, others just enjoyed the beautiful weekend weather in never-changing New London. While the town stays remarkably the same, the Colby-Sawyer campus continues to change and evolve-for the better! We stayed in the newest dorm-temporarily dubbed "New Dorm," fittingly enough, and it was very nice indeed. Ann and I had to sneak a peak at Shepard though, for old time's sake, and it felt very familiaralmost like 30 years hadn't passed. Dinner on Saturday night was great, and our farewell breakfast on Sunday sent us off with memories of a great weekend at the College on the Hill. Hope to see more of you at our next reunion. Though she couldn't make it to reunion this year, Marilyn Copley Hilton writes that she was very interested to read about Sally Williams Cook's new picture book—and wishes her much success! She recently began publishing children's books, as well. Her first book, "The Christian Girl's Guide to Your Mom," was released in January 2004 (Legacy Press). She describes it as "A fun, Biblebased book for preteen girls and their moms, and a great tool for establishing and reinforcing communication and trust while Mom is still one of the most vital influences in a girl's life." Her second book for the same publisher, "The Christian Girl's Guide to Your Dad," will be released in early 2005. Marilyn is also in the process of finding a publisher for a fiction series for preteen girls.

"I love writing for that age (8-12)," Marilyn observes, "probably because my own daughters are now almost 10 and 8. My son, 5, generates lots of story ideas for kids his age, too." Marilyn and her husband, Leon, are still living in San Jose, CA, where she continues to work as a technical writer, and has been with Cisco Systems since January 2004. The college heard from Amy Banford Jakowski that she's celebrating 25 years of service at Pfizer-congratulations! That's all for now. Keep those cards and letters coming!

Victoria "Tory" Tyler-Millar and her husband, Mark (NEC '75) had the pleasure of joining Barbara Battis Nowakowski '74 and her husband, Stan (NEC '75), along with family and friends for a delicious birthday celebration dinner in Brattleboro, VT, on July 2 (which also happened to be Tory and Mark's 27th anniversary). On Aug. 2, Virginia "Ginny" Carlson Karlsson and 3 of her daughters, Carly, Greta and Colby, visited Tory's family at their summer cottage on Peaks Island, ME. Ginny lives in MN, so she and Tory rarely get to see one another. They enjoyed spending 3 relaxing days looking for seaglass, exploring tidal pools, reminiscing about Colby, and catching up on life in general. Paula Schilling Dhein writes that she. Anita Renzetti Brefini and Leslie Brown Bell have been getting together fairly regularly for long distance friends. Over the last 2

Reunion; Valley Forge, PA; Reading, PA; Foxboro, MA; Newport, RI; Bethany Beach, DE; and Ocean Park, ME. "It has been great to renew old friendships, which seem like we had just seen each other yesterday," says Paula. Anita and her husband, Gary, recently purchased a new home. Leslie and her husband purchased a condo in FL. Paula and her husband, Rick, recently purchased a company. Paula says it would be fun to hear from other people they knew while at Colby, both in the class of '75 and other classes. The Alumni Office was pleased to hear from Joan Goulter Sisson, who wrote, "I have been negligent in keeping in touch with Colby-Sawyer for a long time. My renewed interest stems from the fact that my niece will attend the school in the fall. and, coincidentally, will reside in the same room in McKean that I did eons ago." Joan currently lives in Vancouver, WA. The youngest of her 3 children is a junior in high school. Joan typically spends a month on the East Coast every summer, generally the Cape. Joan suggests that anyone else who has been out of touch with Colby-Sawyer and former classmates should e-mail her at sissjoan@comcast.net. Chairman of the Colby-Sawyer College Board of Trustees Anne Winton Black '73, '75 is pleased to report that her son, Rod, graduated from St. Lawrence U. in 2003. He moved to Tampa, FL, last Sept., where he's working for Marsh, an international insurance brokerage and consulting firm. Anne's daughter, Windy, is a sophomore at Bates College. Windy spent her 3rd summer working as a nanny for the same family in Simsbury, CT. Rick, Anne's husband, is a managing director of Marsh, and he maintains offices in Hartford, CT, and NYC. Given the latter, Anne finds herself in NYC with a bit more frequency and would love to get together with any '73s or '75s in the area. This summer Anne and Rick enjoyed a 2-week cruise on their Grand Banks '46 trawler. stopping in Onset, Provincetown, Red Brook Harbor, Edgartown, Nantucket and Cuttyhunk. For the 2nd week of the trip, they were joined by Clare "Missy" Steers Wilich '74 and her daughter, Haley. It was Missy's mother, Martha Whitney Steers '45, who first noticed that Missy and Anne were living in Simsbury at the same time and suggested that they get together. That was almost 20 years ago and they have been great friends ever since. Missy now lives in New Castle, NH, and works in retail sales in Portsmouth. She also volunteers for Berwick Academy in ME, where Haley is a 9th grader and her 2 oldest children, Lexi and Rob, are graduates. Haley is a junior Olympic level skier and spent 2 weeks this summer being coached and skiing the glaciers in Austria. Anne ended her note by writing, "I'm thoroughly enjoying my expanded responsibilities as chairman of the board of Colby-Sawyer. The college has never been more interesting, complex, nor more fun. We continue to attract marvelous students and the philanthropic support for our endeavors has been extraordinary. When the current capital campaign closes at yearend. I have no doubt that we will be over our $40 million goal! Just as I have been, I know that our donors are inspired by the good work of President Ponder, her senior staff, the faculty and students. Colby-Sawyer is poised now for even greater success. I have never been prouder of my college and wish that all alumni could see it through my eyes!"

I need to hear from my classmates, so I can add some new names and news from others, so please e-mail me or the college. Thanks. Anne Tilnev Brune and I spent the 4th of July up at Northeast Harbor. We did some hiking and lots of eating too. We are expert ice cream eaters and will always be. Another historical event happened in July at Katherine "Cabby" Herr's apartment in Marblehead. June Bascom is still living in Montpelier, VT, with her partner, Michael. Each year they find themselves with a renovation or repair of some aspect of their 1890s home. This summer they found themselves 3 stories up, replacing the roof. June writes, "My work for people with developmental disabilities for the State of VT has been doubly challenging this year due to a huge reorganization effort of the Agency of Human Services. It will probably be better in the long run, but lots of extra work and change in the interim." June is a founding member of a local restorative justice center and volunteers on a reparative board. In their spare time, June and Michael try to make time for biking, skiing, rock and ice climbing, tennis, golf, and any other activity that gets them outside. Kathy Brown Teece writes, "Our nest is emptying quickly!" Their oldest daughter, Erica, is in her senior year at the U. of AZ, and is spending a semester abroad in Buenos Aires, Argentina. Her son, Alex, recently began his freshman year at Ithaca College in NY, and daughter Sam is a high school sophomore. Kathy continues to enjoy holding down the fort at home, becoming more involved in Sam's parent association at school, assisting with church activities, and helping her aging mother with dr. visits, errands, etc. Kathy recently accompanied her niece to Colby-Sawyer for an interview. "It sure is a lot different from when we were there," she writes. "For one thing, there are a lot of boys! But it was great to be back on campus...lots of great memories!" Sally Fairbanks Johnston has a very successful company called Sally Rocks Jewelry Design. Check her out at www.sallyrocks.com.

Lee Ann Bowers Desai visited CSC this past winter to visit her niece Becky Schaffer '06. She plays volleyball and lacrosse for CSC. Lee Ann's daughter is also looking at the college for herself. That will be 3 generations attending—her mother Virginia Colpitts Bowers '50, Lee Ann '78 and Becky '06. Victoria Gallucci '78, a former Austin Dorm resident, currently lives 12 miles west of NYC in Glen Ridge, NJ. She is an actor and a director working in both Manhattan and NJ. Her most recent play was an off-off Broadway production entitled Master Builder: Rebuilt. Victoria was the assistant director and performed in this play. She enjoys many volunteer activities, is happily single, travels a great deal and lives with a wire-haired dachshund. I, Jody Hambley Cooper, finally graduated from Plymouth State U this past May with an M.Ed. with a concentration in school counseling and am currently seeking a position as a school counselor. I can't tell you what a thrill it was to cross that podium, shake hands and receive that master's degree, which I had been working towards for the past 5 years. I look forward to reentering the world of education after working in the business world for the past 24 years, as my undergraduate degree at CSC was in elementary education/ child studies. I hope you all had a great summer and hope that you will come visit here in New London. The new science building was dedicated in Sept. It still amazes me how much this college has grown over the past 10 years or so. As always, I hope to hear from more of you for the next magazine. Please send me an e-mail or drop me a note. It's always nice to be able to read about what everyone is up to! The Alumni Office received word of Alison Chisholm's October wedding in ME to Jeffrey Nathanson. Following Colby-Sawyer, Alison received a degree from Marymount University. She was, until recently, the director of legal recruitment and associate development in the New York office of Covington & Burling, an international law firm. Jeffrey has degrees from Williams College and U of ME School of Law. He is the director of investor relations and corporate communications at Banknorth Group, Inc., in Portland.

This summer my family and I traveled to the States to visit family in Sea Girt, NJ, and then enjoyed a trip to Orlando, FL, to bring the children to Disney World, Cape Canaveral to visit the NASA Space Center and a bit of R&R in Palm Beach. I was a bit apprehensive about flying these days especially with all of the turmoil in the world, not to mention hurricane season. Our summer went very well. We live 5 minutes from the beach here in Rome, so it's very nice for the children to play at the sea. We belong to a beach club, where we can store our "beach stuff" in a little "cabina," which also had a private hot shower. We also have a beach attendant who prepares our umbrella, and places our sunning beds for us. It's stress free! My son, Matteo, attended sailing lessons this summer, and is able now to sail an "optimist sailboat" by himself. He's only 7 and beat the 12 year olds in the regatta, taking the 1st place trophy. Unfortunately, I do not have much to report. I have a problem communicating with classmates, as I do not have many e-mail addresses. If you are reading this column, please drop me a quick note so I can update my files with your recent mailing and e-mail addresses. Send me any e-mail addresses that you may have of any of our classmates. Thanks! Kathy Bernardi Crosby writes that she is very busy with her 3 sons: Billy-12, Ben-9, and Richie-6. The boys are involved in hockey, baseball and golf. She says, "life is busy, but fun, definitely not boring!" Her husband, Billy, has a successful sign and graphic design business. Kathy meets often with Tricia Connelly Reggio, Kathy Brough and LuLu Tolchinsky '83 and their families. LuLu has 2 children, Hannah and Todd (named after Todd Rundgren), and is living in Canada, with her husband. Lisa Dargis Nickerson lives in Poquoson, VA, with her husband, Ante, and their 2 children, Michael and Megan. Michael, 15, a sophomore, is a runner on the x-country team, plays in the high school band, recently received his driver's permit and will be driving by Apr. Megan, 13, is in the 8th grade, plays on the soccer travel team, and has found a new sport interest, field hockey. Lisa hopes this fall will be better than the last. Her town was hit by Hurricane Isabel last Sept., in which the entire city was flooded. Two and a half feet of water filled their home and garage, causing damage to the heating and duct work. They lost 2 cars, but fortunately most of the damage was covered by insurance. She says the time flies, as it seems like yesterday when she was putting her children in the back seat of the car with toys and a sippy cup. Now she's the passenger while her son Michael drives her around!

Warm greetings to the class of 1983! Our class has been busy this summer with family, traveling, work and fun! I received a lovely note from the talented Suzanne Williamson-Vico. Suzanne writes, "I have lived in Plymouth, MA, with my family for 9 years. I have a 10-year-old son named Austin and an 8-yearold daughter named Alyson. I will be celebrating 20 years at my dance studio, 'Dance Concepts,' this fall. I recently saw Karin Nelson at her wedding and enjoyed the company of Karen Vuilleumier '81, another CSC graduate!" Janet Cornell Ben-Yishay is also doing extremely well. In Aug., Janet celebrated 20 years of marriage to her husband, Ron, who is a VP of sales. Janet and Ron have 2 beautiful kids: Jessica Sarah, who is an 11-yearold 6th grader, and Hannah Tamai, who is an 8-year-old 3rd grader. Janet is working as a special education teacher and enjoys living in Slingerlands, NY. She is looking for any information on fellow alumna Kathy Keenan. If anyone has any information on will forward the information to Janet. Laura Danforth is currently the associate head of school at Miss Porter's School in Farmington, CT. She also teaches 2 senior psychology electives to seniors—thanks to her CSC professors—and she also coaches lacrosse. Laura and her family have been living in Harwinton, CT, for the last 10 years. Sharon Carroll Weiss and her husband, David, have moved to the gorgeous CT shore. They are parents to 14-year-old Kyle and 13-yearold Abbey. Sharon and her family love living on the ocean, where they happily go boating, fishing and kayaking. David works as a sales manager for a packaging company and Sharon (also known as SH to her friends from the Burpee Dorm days) works part time for a local florist and bakeshop. I recently received a lovely note from another member of the class of 1983. Leslie Blair. Leslie is currently working in global marketing for Novartis Oncology Pharmaceuticals: she has been working in the pharmaceutical industry for 10 years. Leslie and her husband, Erik Alvarado, have 2 children: a six-year-old daughter, Mara, and a son, Nicholas, who will turn 2 in Nov. She and Erik met while they attended Georgetown U Graduate School of Business. They received their MBAs in 1996 and married one year later. Leslie visits the CSC campus every now and then. Leslie and her mom, Sally Trussell White '59, established a scholarship fund to benefit CSC students majoring in child development or education. The scholarship honors the memory of her sister, Susan L. Blair '88, who was killed on Sept. 11, 2001. If you would like to make a contribution to this fund, please send your donations to the Susan L. Blair Memorial Scholarship Fund, c/o Colby-Sawyer College, 541 Main Street, New London, NH 03257. Leslie stays in touch with many of her friends from Abbey Dorm, including Dee Dee Dean Rich '85 and Dana Eliopoulos Regan '85. She also keeps in close touch with her sister Sue's friends, such as Suzie Fitzgerald Travers '88 and Ann Marie Gillis Finch '88. As for me, Gail

Kathy, please e-mail me and I

Smart Scibelli, I have been working at Computer Associates in Long Island, NY, as vice president of public relations. My fiancé, Tony, and I moved here about a year and a half ago. We missed Boston terribly. In late July, I was offered a new position as vice president of global public relations for Corel, another software company. Tony and I moved back to Boston in Aug. Hooray! It will be great to see my old CSC friends who are still in Boston, like Cynthia Hornketh '82 and Heather Storm '84. When I am in Boston, I run into a lot of great people like Karen Woods Robillard, Sheila Rice and Lori Ghidella Hazard '87. They all look terrific and seem very happy.

Diane Place Statkus sent the Alumni Office an e-mail reading, "Just an update, since I couldn't attend our 20th reunion this year. The day before my 42nd birthday in Jan. I ran my 1st marathon in Phoenix, AZ. Yup, that's 26.2 miles. You'd be amazed at how many people don't know how long a marathon is. I did it with 'Team in Training' for the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society. As a result, I was named with a 2004 John Engdahl award for top fundraising for the society in 2004 and presented with the honor in Cambridge, MA, in June. Raising over $11,000 was easy when it was for diseases that affect so many adults and children. Crossing that finish line was something I never thought possible just 5 months before. But as one of the most noted tag lines from the society says. 'You think finishing a marathon is hard...try chemo!' To everyone's health, reach out and do good when you can; it rewards you personally tenfold." Diane is still working out of her home for IBM. Her 7-year-old son, Michael, is growing fast. Diane can actually fit into his shoes now!

Class of 1983 Mini Reunion. This group of ladies has gathered together for a mini reunion every year since they graduated in 1983! The group, consisting of (I to r) Penny Hansen Moschella, Jennifer Parisella, Kim Quercia Leone and Bess Ratcliffe Hutchison, now includes their families in the gathering, making for a total of eight adults and 11 children.

Sandra Beattie Hand is working for a holistic dog and cat food company called Blue. It's a new company based in Wilton, CT, but Sandra is able to work from her home office. Her duties include recruiting, hiring and training demonstrators, and her territory consists primarily the eastern half of the US. "The company and the product are great, and the job really keeps me busy. I travel often, maybe a bit too often," says Sandra. She and her husband, Mike, have 3 children. David is 10 and Jennifer and Steven are 8. The kids are involved with traveling swim and soccer teams, as well as town recreation programs. "Our home is the gathering place for all of their friends. We often have extra kids at the dinner table or for the night in sleeping bags," writes Sandra. The family also has a 1-year-old golden retriever named Cambridge. Sandra misses New London and hopes to have her family visit the area sometime soon.

I am excited that with each letter I hear from more of our classmates who have not been in touch in the past. Heidi Zirkel Hamparian is living in Marlborough, MA, with her husband, Nick, and her 3 children, Garrett (12), Haley (8) and new addition Brooke Madison (3 months). Heidi is enjoying life and working at WGBH-TV in Boston as the business manager for children's programming. Catherine Marquardt is a physical education teacher at Salem High School in MA. Catherine recently received her teaching certification from Salem State College and is looking forward to teaching young adults. She sends a "hi" to her old college buddies and hopes everyone is doing well. She especially wants to congratulate Sofa and says "hey" to Jeanne and Raz. Molly O'Shea Piercy continues to work for Sysco Foodservice and went to Bermuda in May to help Susan "Bermie" Gibbons Gray celebrate her 40th. Rachel Hobbie had a great summer with golf, gardening and celebrating her 40th birthday. She hopes everyone else celebrating a birthday is showered with adoration. She has seen Kara Savage Nottage '87 and ran into Kelley Donahue '87 at the US Women's Open golf tournament and just missed seeing Torrey Gane '87, who was there as well. Rach has heard from Karen McHugh, who has moved to FL and has reestablished herself in Coral Springs. Rose Randall-Hicks is doing well and living in a beautiful old house on the east side of Providence, RI, with her partner of 12 years and her 7- and 3-yearold daughters. Rose continues to stay busy as deputy director for mental health services. Katherine Foley Pierson is in her 3rd year of school nursing after 15 years at Catholic Medical Center. Her students range in age from 3 to 14. When she is not working, she is busy as a basketball coach, Girl Scout leader and taxi driver for her 2 very busy children (Christopher 15, and Megan 12). She and her husband, Jeff, will be celebrating their 17th anniversary this year with a trip to HI. Elizabeth Haverty was married to Timothy Patrick Burns of CT on July 31, '04, in Farmington, CT. In attendance were Jane Barhoff Ypsilantis '91 and Dorthea Teasdale '57. Liz Pippin has recently moved after spending 7 years as a selfdescribed Disney geek while living in sunny FL working on her golf game. Now having hit the big 4-0, reality has set in and she is back in Lyme, NH, with family (5 nieces and nephews) and teaching music K-8. Liz is also running a travel business, Pippin Travel Co. In her free time Liz quilts, golfs and is the assistant director of a Sweet Adelines chorus. She suggests that if you're out leaf peeping you stop by their Lyme Country Store. Karen Williams Jason completed her master's of science degree in management in May and now has time to start her tennis game again. Cindy Balser-Eaton is still living in Bristol, VT, with her husband, Tim, and kids (Justin, 17, and Molly, 13). She is working as a controller for an electronics manufacturer in Middlebury, VT, while going to school to finish her degree. She stays busy trying to get all those moments with the kids before they move on to their own lives. Susan "Bermie" Gibbons Gray writes, "I had a wonderful 40th birthday celebration as Sarah Cave and Molly O'Shea Piercy showed up on my porch as I sat and ate lunch. I had been a little depressed during the day as I really wanted them both to come to Bermuda for the wonderful birthday party my husband had organized at the Waterlot Inn. So when they both walked in you can imagine the laughter and tears!" They all enjoyed 4 days together. Bermie's family (her parents and her kids) also spent a week in the Bahamas this summer to join friends on their yacht. A terrific way to celebrate 15 years of marriage! Sarah Wardner contacted the Alumni Office, indicating that she was trying to track down nursing students who graduated in 1986 with her. She wrote, "Greetings from the Adirondack Mountains. I was that crazy commuting student who lived in Norwich. VT. in that cabin with no running water, electricity or phone. Remember me?" Sarah is remarried, lives in a "real house," and has been in nursing ever since graduation. She has been in Hospice for 4 years and recently accepted a promotion as patient care coordinator. "Hospice is the best kind of nursing I have found. A wonderful blend of all that's good home care, pain management, family life, spiritual and cultural nuances, love, tears, and lots of laughter. I highly advise it," says Sarah. As for me, Sallianne Ficara Lake, I had the opportunity to be at home with my children this summer and have again remembered just how hard being a stay-at-home mom can be. I went back to my human resource consulting business this fall. Ben (7) and Chris (6) had a terrific summer in our pool and with the new 3-year-old

Hello everyone! Hope you enjoyed the summer and fall. We have a great new way to keep in touch with everyone from CSC. It's the online alumni directory (www. colby-sawyer.edu/alumnifriends). You go in, sign yourself up and you get to be in touch with all your classmates! It's an easy way to keep in touch. As of this writing we only have 14 people connected, so it would be so wonderful if we all get signed up. Therese Zimmer-Farid is doing well. She and her family moved to NJ. To her surprise she is enjoying it very much. Sally Williams McIsaac and her husband own a Hallmark store in Newburyport, MA, where she had been the manager/buyer for 6 years. They enjoy owning their own business. They bring their 4-year-old son, Finlay, with them to work. He helps out around the store, but is mostly the ambassador of children and plays with them while their mothers shop. Greta Sanborn Shepard has come in with her son, Thomas. Finlay's older sister, Hannah, is 8 and in the 2nd grade. She helps out in the store on the weekends. So, anyone heading along I-95 past exit 57 in Newburyport should stop in Bonny's Hallmark at the Port Plaza and say hello. She could probably even come up with a CSC discount. Becky Sullivan McClintock is still working at Connell Communications after 6 years. Becky, her husband, Todd, and her 7-year-old daughter, Megan, all went with family to Maui to renew their wedding vows after 10 years. This was very special to Becky because she has been rediagnosed with breast cancer. Becky has a great attitude and outlook. Denise Samson Berntsen is living in Amsterdam and works 32 hours at the University Hospital-Amsterdam Medical Center in the cardiology department as an echocardiographist (sonographer). On the side she teaches exercise classes 5-6 hours a week. Still keeping in shape! If anyone is planning a trip to Europe and would like to visit Amsterdam, contact Denise. Her e-mail her is deniseberntsen@hotmail.com. Heather Blake is living in CO. She is selling real estate in the greater Denver area and loves it! It gives her flexibility to travel and pursue many activities. She traveled to New Zealand for the month of Jan. and it was amazing. She has taken many trips to the mountains for snow shoeing and hiking. She also takes trips to San Diego, Santa

Fe and Lake Tahoe. She is not married and does not have any kids, as she is too busy to settle down yet. She hopes all is well with her classmates. She would love to hear from anyone from CSC who is interested in buying or selling a house in the greater Denver area. Just e-mail her at www.heatherblake.com. Tracy Howe has switched jobs and works for an information systems company in Mansfield, MA. The summer was busy with work and friends. She keeps in touch with fellow alumnae Kristen Maloney Cormier, Mary Drueding and Kim Devers Scheer. Stay tuned for more news next issue. Please e-mail or send me updates on your life. Remember, everyone wants to hear from you.

Hello classmates. I hope you all had a wonderful summer, enjoying the beautiful weather in the company of friends and family. I, Kelly Lynch Collins, was busy this summer getting married, as you can probably guess by my new last name! I was lucky enough to be surrounded by my former CSC roommates Laura Shaw Cameron, Stephanie Stratton Schell '93, and Electra Mead Blair, who flew to CA to share in my special day. My husband, Justin, and I took a month off from work and honeymooned in the Greek Islands of Santorini and Mykonos for 2 weeks. We then spent another week in NH to attend our East Coast wedding reception, hosted by my parents. Our final week was spent at home in CA recuperating from all of our travels. I'm looking forward to having more free time now, and I plan to spend it on the golf course or on the slopes! I received e-mail in late April from Bridget Hester with lots of news to update everyone. Bridget completed her MBA in Dublin ennifer White is living out a childhood fantasy as half of the acoustic duo, Sferes & White. She writes, "Most of us don't get the chance to see our dreams become reality." As a child, Jennifer used to sing along with a record album playing Helen Reddy's "Delta Dawn," using her hairbrush for a microphone and adding all the moves and drama of an on-stage performance in the privacy of her bedroom, with her stuffed toys as her audience. Over the past almost 30 years, Jennifer reports, she nearly forgot about those earlier "performances." Then, two years ago she was asked to sing at a benefit at the Boulder Theater in Colorado, where she lives. "I'd sung a couple times at an open stage here and there, but this was a big deal, with lots of people and a huge stage. And this time, things went a little differently. This time," Jennifer continues, "as I finished the song and heard the applause, I realized with nothing less than shock that the 'hairbrush' I was holding was actually a microphone, and the crowd of faces looking up at me were not changing back into rows of stuffed animals. This was not make-believe any more; I was actually singing and they were actually clapping."

A musical childhood planted the seed for Jennifer. Her mother (alumna Gretchen Hoch White '53) played piano and sang, her dad played stand-up bass with a band called the Four Fakers, and her brother played drums. But she still had no idea that singing would ever be anything more for her than just "pretend." All that has changed since Jennifer has reached professional status as a musician. She has done studio recordings and radio sessions; performed with a cappella groups, R&B groups, and a country rock band; and she sang backup vocals for the Narrow Gauge Band and Cup-a-Jo.

When she came home to New London in October, Jennifer's friends and family witnessed just how far Jennifer has traveled in her musical life. Sferes & White performed in New London at the Flying Goose Pub and in Sunapee at One Mile West, following a number of gigs across the country. She and Jimmy Sferes, who plays acoustic guitar and also sings, performed a soulful and eclectic mix of blues, folk and rock. They have been described as having an "uncommon synergy, blending clear and luscious harmonies with complex and imaginative guitar playing." Sferes & White are currently working on their first CD. Visit their web site at www.sferesandwhite.com for more information about this exceptional duo, for CD updates, and to see the wonderful realization of Jennifer's childhood fantasy—no hairbrush required!

in Dec. '03, and moved back to Boston. She recently landed her dream job as the regional director of the American Ireland Fund. In Oct.'03 she attended the VT wedding of Karen Leslie to Chad Prouty. Bridget, Kendall Crowley Quackenbos, and Meghan Young Crowley were all in the wedding party. Kendall and her husband, John, keep themselves busy running the Quack Shack ice cream shop in Sunapee, NH, in the summer, and Kendall is the director of phys. ed. at the Winsor School in Boston during the remainder of the year. Meghan stays busy at her pottery design studio, MYC Designs, in Binghamton, NY, with her husband, Kiernan, and son, Conlon Young Crowley, who arrived in Aug. '02. Also attending Karen's wedding were Sara Lawson Straw and Sarah Dumae. They see each other quite a bit, as they're both in the Wilton, NH, area. Sara and Matt Straw welcomed Madeline Ella to the world in Feb. '04 and Sarah and David Dumae are the proud parents of Dylan, who joined them in '03. Bridget also sees Amy Coletti once in a while. Amy is living in Stamford, CT, and continues to do marketing/ sales for the pharmaceutical industry. Angela Piccini '93 wrote saying that she is still living in Burlington, VT, and had bought a condo recently. She had just returned from a beautiful vacation in Santa Barbara, CA, and was helping her fiancé, who was in the process of moving in with her. They are planning a fall '04 wedding. Elizabeth "Beth" Bryant Camp is currently the senior associate director of admissions at Colby-Sawyer. She and her husband, Nathan "Nate" Camp '98, are living in New London, where Nate teaches and coaches in the Kearsarge school district. They have 2 daughters: Ellie, born Feb. 4, '03, and Caroline, born May 19, '04. Beth keeps in contact with Christine "Chrissy" Lyons Lyons, who lives and teaches in Everett, MA. Beth also runs into Kendall Crowley Quackenbos, who summers on Lake Sunapee with her husband. Brenda White is teaching in the nursery school program at Windy Hill School at Colby-Sawyer. Thanks to the great directory at CSC, I, Jen Barrett Sawyer, was able to get in touch with Natashia Dooley! She is living happily in Detroit. She also told me about Mona Streevestra. Mona and her sister have a very successful lingerie company. I also found Jeni

She is working as an account manager in an insurance company benefits dept. in Westbrook, CT. A number of us managed to have a get-together in York, ME, while Robyn True was home on holiday from the UK. It was great to see Janel McDonald Lawton, Amy Koskey Kurja, Alexis Trowbridge Scavetta, Alycia Calavito Parkes and the 8 small children under the age of 5 between us! I was in Boston at the Children's Museum with my hands very full and a woman came to my rescue... Bridget Hester! She was great! It was nice to chat and hopefully we'll get together soon. Summer on the Cape was amazing, but as usual too short. Please e-mail with updates on families, careers, travel, anything! Is the Class Notes section of the Alumni Magazine your favorite? If so, keep the updates, news, and photos coming! We look forward to hearing from you.

Hello! I hope everyone enjoyed a fun, busy summer with friends and families. I, Dawn Hinckley, am still living outside of St. Louis, so this summer was filled with many festivals, including the anniversary celebration of the World's Fair. I am working hard to complete my master's in nursing and switched jobs this fall to head back to the medical center and the bedside as a nurse manager of one of our inpatient units. This summer I enjoyed catching up with some of our CSC friends. Most recently I talked to Kathy Kelly Scoville '94 and her husband, Mark. They are still living in Clarksville, TN. Please keep Kathy and Mark in your thoughts and prayers while he is deployed overseas fighting the war on terrorism. Heather Baker and Kirstin Cleveland are doing well out in Salt Lake City. They are both successful managers of 2 of Snow Bird Mountain's premier restaurants. Kirsten headed back east in Oct. to marry Ron Ball. Congratulations, Kir and Ron. Todd Miller writes, "I am working as a network analyst at Children's Hospital in Boston and I was pleasantly surprised when I ran into Erin Kenneally King, who is a nurse there. I am living in the city and enjoy escaping every now and then to visit all the CSC alumni in the Kittery, ME, area. I seem to run into CSC alumni all over the place. I had lunch with Chad Tassel a few months ago in Pacific Beach, San Diego, and he is doing very well. I am also playing lacrosse for a Boston club team and it gives me good memories playing for CSC." Have a great fall and keep me posted on your great adventures.

Reunion 2004 provided a wonderful opportunity for everyone to get together and reminisce about their days spent on the Colby-Sawyer campus.

taking care of my 4- and 3-yearold children, Siri and Ben. Tracy and I were lucky enough to visit with a fun group up at Reunion Weekend on June 5. We attended Reunion with Katie Ventura '93 and Tobi Harrington Murch, both of whom were expecting their 1st children. It was fun to tour the campus, look at the old dorms, as well as the new dorms, and all of the new buildings on campus. Colby-Sawyer certainly has changed in the past 10 years! We had fun dining with Patty Randall Berry and Dan Berry. Patty is working for the Girl Scouts in Bedford, NH, and Dan is working for the YMCA in Reading, MA. Jen Deasy is still in the area at Camp Coniston and lives there year round as the director of the camp. Jay Geiger is in Albany, NY, and was able to talk about marathon running with Tracy. Tracy and I were both excited to talk to Jennifer D'Orazio Hollingsworth, who flew up from PA to attend the weekend. She was lucky that her husband, Shawn, stayed home with her 3 beautiful kids. Jen was having a great time catching up with Beth Sargent Fenton, with whom she was staying in Bradford, NH. Dave Morin and Sara Hodgkins Morin '95 were there from Windsor, VT, as well as Ally Goff Sharpe and her husband, Chris. Ally and Chris have 2 children and are living in Westford, MA. We also got to see Hillary Waldbaum, who is living in Manchester, NH, and working for Oxford Health Care. Word on the street is that she is also our class agent, so we will probably be getting a letter from her in the next few months. Hillary was also there with Dawn Reid, who is working in the communications office at Colby-Sawyer and pursuing a degree in graphic design. Christopher and Jeannine Timchak Audet checked in from ME, where Chris is working as an athletic trainer and peer leadership coordinator at Belfast Area High School. Jeannine is at MBNA America as a senior credit analyst. Holly Long Maturo is living in CT and had her 1st child in Sept. (see photo.) Simon Mendez is in Stamford, CT. He is running his family business, which his father started in 1973. Simon was married in Oct. '02. He and his wife Laurie are expecting their 1st child in Nov. Kathryn Kelly-Scoville is living in Clarksville, TN. She is a labor and delivery nurse at Fort Campbell Army Hospital. She also recently received her MA in human resources from Webster University. Elizabeth Toole Witham is living in Reading, MA, with her husband, Paul. She works in Norwood for Cramer Productions, which is a marketing production company. Marc Wysocki and Tammy Hoyt Wysocki '91 welcomed their first child on Aug. 10. Keenan James was born at 5:58 p.m., weighing in at 9 lbs. 8 oz. and 22 inches long. Marc is in his 3rd year at the Berkshire School and his 1st year as head athletic trainer. Marc was also chosen by the US Olympic Committee to work from July 5-20 at the training center in Colorado Springs, CO. On July 18, Tracy and I had a fun time attending Tobi Harrington Murch's baby shower in Medford. MA. Katie Ventura '93 and Erin Kenneally King were there as well. It was great to catch up with so many people over the summer. Tracy and I continue to hunt for information about classmates. If you have anything fun or exciting happening (or even not so exciting), please e-mail or write, we are always interested.

Catching Up on the West Coast. Sara Hodgkins Morin '95 and Brian Duval '95 recently caught up with one another at a graphic design conference in San Diego, California.

Southern ME Community College is going very well. "My daughter, Ally, is now 6 months old and is keeping me and my wife, Maureen, on our toes. I recently discovered that rice cereal for babies might be the worst tasting food I've ever had!" writes Matt. Rebecca Duboff Greenstein is living in North Bennington, VT, with her husband, Brian. They moved to VT 2 years ago, after 9/11. They had lived 45 minutes outside of NYC. Rebecca is working as a chiropractic assistant, which she loves. The couple recently purchased a new home. Lynn Hart Cutting taught 1st grade for 6 years, and this year began teaching in the kindergarten classroom in the same school. Her children are now 2and 4-years-old. Lynn's family lives in Hampton, NH. Lynn recently enjoyed a nice visit from Heidi Stevens Freeman. Heidi is doing well in UT. Her husband is training for a possible spot on the Olympic ski team. Nicole Shipman Caporizzo is living in Franklin, MA, and works on a surgical floor as a per diem RN. She has 2 daughters: 4-year-old Fiona and 18-month-old Ava. Nicole has spoken with Carol Signorelli recently, and Carol is working in labor and delivery on Shelter Island, NY. Jeanne Corcoran Wiggin is still living in CT and works in public relations. She and her husband, Matt, are expecting their first child on Jan. 1. They have a lake house on Lake Winnisquam in Tilton, NH, which they quite enjoy. One weekend in Aug. they hosted a mini-reunion with Susan Olsen and Sara Bryant. On another trip to NH, Jeanne took her husband on an extensive tour of the CSC campus. "Ware Campus Center and Colgate were open, so he got a ridiculously detailed tour of where I had all my classes over my 41/2 years at CSC," wrote Jeanne. Jeanne also said she had a blast at Jessica Dacey's wedding in Ft. Lauderdale, FL, in April. Don Varnum and his wife expected their 1st child in Oct. Stefan Schwarz is living in Fairfax, VA, still working for a government contractor as a quality assurance engineer/software development tester. He is also still heavily involved in working with various Klinefelter Syndrome (the genetic condition that both he and his stepson have) organizations. In Jan., Stefan became the pediatric program coordinator for the 47 xxy +/- population of young boys with the condition. He continues to provide education, support and advocacy for those families and individuals involved with the genetic anomaly. Stefan's website (www.klinefeltersyndrome.org) continues to grow. Christine, Stefan's wife, works part time at an urgent care center, leaving her more time to spend with the children and allowing to become involved in their many activities. His stepson recently began 5th grade, while his stepdaughter entered the 2nd grade. Becka Sargent spent the summer traveling around Europe and visiting friends from her Semester at Sea study abroad program. Upon her return, she began a new position as an elementary school assistant principal in the Boston Public Schools. Sara Hodgkins Morin sent an e-mail to the Alumni Office with a wealth of information about friends and classmates. Sara, her husband, Dave Morin '94 and their son, Jack (who will be 2 in Dec.), were on campus in June for Dave's 10th Reunion. They enjoyed meeting up with Matt Richards and his daughter, Ally; Dan Berry '94, Patty Randall Berry '94 and their daughter, Maggie; and Ally Goff Sharpe '94 and her husband, Chris, along with their children. Parker and Ava. They were also happy to see Jen Deasy '94, Jay Geiger '94 and Tony Librot '94 and

purchased their 1st home. Sara met up with Brian Duval in San Diego, where they were attending a graphic design conference. In the spring she spent a day on campus with Tanya Joyce O'Brien, catching up and taking in the senior art exhibition. In Aug., Tanya was in OR, visiting Nicola Lowe and her partner, Alon, and Brian Duval. Earlier in the year, Sara and Dave wished Chris Gasparro '94, his wife, Jenn, and their daughter, Kate, farewell as they moved to FL to follow a great job offer from Chris's company. Dave and Chris roadtripped the NH to FL trip together, stopping to see Erik Macenas '93 and his family along the way. "We miss the Gasparros so much, as we spent many weekends with them, letting the kids play, grooming future Colby-Sawyer sweethearts," wrote Sara. The Morins recently visited Jack Tremblay '94, Heather Quigley Tremblay and their son, Jacob, at their new home in St. Albans, VT. The Morin's son. Jack. is named after Jack Tremblay, so it was great for little Jack to spend some time with his "Uncle Jack." The Morins feel fortunate that they still see and stay in touch with so many of their college friends. In May, Chris "Koz" Kozlowski celebrated the grand opening of his new restaurant, Orchard Street Chop Shop, in downtown Dover, NH, just one block from his 1st restaurant, Crescent City Bistro & Rum Bar. Orchard Street Chop Shop is northern New England's only Chicago-style, USDA Prime steakhouse. On the 2nd floor, Top of the Chop, Koz offers a menu in a less formal atmosphere with full bar service. Stop in, grab a bite to eat and check out the private Cubanstyle cigar lounge! Caroline Herz is a practicing and licensed certified public accountant in the state of NY. She is also a certified internal auditor. She is currently employed at Citigroup as an audit manager for the corporate technology and infrastructure division. In addition, Caroline was recently elected to the board of directors of her condominium complex, which is conveniently located proximate to her job at Citigroup on the Upper East Side of Manhattan.

Hello class of '96. We hope that you all had a fun summer. We spent some of it trying to get in touch with you all and we have realized that we do no have updated addresses for everyone. Unfortunately, we have received a lot of e-mails and postcards back with "undeliverable" stamped on them. It would be great if you could update us with new info, and encourage anyone you talk with to contact us as well. Feel free to e-mail, call, write or go to the CSC alumni office to update your information. To get to the website simply go to the CSC homepage, where you can find a link to alumni and you can register to access message boards and fellow alum's information. It is a wonderful resource! We would love to hear from more of you! In putting this column together we also realized it was a year full of babies!

Congratulations to everyone that introduced a new bundle (or bundles!) of joy into their family. And thank you to everyone that gave us news to put in this column; it was so nice to hear from you all. Amanda Wood Lopardo and her husband, Anthony ("A.J."), and 2-year-old son, Nicholas, welcomed Lily and Charlie to their family on Mar. 19. The twins were born at Brigham and Women's Hospital in Boston and weighed in at 4.5 pounds. The family resides in Boxford, MA. Christopher Fulton and his wife, Kathleen, are excited to announce the arrival of their 1st child, Kaileigh. She was born on Jun. 21, weighing 7 lbs. 9 oz and was 20.5 inches long. They are living in Rockland, MA, in a fantastic antique colonial just a short distance from the town golf course.

They bought their home almost 2 years ago and love everything about it. Heather Weaver Ryan and her husband had their 1st baby on Oct. 23, '03. Her name is Caitlyn Elyzabeth Ryan. Matt Phelps and Kristine Smiley Phelps' family continues to grow. On March 2, they added baby number three, Evan Matthew. Evan joins his very busy 20month-old twin sisters. In order to keep up with the growing family, Matt was promoted to associate executive director at the Southern Saratoga YMCA. In addition to being a very busy mom times three, Kristine continues to teach special education part time. Sarah Racine Vallieres has been very active. She enjoys her time chasing her 2 young boys, Joshua, who was 5 in Oct., and Jacob, who turned 2 in April. And, she recently became a sales director for Mary Kay Cosmetics, which means that she is directing 30 women in developing their own careers, while managing her own business. From our own CSC website we can add that Melissa Miller Marcoux is doing very well. On our message board she writes, "After graduation, I started working in advertising in VT and one year later moved to NYC. I worked in media planning at Wieden & Kennedy for a few years. I loved my clients (Nike and ESPN). Then, I went to Grey and worked on LVMH fashion brands (Christian Dior, Celine and Louis Vuitton). In Sept. '02. I married the most wonderful man. John Marcoux. He's an attorney from NY. Our wedding was at the Planting Fields Arboretum and it was perfect. I was thrilled I could share the day with some CSC friends (Skip Hagemann, Maura Higgins Semmes and Kathleen McLaughlin Ringler). We honevmooned in Costa Rica, where we surfed for 2 weeks. It was amazing. Now. I'm 8 months pregnant. We are expecting our 1st child, a baby girl, on June 1. We are living in Chicago and I am attending nursing school. I should be done in 2 more years. John quit law, went to yoga school in Los Angeles and now owns several Bikram Yoga studios in Chicago. He's much happier! I'd love to hear what everyone is up to. Please e-mail anytime; it would be fun to catch up. Via e-mail, I can be reached at melissa_britt@yahoo.com." We received an e-mail from Melissa letting us know that their baby girl was born on May 29, weighing 8 lbs. 7 oz. Her name is Isabelle Carolyn Marcoux. Russell Mills and his wife Kim are living in southeastern VA. They live near the Chesapeake Bay. Russell has been a yacht broker selling new and pre-owned boats for the last 5 years. They have a 1-year-old son named Logan and are expecting another child in Feb. '05. Scott Curtis says hello to everyone. He is living in Hopkinton, MA, where he is still working at EMC as a design engineer for storage products. He is lucky enough to live on a lake and own a ski boat, so he has been water-skiing every day. Amy Sherman is living in Agawam, MA. After leaving CSC, she earned a bachelor's degree in teaching from Elm's College in MA. She then received her master's in teaching at Cambridge College and is now teaching reading at a middle school. Jill Sacco Stack is having a great time working for New Belgium Brewing Company (makers of Fat Tire beer). Her title is "The Resourceress," which means she does all the sourcing and purchasing for all the brewery stuff that is not beer—T-shirts, hats, banners, posters, etc.—and then she works with the graphic designers on designing them. Jill also has a side business doing flowers for weddings, so she was extremely busy this summer. In her spare time she is still running, playing ultimate Frisbee, playing soccer for New Belgium, and living the CO mountain life with her husband. Annalee Lewis Murphy is living in Cambridge, MA, with her husband, Matt, and their 1-year-old son, Leander. She is a program manager for a Day Habilitation Center. The center serves 36 adults with mental retardation. She is also preparing to go back to school to study nursing. Diana Amoroso Millett and Kris Millett are living in a newly purchased house in NY. They have a 3-year-old daughter, Olivia, and are hoping to adopt

Hello all! We hope this edition of the magazine finds everyone well. I am currently working for the Girl Scouts as a community cultivator for the City of Manchester, NH. It is a temporary, grant-funded position, but is a great opportunity for me to gain some new skills in the nonprofit area, as well as to network with great people. While working, I had the opportunity to watch the NH Freedom Football team play. For those of you not familiar, this is professional women's football. Whose name did I hear called into the game? None other than Barb Gering! There was a meet and greet at the end, so we were able to chat. She is tending bar in Manchester and playing football. It was great this spring to Mark Boucher '96 and Michelle Souriolle Boucher's daughter, Rylee. It is quite special to have found a strong bond of friendship with someone and even more special to know it will continue to grow with her child. Rick Ellis '95 and I returned to Newport, RI, for our 2nd anniversary. We went to the Tennis Hall of Fame and watched Agassi, McEnroe and some old greats play. We also saw the inductions of 2 of my favorite players, Graf and Edberg, into the Hall. Jolene Thompson Stratton had a baby boy in March and is enjoying her drastically changed lifestyle! Justine Hammond is working to launch Guide to Sportboats. It will be the 1st print magazine for her company, BoatTEST.com. Justine was busy traveling this summer. She went to Mexico to research a possible independent film she and her sister hope to produce, and in Aug., she was off to Athens for the Olympics as a guest of the US Sailing Committee. Sonya Conary-Keefe is a registered nurse clinician, specializing in high tech therapy. She is working for Hancock County Home Care and Hospice, and is in charge of training the RN's there and at Blue Hill Memorial Hospital. Her latest task is to create and revise the policy and procedures for peripherally inserted central lines. Sonya and her husband, Howard, have 3 beautiful daughters and own a home in Blue Hill. Their home is right on the Bay and they own a boat, which they "use to lobster recreationally, cruise the bay, and visit the many islands up and down the coast of ME." She keeps in touch with Justine Hammond and her husband, Eric, often. Sonya saw built a home in Bar Harbor and had a baby in June. Brian Morrisey continues to live close to the beach in Santa Cruz, CA. He is a marketing manager for a laser optics company called Argus International Limited. Brian writes, "My award-winning poetry magazine, POESY, continues to make a presence in Santa Cruz and San Francisco. I was featured at the North Beach San Francisco Poetry Festival this year." Congratulations on your excellent accomplishments, Brian! He enjoys running road races and riding wooden roller coasters in his spare time. Fawna Gallant Hattrup recently enjoyed a visit to CSC to see her brother graduate and visit with the girls from the basketball team and Coach Martin. She also received a big promotion as the aquatics manager for the City of Orlando, FL! Laura Powell also has a new job. She is working part time doing clerical work in a computer store. Laura spent every weekend basking in the sun on the Jersey shore for the summer. Stephanie Peterson Racine and John Racine are living in Pawtucket, RI. Stephanie will graduate in Dec. with her master's in ESL. John Racine is on his way to becoming a licensed architect. They are also remodeling their kitchen. Karen Wilkinson Henderson and her husband became homeowners in Loudon, NH. She continues to shape the young minds of the 1st graders in Londonderry. Also shaping our children's futures is Rhonda Ross, who has completed her 4th year of K-4 and middle school in Oakland, CA, and is aiming to achieve her PE certification. Her other latest endeavor is learning how to skateboard, but she is really just hurting herself. Chip Steward is enjoying life in VT with his wife, Kellie, and their 2 little boys. He is the director of sales and sponsorship for Okemo Mt. Lori Prue-Bertone continues to work in special education at Cornish Elementary, but working less to have more mommy time with Ainsley, 4, and Ethan, 2. Tony Bertone '94 is the graphic arts manager at the Eagle Times. They are very busy keeping up with Ainsley, who is involved with many activities and Ethan, aka Dennis the Menace, who gets into many things. Congratulations to Kyle Houghton and Melissa Trescoke, who married in PA and had their reception at the Phelps Mansion in Binghamton, NY. CSC alum in attendance included Doug Bennett, who was a groomsman, John Racine and Stephanie Peterson Racine, and Jenna DeMarco. They had a wonderful honeymoon in Maui, Kauai, Hawaii, and Oahu. Kyle and Melissa will be sending along a photo for the next issue. Doug Bennett and his wife, Sue, and have moved to the Portland, ME, area from Boston. He is the assistant director of admissions for the U of ME at Orono. Doug is working at and running the Portland satellite office. Sue is a nurse at the Maine Medical Center. They are looking to buy a house in the fall. Future CSC students on the way...Katie Josephs Flint, husband, Scott, and Harper, who is almost two, will be adding to their family. Baby number two is due February. Todd Sorensen and his wife were expecting their second child in the first week of October. Colleen Cross Carlson and her husband will also add their second child this winter. While awaiting the baby's arrival, Colleen will be a special education aide in the Dover, MA, school district. She is keeping her feet wet in the schools while awaiting a full time teaching opening. She wanted to remain active in the school system and explore the special education field a bit more. Colleen braved the testing requirements and is MA certified! Ideally, she would like to move back to NH! She recently attended the wedding of Tanja Carlsson Mauzy '96 in June at a beautiful site in Yarmouth, ME. Christine Stevens Bone '96 also attended. Catherine Yarbro Walgren and her husband, Scott, will welcome a baby boy around Labor Day! Scott will be stationed in Norfolk, VA, for another two years and will deploy in March. Catherine is looking for a family practice physician assistant position. Tawnya Gannon recently drove across the country to San Diego and is working in a hospital there until January. Chikara Funada, who e-mailed the Alumni Office, is living in Yokohama, very close to Tokyo, and is working as deputy editor of F1 Sokuho, a Formula 1 race magazine. Chikara wrote, "Formula 1 is the world's best motorsport series, which consists of 18 races in 17 countries every year. I travel around the world, following the series." Chikara hopes to visit New London in the near future. We try hard to catch up with everyone, but sometimes life gets busy and we could use your help! Please keep your information current with the Alumni Office, especially an e-mail. Sorry, we are slaves to technology! Also, if you haven't done so already, check out the online CSC Alumni Directory. You can add your information and/ or get connected to a friend you have lost touch with. Many of us have been asking for this site for a few years and now it is here; let's take full advantage of it! Take care and keep in touch!

Hello class of '98! Can you believe it's now been 6 years since we've graduated? It seems like many of us are going on with our lives in great success. I have been keeping busy in the visual department of Banana Republic and continuing with my massage practice in my down time. On July 31, I ventured to Westbrook, CT, where I joined about 30 CSC alumni ranging from the class of '95 to '00 for an annual Blue Moon Page Party hosted by Frank "Rizzo" Abel '97. Some of the people in attendance were Frank, Jim McGilvery '96, Kevin Slattery '96, Don Varnum '95, Pat Desmond '95, Kevin Flynn '00, Rob Kasprzak, Kyle Battis '99, Chris Carriere '99, Nick Burchard '99, Jason Vargo '99, Phil Manning '97, John Eaton, Mechilia Eng '00, Nat Cole '97, Ryan Morley '99 and Diane Marsden Morley '96, Joanne Gorham '97, Seth Hurley '99 and many more. The party lasted early into the next morning and we are all anticipating the next one! Rizzo, get those invites out now! In early July I ventured to ME, where I met up with Chris Quint and his wife, Kim, for dinner. Chris and Kim have made their way back east and settled in Biddeford, ME. Chris is working once again for Planned Parenthood. Kim is the site manager for the Bowdoin Medical Group, a private medical practice. This is a great job for her and she is excited to hit the ground running. They found a great farmhouse that was built around the turn of the century. It has a lot of character and charm, and they moved in July 9. Slowly but surely they are getting unpacked and putting their own personal touches on the house. I recently got in contact with Melissa Morgan. She enjoys living in NYC. She has been accepted into her 2nd year at Fordham to earn her master's in social work. I received word from Lisa Lachesky that Meredith DeCola Trudel and her husband, Jeff, have welcomed a baby girl to their family. She was born in July. Jodi Lambert and her husband, Larry, also welcomed a baby girl, Lillian, in April. Jodi has since returned to a new job at CMMC in the Oncology Outpatient Clinic in Lewiston, ME. Besides these 2 life-changing moments, they also bought a house in Farmingdale, ME. Congratulations to Meredith and Jodi! Chris received an e-mail from Brian "Pepe" Heon. He has been spending much time with Chris Tulloch '97 and Justin Hirch '00, wakeboarding and waterskiing in UT. He is traveling about southern UT and having fun with his summer. Kelly Dudek Trella has begun courses toward her MBA through an online program of Regis University in CO. She is anticipating a graduation in spring 2006. In the meantime, Kelly is still working at ING Financial Advisors in Hartford, managing the broker/ dealer marketing communications department. Gary Kennedy writes from Portsmouth, NH. He enjoyed his summer working for the postal service in Portsmouth. He became engaged in May and is planning a Sept. '05 wedding. Keven Kenney will be serving as his best man. John Durocher is still making Nashua, NH, his home. He keeps busy at work and spending time with his dog. Lauren Bodkin planned to be married Sept. 4 in Kennebunkport, ME. She and her husband were to honeymoon on Martha's Vineyard, and in March they'll continue the honeymoon with a trip to Ireland. Lauren recently began her 7th year teaching seniors at Brewster Academy in Wolfboro, NH. Exciting news has come from Kevin Webster and Beth Ferreira Webster. They will be expecting their 1st child in early Nov. They are very busy getting everything ready, and are having a lot of fun in doing so. Martin Binette and Melissa Eckman Binette '99 wrote from Beverly, MA. Marty is teaching in Ipswich and is still coaching in Hamilton-Wenham. He ran in the Boston Marathon in April, and while there was killer heat, he finished the race. Marty and Missy are in the process of house hunting. Ann Preston writes, "I've been so quiet for the last few years and now it seems like I've had stuff to e-mail you about every few months! I left UVM at the end of the spring semester, and began attending the U of VA-Charlottesville in the fall fulltime. I was accepted into their critical care nurse practitioner program. It will keep me busy until May '06. I am also keeping busy planning a May '05 wedding to my fiance, Matthew Nola." Nate Camp and Beth Bryant Camp '92 welcomed their 2nd daughter, Caroline Stewart Camp, May 19, '04. She joined her big sister, Ellie, and everyone is doing great. While Chris and I tried to contact the majority of the class, there were so many of you that we haven't heard from. All of your classmates would love to know what events are going on in your lives. Feel free to drop Chris or me a line and let us know what is going on!

Hi everyone! Our 5th year reunion has come and gone and it was so great to see so many of you. Thank you to everyone who attended; you made it fun and of course we won't forget the partying as if we were still students! If you weren't able to make it, we were thinking of you. Many of you wrote us to say hello to all. The unanimous response from everyone who was there was that they loved being back on campus to see familiar friends and faces. I, Suzanne Blake Gerety, continue to work with my husband on our speaking and publishing business. We released a new e-book in the fall for 1st year college students. Ed and I are excited about our baby on the way! I am due with our 1st child in Dec., and we are looking forward to all the fun that being parents has to offer. I keep in touch with my CSC friends, Nat Ciulla, Ari Lombardi, Melissa Eckman Binette. Cara Falconi and Kelley Healey on a regular basis.

I, Kelley Healey, officially have my master's degree in education and have accepted a teaching position in Sharon, MA, as a special educator. I have finally taken the plunge and moved from my home sweet home in NH and I now live in Weymouth, MA. I had a busy, yet enjoyable, summer with weddings, sporting events, moving, and spending time with my family and friends. Sara LeRoy has a new position as a speech-language pathologist in Chatham, MA. It was an exciting opportunity for her to expand her experiences to be the therapist for both an in-patient and outpatient facility. She's working with many adults to help rehabilitate language skills after a stroke. Sara is also contracted to perform yearly evaluations on adults with developmental disabilities in another facility. Chuck Morrison received a promotion at work; he is now an executive producer at 1510 AM The Zone, which is a Boston sports radio station. He and Sophie Reist celebrated their marriage in Aug. in Nashua, NH, and had a reception at The Westford Regency in Westford, MA. Congrats Chuck and Sophie. Chris Moyer writes that he is getting closer to finishing his PhD. His wife, Jessica, recently completed her master's degree and a certificate of advanced study in library science, and is now looking for a position. In Jan. he published his 1st scientific paper, a review of the psychological results at conferences in Montreal, Quebec and Nashville, TN. Jeff Devaney is still living in Salt Lake City, UT. He finished his master's degree and is now a nurse practitioner. He is not working as a typical nurse practitioner though; instead he works for a medical device company called Sorenson Medical, Inc. Jeff is the clinical/medical specialist there and loves it! With this job he is traveling all over the world one or more weeks out of each month. He bought a house and was married in August '03. Jamie Wiley was one of his groomsmen and his wife Danielle Cartier Wiley attended. Adrienne Shrekgast is living in Brighton, MA, and teaches 1st grade in Arlington. She is still a roommate with Kara Crane and they moved to Commonwealth Ave. Adrienne had a great time in Italy last year and she is looking forward to another fun adventure. She enjoyed seeing a lot of CSC alums at Reunion and at the Red Sox game in June! Jennifer Mitchell Buckler and her husband welcomed a baby boy, Ryan Peter Buckler, on Jan. 3. They live on the Cape, in Osterville. They spent the summer on Nantucket, as her husband runs a boat from Nantucket to Martha's Vineyard. Jayson Thyng reports that he had a great time at Reunion. Last year he was promoted to deli manager for Market Basket in Plaistow, NH. He has loved every minute of it with the different challenges that each day brings. As a result of his promotion, he moved from Milton, NH, to East Hampstead, NH, where he has been living since Dec. '03. He now lives closer to his best friend, Erika Cone Clohecy, and her family. Jayson also keeps in touch with fellow classmates Amy Bergeron, Michele Grodzicki Frenkiewich and Brian Frenkiewich. Speaking of Brian and Michele Frenkiewich, they are enjoying time with their daughter, Ayla, who is growing fast. They have relocated to ME, where Brian is pursuing his dream of medical school at the U of New England in Biddeford. Greg Hooven writes that things are pretty much the same, but he's in the process of planning effects of massage therapy. It was well received and has led him to opportunities to present the

his wedding with his fiancée and also looking at buying a house. Congrats to Laura Densch Heath and her husband, Courtney. Laura is pregnant and is due in Jan. She is still working at DHMC in the PICU and loves her job. She and Courtney are also busy working on their house and landscaping. Josh Bailey continues to work as the fitness center manager for USM on their Portland, ME, campus. In Sept., he began the doctorate of physical therapy program at the U. of New England. Josh is going to try to work and take classes at the same time. He and his brother have been playing football for a team called the Notre Dame Cobras in the New England Football League. He is having fun with it and says it relieves his stress! Rose Keefe is opening a preschool in the Pensacola, FL, area. She is starting out with 3 classes (40 children) and is very excited. She bought a new boat and spends as much time on the water as possible. Congrats, Rose! Jennifer Blais Cousins and Chris Cousins '98 are living in Bowdoinham, ME, with their 2 cats and a black lab. Chris is a journalist for The Times Record, a daily newspaper in Brunswick, and Jen is the lead teacher at the Bath, ME, Area Family YMCA preschool enrichment program. Jen is due with their 1st child in Dec. They are excited planning for their new arrival. They keep in regular contact with several CSC grads, including Paul LaClair, Kate Nevins LaClair, Bret Carmichael, Brian Carriere and Chris Carriere, Chuck Morrison and Sophie Reist Morrison, Kevin Pickering, and Kim Jacob LaClair. Shane Hoover is a proud new dad to his son, Simon (Sy for short), who was born over the summer. He reports that time is no longer the same, but he loves being a new dad. Ali Jesser recently completed the Hallmark Institute of Photography's 10-month intense program. She is now venturing into a career custom built for new adventures. Ali will be in UT this winter and says to look her up if you want to visit. Erika Cone Clohecy and her husband live in Derry, NH, and have 2 little boys, Jayson Mitchell and Joshua David, who was born Jan. '04. Erika is a reading teacher in Derry part time, but is a full time mom! Erika and her husband hang out with Michele Grodzicki Frenkiewich and Brian Frenkiewich, Andrea Huff Rose and her family, Kris Riley Ingoldsby, Amy Bergeron, Jayson Thyng and some other Colby-Sawyer friends. Kara Crane spent her summer doing a Daytrippers camp. They go on a different trip each day and it's quite fun. She returned to The Park School in the fall to continue her "real" job of teaching nursery through 9th grade physical education, and coaching soccer, basketball and lacrosse. Kara is also taking classes for her teaching certification and her master's in PE. Kim Kogut writes that she was glad to come to Reunion to meet back up with Jayson Thyng, Erika Cone Clohecy, Nick Bertsimas, Kim Jacob LaClair and others. She was promoted to a loan specialist and loves her job. Kim spent the 4th of July with her godchildren and their family; they had a BBQ, spent the day at the pool, and caught some fireworks to celebrate. She also attended the Red Sox game with other CSC alumni in June.

Ciao everyone! Hope the summer went well for everyone! As of this writing, I, Tara Schirm Campanella, am preparing for our new arrival, a baby girl-Gianna Rose Campanella! My husband and I are very excited and my belly is growing bigger as I type. She certainly will have arrived by the time you read this. I was able to take a May trip to the States to visit family and to attend Maryellen Skulski's and Richard Mitrano's wedding. It was like a mini CSC reunion at her beautiful wedding and we had so much fun! She got married on the Cape and the reception was at the Daniel Webster Inn. Of course, Maryellen, true to her funky taste, wore a light pink wedding gown, which was exquisite. I saw Michele Stantial, Sandy Weirs-Haggerty, Sean Haggerty '99, Laura Twitchell, Darcy LaFrance and Cheryl Lecesse '02. We danced the night away and celebrated Maryellen's marriage. The happy couple then went on a 2-week European tour for their honeymoon. Congratulations! There are also many other happy CSC weddings to report and also many upcoming ceremonies. Melissa Weymouth reports, "In July

Class of 2000 Mini Reunion. (L to r) Jason Roaf, Colleen McInnis Roaf '00, Alison Calvarese Lopes '00, Ronald Lopes '00, Cristy Vallee '00 and Jeffrey Morgan spent the weekend of July 16 together on the Cape. What's not so obvious in this photo is the fact that Alison was expecting her and Ron's first child, due November 3, 2004!

I attended Chelsea Bisbee's wedding to Jason Correia. I had a blast! Congratulations Chelsea and Jason!" Chelsea and Jason honeymooned here in my backyard, Italy, for 2 weeks. Melissa is still living in CO, working for USA Volleyball. She just got back from Austin, TX, where she ran their Junior Olympic Volleyball Championships, which was a great success! Holly Filasky attended Jesse Worobel '01 and Jacky Woyda's wedding in Mount Snow, VT. She writes, "It was a beautiful wedding and they both looked amazing. It was one big Colby-Sawyer reunion, with too many drinks and tons of laughs. I also spent time in NH with Katie Zlotek, which was the best way to start and end my crazy trip to New England." Tony Detore says, "Things are going well on this end. My band is really picking up steam. I included a picture of us at a show we did a few weeks ago. It was the Manch-Vegas Rockfest in Manchester. We opened for Lacuna Coil for one of their club shows while they were on tour with Ozzfest. It was an incredible experience, playing outside on that huge stage and getting to spend time with an international recording artist. We hit the studio in Aug., and we have several major shows coming up this fall/winter with more national bands!" Tony was married to Courtney Wright '02 in Oct. Steve Drozell and Stacy Leughmyer '01 were also married in Oct., and Nick Bertsimas '99 was married in Sept. Wow! We should have all sorts of wedding pics for our next issue. Lori Shetler '99 wrote to tell me that she took a trip to Italy in April for 2 weeks. She toured Rome, Florence, many Tuscan hill towns, and Venice and the islands. "It was a dream come true," Lori wrote, "especially after studying all the art history in Martha's classes!" Lori was proposed to on the island of Burano, an island off of Venice. Since the engagement, Lori has relocated to FL, near the beaches, and she is planning a wedding early next year at The Breakers! She enclosed an engagement photo. Congrats, Lori! It is amazing how it is such a small world; you never know when you will run into CSC people. Rachel Bratter-Gronblom reports, "I was recently talking with a client and she asked where I went to college, so I told her and I thought that her jaw was going to hit the floor. Not only did she graduate from CSC she (Leah Caswell '65) and I lived in the same dorm room in the basement of Burpee. We spoke about the college and some of the changes that have taken place. It was so nice to run in to an alum here in my home town. She has made an amazing life for herself. She owns her own successful business and has an amazing home." Jennifer Wallerstein is switching coasts. She says, "I am moving to San Diego! I got another promotion at Alphatech and this time they are shipping me out to the SD division to be an all purpose security/HR/program manager/ office manager type. I am in the process of finding an apartment will be moving on or around Sept.1. I will be there on contract for one year, but if it all works out I will stay a CA girl a while longer. Can't wait to miss out on another NE winter... if anyone is in the area, feel free to look me up!" Jess Warner writes, "I am running a dental office in Springvale, ME, and renovating a house in Norway, ME. I also am getting my floral photography ready to sell and possibly exhibit." John Coughlin has been very busy in DC. He says, "In May '04, I graduated from American U. in Washington, DC, with a master's in special education/ learning disabilities. I will be a middle school social studies teacher at The Pershing School, which is a private special education school in Silver Spring, MD. I also proposed to my girlfriend, Ngoc Linh, in May '04. We set the date for April 3, '05. Last but not least, I am currently training for the '04 Dublin Marathon (that's 26.2 miles - 42KM for the metric conversion), while helping to fundraise money for an AIDS clinic in the Washington, DC, Metropolitan region." All sorts of good news for John! Congrats on the engagement and good luck with your marathon and new teaching job! Jill Gragnano has also been busy in school. She writes, "I have just completed a 10-month surgical technician program at

Bridgeport School of Nursing in CT, where I also have landed a job. Prior to starting in this exciting new field I treated myself to a 14-day European discovery tour. The tour started in London and headed to the following countries: Amsterdam; St. Goar, Germany; Munich, Germany; Tyrol, Austria —where I white water rafted through the mountains—so beautiful, then headed to Venice, Rome and Florence, Italy, then to Lucerne, Switzerland, Paris, France—where we saw the end of the Tour de France, and finally ending back in London." Sounds like the theme this issue is wedding and European trips! I am so glad to hear everyone is doing well! Please keep Jen and me updated and thank you! Hey everyone! Jen Prudden here. I have to say that responses for our class have dropped off, so if there is anyone you can get us back in contact with, please let us know. It was a busy spring and summer for me. I finished up my master's degree in May and am glad to never write a paper again. I moved to a new apartment in Sept. in the North End of Boston. Now school has started up again, and my attention has changed to my teaching. I hype you all enjoyed a fun and relaxing summer. Here are some updates from our classmates. Jessica Dannecker continues to work at a local bank in Wolfboro, NH. She is also taking graduate classes. Kate Lovell continues to work at Emerson College in Boston and is involved in a community theater production of Footloose, which was performed in Oct. JP Sanieski reports that he is looking for a new job after being laid off in April. He is working part time at Linden Hill School in maintenance. He is still running his T-shirt business, so if anyone needs t-shirts or anything, give him a shout at sanieski@ comcast.net. Other than looking for a job, he has been spending lots of time outside with his dog, Chunks, a 4-year-old chocolate lab. Jill Gragnano completed a surgical tech program in June. Just 12 days later, she left for Europe for 2 weeks with a traveling tour group. She reports that it was amazing and she had a great time. Kristin Anderson wrote to say she is still teaching and coaching. She purchased a condo in May in Concord, and enjoyed 2 weeks in Europe this summer.

Hey class of 2001! A huge thank you to everyone who sent in updates. If you haven't done so already, make sure to check out the new online alumni directory. You can update your e-mail addresses there as well as post messages. It's a whole new way of keeping in touch, and it makes it so easy to send in updates and keep in touch with fellow alumni. I hope that everyone enjoyed the summer and the wonderful weather. Things in ME are great as usual. I recently was promoted to education coordinator at Advocates For Children, and I was accepted to graduate school. I will be studying child development and early childhood education through a program offered by Wheelock College. I am pretty excited to be back in the classroom as a student, rather than teaching programs. I will continue to work while taking classes. Wish me luck! I saw many of our classmates during the summer months. A few of us attended the June 12 wedding of Heather Cole Thomayer in Bennington, VT. The wedding was a blast, we all had so much fun. Jennifer "Jen" Pesare, Sean Peschel, Zanna Campbell '00, Katie Sykes '00, Matt Folis '99 and Michelle Greim '04 and I were in attendance. Julie Tyrrell Olsen and Rebecca "Becky" Ferland McKinnon were a part of the wedding party. Heather and her husband, Jason, spent their honeymoon in Maui for 10 days, and enjoyed every moment of it! Amidst of all her wedding excitement, Heather also started a new job as a receptionist at a local animal hospital and is taking on the rewarding project of updating her house. Jen Pesare began classes in the fall at the U of RI. She is hoping to get accepted into their master's in speech language pathology program for the following fall. Good luck. Jen! Julie Tvrrell Olsen bought a house in South Portland, ME, with her husband. She is still teaching K-1 special education in Yarmouth. Julie has only 5 more classes and will be finished with her master's in special ed. Sean Peschel enjoyed his summer, taking many trips, including one to New Orleans. He is looking forward to another year at Somersworth High School in NH. Karrie Whitmore is currently running a nursery with 8 children between the ages of 6 weeks and 1 year. She says, "It is a very busy, stressful, and fun job. In the next month I will be leaving the center to go back to nannying two girls (10 months and 4 weeks old) All of the children I have been caring for have been keeping me very busy and wishful for my own children." Karrie and her boyfriend, Michael, are very happy and live together in a big apartment in Cumberland, ME. One of Karrie's roommates Nichole "Nikki" Lord writes, "Everything is great in MA! Just moved to Plymouth with Greg Hay '03 and we're doing awesome!" Nikki was accepted to UConn, ODU, and Nova Southeastern Grad School. She says, "My sights are on ODU, so we're off to sunny Virginia Beach in the fall of '05. I hope everyone is doing well. Congrats to everyone who has or will be getting married and/or having babies!" Another roommate of Nikki and Karrie, Allison "Ali" Wamboldt, still loves her job at Frozen Ropes, where she recently received a well-deserved promotion. She is still giving softball and baseball lessons, running summer camps and coaching her own 14U ASA softball team. Sara Hammond recently finished up her 1st year of law school. She still is employed at the same law firm in Allston, and is living in Beverly, MA. Megan Smith recently moved back to NY. She took the summer off and has done many mini vacations. She is thinking about heading back to school. Megan still is close with Amanda Rucci, Julie McFarland, Hillary Andrus and Jaime Babine. Amanda is going to be starting her 3rd year at the Mt. Sunapee. She is planning to pursue a master's in special education at Lesley University. Good luck, Amanda! Kimberly "Kim" Morrison recently came back to New England for a visit. She saw many of her roommates from senior year. Kim and her boyfriend, Jay, are still in CA, and Kim is working at the humane society as adoption counselor and loves it! Thom Neff is living in the Boston area. He's working with fellow alumni Ben Watts and Kevin Kerner on a regular basis, producing a number of short films with his new production company, FM Crew Pictures. To find out more about Thom's work, you can go to www.fmcrew.com, where they keep fans of their work updated and make quite a name for themselves, including some press on other major websites. Thom is always looking for fellow alums who live in the area to get involved if anyone is interested. You can contact him via the website. Another alum in the Boston area is Lisa Killam. She writes, "I moved out to San Diego from Aug. to Dec. '03 for a travel nursing assignment, which was a wonderful experience. In Jan. '04 I moved to Boston to start a master's program in nurse anesthesia at Northeastern U. I love living in Boston and being close to my family and friends." Tracey Guarda Perkins writes, "Sad but true, I will be leaving the Colby-Sawyer College Admissions team. I have accepted a position within alumni relations and institutional advancement at the Derryfield School in Manchester, NH. The job change is a result of Keith and I moving to Exeter, NH. We have purchased a wonderful home and work space in conjunction with his family business." Taber Lightfoot, Tracey Guarda Perkins, Elizabeth "Beth" Ashley, and Lisa Killam got together for Amanda "Mandy" Eaton's bridal shower and bachelorette party in July.

They had a great time! Jennie Cocchiaro LaBranche enjoyed a summer trip home to visit her family and her new niece, of whom she will be godmother. While on her short trip to the States, she will be helping Kristin Ozana prepare for her wedding. Jennie has the honor of standing up as Kristin's matron of honor. Jennie will continue teaching kindergarten this fall. Michelle Opuszynski is also planning a wedding. Michelle writes, "My fiancé, Chris, and I bought a house in Salem, NH, last Dec. Our family is growing quickly, as our cat, Kipper, just got a little sister, a beautiful puppy named Jetta. We will be getting married on Oct. 9! I have been having so much fun planning our wedding. I finished up my master's at Lesley University with a degree in integrating technology into the curriculum. I have been teaching 2nd grade, but next year I'll be taking the plunge to 1st grade to start a 1-2 loop. I'm very excited about that! Katie Moynahan '02 actually covered my very good friend's maternity leave at my school. And she and I are on a softball team together that plays in Salem, NH. Katie and I had a great time having dinner with Katrina Caswell '02." Michelle says that she sees Jenn Caron-Small and Kat Fadrowski often. Another bride to be is Sarah Outten. Sarah writes. "Mitch Leet '02 and I are currently building a house together in Chesterfield, NH, and we should be moving in around Dec. of this year. We have set a date and are getting married July 2, '05 at Okemo. I am working for a great company in Stoddard, NH. called Carlisle Wide Plank Floors. Mitch still works for Leet & Associates." Congratulations, Sarah and Mitch! Danica Letarte is enjoying her time after resigning from her job of 3 years. She spends half of her time in MA and half in NH. Danica hangs out with Susanne Day, Grace Gravelle, and even bumped into Hillary Andrus once at an Uno's in MA. If anyone is still up in the NH area, she would love to hear from you at danica@ unfranchise.com. She writes, "Things are great, dating a great guy named Mark and expanding my business in NH and MA." Grace Gravelle reports big changes! At the end of June she moved to Woburn, MA, with

Cheryl Lecesse '02 and started working as a department manager at Crate and Barrel. She loves her new life, especially being even closer to Boston! Grace has fallen in love with power yoga. She attends classes twice a week. She spends the rest of her free time reading, swimming and visiting friends. Kate Nevins LeClair writes, "Paul and I have been happily married for almost a year, and are looking forward to our 1st anniversary. Our jobs our still the same, but I started graduate school at UNH this summer to get my master's." Megan "Meg" Costello is doing well. She is working as the marketing manager at Volkl Tennis. She lives with fellow CSC alumnae Zanna Campbell '00 and Brooke Morin in Sunapee. She writes, "I still stay in touch with a lot of CSC people. Abby Lefebvre and I are still best friends. Abby works at Fidelity in Manchester, NH. Life is good," Katrina Rvan is beginning her 2nd season at the RBC Center in Raleigh, NC. Melissa "Missy" Brown recently relocated to Cicero, NY. She will be teaching grade 8 language arts this year. Kelly O'Hara Johnson and her family recently moved to Albion, WA. Kelly and her husband are expecting their 2nd child due at the end of Oct. It's a girl this time! They are very excited! Congratulations on your new addition, Kelly! Wow! Those are all the updates that I have, how exciting! Please make sure to keep us posted of all the wonderful things that have been going on! And make sure to alamino is the latest film creation from the FM Crew, a group of young filmmakers based in the Boston area. Thom Neff '01, who is one of the group's founding members, explains, "It touches on the awkward moments of conversation between men and women, and involves not only a murder, but a philosophy-spouting cowboy." Thom and the two other members of the FM Crew, Kevin Kerner '01 and Ben Watts '02, met when they came to CSC. The three quickly became friends and film collaborators. Neff and Watts, who both live in Somerville, Mass., worked on their first film together in 2001. "Thom and I edited it on the college's equipment between 2 to 5 a.m., and showed it "guerrilla-style" the next night in a business classroom," said Watts. "After we got a great response from that, I was hooked. I knew I

Neff usually writes and directs, while each of the other Crew members acts. The creation of each film, he said, is a highly collaborative process. "When I write," he explains, "I tend to write for the Crew. I think of what I'd like to see [them] acting like, and I write with them in mind." Watts says, "Everyone helps out, be it holding the camera or unplugging the fridge to kill the background noise. Everyone is thinking about all aspects, and together we get it done." Kerner refers to the crew as his artistic family. "We are all like-minded individuals willing to see a character come to life and doing whatever it takes to bring that energy to the front," he said. "In short, we all take this very seriously." The FM Crew actually took root in 1993 when Neff was 14. He and two friends would often share fragments of stories they had written, one picking up the narrative where the other had left off. One day, when Neff's father brought home a video camera, they decided to act out one of the stories, and the rest is history, as they say. The group's name derives from a grocery store where Neff and his filmmaking friends worked around 1993. At the time, they were the "Food Mart Crew." But even after they left the grocery business, the name stuck.

After graduation Neff went to Los Angeles to pursue a film career. "I spent an entire year in Hollywood," he said, "mixing with the best and brightest, and I couldn't wait to get back to Boston to work with the FM Crew, who I consider better and brighter." The FM Crew recently screened Palamino at the Attention Deficit Film Festival in Allston, Mass. Neff said the "attempt at romantic comedy" got a great reaction from the crowd. "People actually laughed when they were supposed to, which is always good," he said. The group has also just finished shooting a 10-part series called Ware Street, named after the road in Somerville where Neff lives. Each threeminute installment is based on situations and Initially the FM Crew was more focused on comedy. Lately the scripts have become more serious, but comic moments still crop up now and then. In a nutshell, he said, the group's films are about "serious characters being placed in unserious situations."

The crew is now a group of seven, and they are producing more than ever. Each of the members, in addition to acting, assist in other departments—writing and performing music for the films, designing movie posters, or working on the crew's website. Kerner is also at work on some new scripts. He said he sticks to the FM Crew "style," but for him, music is the real driving force behind his writing. "I get an idea from a song and that's the spark," he said. "The subject depends entirely on the artist and song." Though for the most part the group has moved its operation to the Boston area, they still have strong ties to Colby-Sawyer. When he's not making movies with the crew, Kerner is brew master at the Flying Goose Brew Pub in New London. He said the restaurant has sometimes served as a set for FM Crew projects. Neff credits two Colby-Sawyer professors with strongly influencing the work he does now. "Having professors like Pat Anderson (film studies) and Don Coonley (video production) opened me up to directors like Woody Allen, Alfred Hitchcock, and Ingmar Bergman, and it made me want to turn the FM Crew into less of a comedy team and more of a group of filmmakers," he said. One sign of the group's decision to buckle down, according to Neff-"We went from using electrical tape for fake mustaches to actually going to a costume warehouse and purchasing real human hair mustaches."

check out the new alumni directory. Until next time, take care! I look forward to hearing from you all soon!

Hello class of 2002! I hope everyone had a relaxing and fun summer! I, Nicole "Nikki" Fowler, actually had June and July off from my job as an admissions counselor at SUNY Canton. It went by way too fast and now I'm back at work preparing for 9 weeks on the road. I'm still plugging away at my master's at St. Lawrence University. I'm only 4 classes away from being done! I was back at CSC this past spring for the dance show and graduation. It was amazing how many people from our class were there! It was nice to see everyone and to catch up. This summer I actually participated in a 4-mile road race with Stephanie Vickers. Stephanie continues to work at Home Healthcare, Hospice and Community Service in the development office on a part-time basis while she works on a 2nd bachelor's in Spanish at Keene State College. She anticipates studying abroad in the fall of '05 and finishing her degree in Jan. '06. Stef keeps busy with classes, visiting her family in ME and seeing friends, such as Chile Eng '00 in Boston. Speaking of busy, Karen Kotopoulis, who is still living in Watertown, MA, is working 3 jobs! Besides her main job as an exercise physiologist in the cardiopulmonary rehabilitation program at the Lifestyle Management Institute in Danvers, MA, she is a waitress at Bugaboo Creek, which gives her some extra spending money. She is also teaching aerobics classes at a local facility. Heather Billings continues to live in Watertown and work at the Perkins School. This past year was busy for Heather with working full-time and going to school full-time, however this year is going to be worse! Not only will Heather be working and taking classes, she also has 2 intense practicums to complete. Heather did get a chance to go on vacation this summer to visit Nick Braun in CO for a week. Andrea Chula is still working at Dartmouth with the kiddies. She and Eric Emery '04 are living together and enjoy playing golf and going on lots of adventures. Andrea is considering going back to school for physical therapy. Lucia Savage will be doing a practicum at Newmarket Jr/Sr High School with the guidance counselor for the 6th, 7th and 8th grades as part of her master's program at Antioch Graduate School. She is considering doing her concentration in substance abuse and addictions. Lucia is still living with Addie Goff and continues to work for the Exeter Hospital in surgical services. Katie Reeder has been promoted to child case manager for Sweetser and transferred to the Rockland, ME, office. She and her boyfriend, Ben, moved to a private boathouse right on the water in Thomaston, ME. Kirsty McCue has moved back to NH from NY and is currently a personal trainer and strength coach at a gym in her hometown of Wolfboro. She is working on her master's in exercise science and performance enhancement through the University of PA. Matt Haggerty is the campaign manager for US Congressman Charlie Bass and he's having a blast! He is currently living with Chuck Gaede, Jason Hood and Corey Felton in

The Engaged Couple. Mitchell Leet '02 and Sarah Outten '01 are planning a July 2005 wedding.

Martha's Vineyard Getaway. This summer a group of Colby-Sawyer alumni friends traveled to Martha's Vineyard to visit the Jesser sisters. Pictured (I to r) are Darren Cote '02, Leisa Jesser '01, Matt Haggerty '02, Hillary Cross '02, Ali Jesser '99, Susanna Jesser '02, Greg McGown '04, Ashley Bramwell '02 and Calen Paquette '02.

Sunapee. Next year he will be attending law school in Washington, DC. Good luck, Matt! Debra "Debbie" Panza is working on her school counseling degree at UNH and will be interning at Hopkinton High School. She continues to work part-time at NHHEAF in the Center for College Planning. Nate Bennett is a chef at Brenden Crocker's Wildhorse Café. He has been busy making music, camping, sailing and playing ultimate Frisbee. Ultimate Frisbee must be the newest thing because Jennifer "Jenny" Buck has been playing in a co-ed league in Philly. She continues to work at a design company and is doing some freelance work on the side. Brendan Carney is still working for And 1 and has been very busy with the Mix Tape Tour. Lisa Farina is busy working at her business, Apartment Aides, in Chicago. Katie Lynch, who has finally joined us back in the northeast after a year in FL, recently got a job as head athletic trainer at Danvers High School. Good luck with your new job, Katie! Erin Slavin continues to work at Verizon Avenue as a sales representative. This past spring she participated in a halfmarathon. Good for you, Erin! Randi Everett has entered her 2nd year teaching high school English at Worcester Central School in NY. She is also continuing work on her master's. Randi and I will be seeing plenty of each other this fall during my travel season! Erin Hardy is now working full-time at the gym and is helping them expand. She had a busy summer, playing softball and participating in triathlons.

Erin, Erin, Jenny, Randi, Katie and I had a chance to get together this past summer in Boston. It's always nice to see friends and be able to catch up. Matthew "Matt" Sweeney is still program manager for a community living program in Boston. He has been busy road tripping with many CSC alums, fishing, hiking and playing softball. Matt and Jacob Jarvela were even able to take in the last Phish concert. Katrina Caswell has been working for AvalonBay in Wilmington, MA, as of Feb. as a leasing consultant. Aidan "Addy" Danaher moved into an apartment in Mystic, CT, in March. For the past 2 years she has been working as a health and fitness specialist. Addy said that she is now certified to teach cardio kickboxing and that she has been busy playing beach volleyball, running road races and training for her 1st marathon. Good luck, Addy! Robert "Rob" Buckley continues his job as program coordinator of an outreach team at North Suffolk Mental Health. He is also manager of the company softball team that is headed towards the playoffs! Courtney Norris recently bought a house in the suburbs of Chicago and is working at a horse farm, riding and showing. She gets to travel to Europe twice a year to buy horses. She has also been busy helping plan her sister's wedding. Hilary Cogen still lives in Sunapee, and is enjoying beautiful Lake Sunapee. One highlight for her this summer was going to the Red Sox CSC alumni trip with fellow alumni Pat Kelly, Matt Sweeney, Adam Montcalm, Jacob Jarvela, Derek Flock, Rob Buckley, and David Houghton. She's also been meeting CSC alumni from all over in her travels. She met an older woman at her sister's graduation in Worcester, MA, and just recently a man while vacationing on the Cape. "There are CSC people everywhere!" Hilary has been volunteering time at local nursing homes and tap dancing for their entertainment programs. In the fall she's excited to be auditioning for the role of Annelle in Charles Massey's performance of Steel Magnolias at the Newport Opera House. Bradley "Brad" Bennett is now all the way across the country in Seattle, WA, and is loving every minute of it! He is the special buying program assistant for REI. Bob Behn went out for a visit and they spent a lot of time bike riding around the area and up into Canada. Julie Sheehan finished her master's at Northeastern and is now working as an exercise physiologist in the cardiology unit at the Children's Hospital in Boston. Tasha Beaudin is working on her master's in physical therapy in ME. Beth Burnham has been very busy in ME. She was a crisis stabilization counselor at Sweetser, as well as a sales associate for The North Face and coaching girl's soccer and softball at Freeport High School. Currently, she is living in Concord, MA, looking for a temporary job before she leaves for Peace Corp duty. Tyler Blake has been promoted to text manager at Saint Anselm College bookstore. He is living in Webster, NH, and is enjoying life to the fullest and hangs out with his former roommate, Matt Timmons. Jennifer "Jen" Foss is living with Jess Kelleher '03 in an Ashland townhouse apartment. She continues to work for Mulberry Child Care Center, but is looking for jobs in public schools. Vicki Burgess-Fahey and her husband are currently in the planning stage of building a house. She is still working for CRREL CDC in Hanover and is a Pampered Chef Consultant on the side. Vicki often sees Amy Birner Plourde, Kelly Raiano '03, Kevin Maccioli and Kelsey Barberi LaPerle. Speaking of Kelsey, she and her husband are expecting a new addition to their family in March '05! Congratulations, Kelsey! She is in her 3rd year working as a classroom teacher for Headstart. Eleanor "Ellie" Scuccimarra has spent the past 2 years as an assistant account executive at PMK/HBH, an entertainment public relations firm in Manhattan that represents actors, musicians and movies. She is living in Tarrytown, NY, with Mike Marquis '00. She hopes that all is well with everyone from the class of 2002!

Christine Symmes is still working for FitCorp at the Emerson College site in Boston as an exercise physiologist and an assistant athletic trainer. She's also putting the finishing touches on her wedding plans—she is getting married Sept. 4! And last, but not least, Cheryl Lecesse is living with Grace Gravelle '01 in Woburn, MA, where they are having lots of fun. Christine and Cheryl are training for the Baystate Marathon in Lowell, MA, in Oct., with hopes of qualifying for the Boston Marathon. Cheryl is still working for CNC as the reporter for the Billerica Minuteman. It was so good to hear from everyone! So many exciting things are going on in people's lives—graduate school, new jobs, weddings, houses and even babies! It also seems that we have quite the athletic class with so many people doing road races, marathons and triathlons. Make sure to keep in touch with each other as well as Cheryl and me to let us know what you are up to. Best of luck to everyone in 2005!

Hey everyone! Hope you all had an eventful summer and those of you in Boston survived the inconveniences of the DNC in July. The holidays are quickly approaching and there seems to be lots of news from everyone. I,

Kristen Horn, recently purchased a condo in Tewksbury, MA, with my boyfriend, and I am working as a property claims adjuster at Safety Insurance in Boston. I actually live right across from Mike Spinney '01 and Kristen Giannino Spinney '02 — small world! Timmy Ingraham just got into graduate school for business management at Plymouth State University and is currently looking for a job in the area so he can work his way through school. Becca Harned had a "summer of languages," teaching international business English for multinational corporations, studying French, and perfecting her Spanish. She's been living and working in Costa Rica since graduation. She worked a year in Sustainable Development in Costa Rica and Nicaragua, while doing environmental economics research. In Aug., Becca also began a master's program at the United Nations University for Peace in San Jose, Costa Rica, On a different note. Chris Russell is currently living in Wells, ME. and working as a police officer in Kennebunk. Chris is training to be a bike cop, like Pacific Blue, that old TV show...and that's the truth and no joking! When he has time, he's also an instructor at a local vocational school for individuals seeking employment in entry-level healthcare positions. And when he has time from his busy lifestyle, Chris tries to visit Jazmine Greenlaw, Scott Bailey and Sarah Welch, all of whom are living in the Portland area. If anyone is in the Wells/Kennebunk area, Chris says that you're more than welcome to stop by! Scott Bailey and Sarah Welch are living together in Portland, ME, and are both in the process of finding their dream jobs. No, Scott is not working at Dunkin Donuts. Corey Felton is living in Sunapee with former graduates Jason Hood, Chuck Gaede and Matt Hagerty. Corey is currently working for a tree company in the area as their only climber, and will head back to Jackson Hole, WY, for his 2nd winter in a row. Nick Salter and Ben Crowell are living at Ben's house, doing what Huey Lewis wrote a song about...working for a living. They are also enjoying their newest purchase: a 1966 Dodge Dart with a nice set of dice hanging from the rear view mirror, and lots of miles cruisin' the streets of New London. Tim Ingraham, Nick Salter, and Ben Crowell all enjoyed their summer hanging out in Sunapee at Corev. Chuck. Jason and Matt's house, having cannon ball contests in their new 14 foot above ground swimming pool, which they recently purchased at Wal-Mart! Micah Lashar is living in Stowe, VT, keeping himself busy for the summer before he heads back to coaching. Jon Dufort accepted a job in Boston, working for a telecommunications company, and began in early Aug. Consequently, his father took a job in Columbus, OH, so his family will be moving as well. Matt Wheel bought his very 1st condo at the beginning of July, and has been working at IDX System Corp. (a medical software company) as an e-commerce analyst for the past year. He continues to play soccer in a summer league and hang out with friends from CSC on the weekends. Lida Vanasse is currently working at Mass Mutual and getting her MBA part time. She will be doing some traveling in the Southern Caribbean this fall as well. Natasha Deane and Kayde Czupryna are living in Stoughton, MA. Tasha is working at MSPCC (the Mass Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children). She is also getting married on June 17, '06. Kayde, Lisa Noyes, and Courtney Stevens '04 are all members of her wedding party. Tasha is in the process of raising $1,500 for the MS Challenge Walk, which takes place in Cape Cod. Michelle Labrie and Matt Strand recently moved from Boston to Grafton, MA, and are both working in Northborough. Michelle is working g at the VCA Northborough Animal Hospital. Matt is working at Priority Funding, LLC in operations. They have set a wedding date for May 6,'06. Congratulations! The Northborough duo sees Lida Vanasse and Brian Schrader on a regular basis, and hears from Mark Miller frequently. Mark and Lindsay Wright '04 are living in a new house in St. Louis, MO. Ben Rozak has been very busy growing his practice at American Express Financial Advisors. He works a ton of hours, but hopes it will pay off in the long run. Shelby Curran checked in with the Alumni Office this summer, and is currently living in Jackson Hole, WY, as a residential counselor at a school for emotionally handicapped young adults, ranging from the age of 9-21. Sarah Cailler, Kate O'Connor, and Margaret Lambert are roommates in Boston, and hang out with their girl crew of Lauren Miller (who also lives in Boston), Wendy Theall and Megan Andersen. Elizabeth Park is enjoying her new job teaching 2nd grade in Hampton, NH. There are 24 children in her class, which is a lot for a 1st grade teacher, but she reports that she is having fun. Thanks to everyone who contributed to the news this time around, and many thanks to Tim Ingraham, who helped put this whole thing together! Please e-mail me or send me a quick note and pictures as events come up for the next Alumni Magazine. Have a great holiday season!

Hi everyone! I hope all is well with everybody since we graduated in May! It's hard to believe we weren't back on campus in the fall, though it seems like most of you are keeping busy! Stephney Anderson writes that she worked at a camp as a three's teacher and babysitting this summer, all while planning her May 29 wedding. In the fall she began a new job at a small, independent school called Pear Tree Point School. She will also begin working toward her master's degree at Fairfield U. Stephanie "Steph" Hicks is still living in Littleton, NH. In the fall she began coaching jv field hockey at White Mountains Regional High School in Whitefield, NH. Currently Steph is working at the Mountain View Grand Resort and Spa in Whitefield as a concierge. She has also recently started work on their website, which needs a lot of improvement, according to Steph! In the fall Steph also plans to take some online courses through Plymouth State U to work towards her NH educator's certificate. Good luck, Steph! Tia Holt is entering the graduate program at Simmons School of Social Work for her master's degree. Kelli Converse has taken a job in same day surgery as a nurse at Dartmouth Hitchcock Medical Center. For the summer she had a part time job at DMHC while she studied for her boards. She has also recently moved in with Elizabeth "Liz" Joseph '03 and Michele Favre '03 in Sunapee, NH. Courtney Huff writes that she will be working at the Hopkinton Independent School in the fall. She says that it is a small private school, with an atmosphere that she loves. She is going to be the head teacher in a combined 1st/2nd grade classroom. Bethany Drapeau is currently working in vascular surgical research at Dartmouth-Hitchcock. She is taking some time off before she plans to return to school. James "Jim" Blundon is continuing his education at the University of New Haven in CT, where he will be going for a bachelor's degree in fire protection engineering. As for me, Mary Lougee, I moved to North Sutton, NH, after graduation and lived with my roommate Jonathon "Jon" Evans for the past couple of months. I worked as a waitress for the summer and in the fall I moved to Sunapee and began a position as a one-on-one teacher's aid at Kearsarge Middle School. I have been busy traveling and visiting people. A while back I went to dinner with Sarah Southworth and then we went on a little shopping spree, which was fun but expensive. I have also seen Charles "Chuck" Mayer '06, Jessica "Jess" Murray, Margaret "Maggie" Warner, Adam Therrien, Kristina "Tina" Burnell, Courtney Stevens, Michael "Mike" Ricker, Michael "Mike" Sullivan, Kimberly "Kim" O'Connell, Jonathan "Jon" DeYoung, Kelly-Ann Bateman '05, Natasha "Tasha" Deane and Kayde Czupryna'03 at various people's graduation parties and gatherings. Other than that, everything else is basically the same. Hello, classmates. Thanks to those of you who got in touch with me with your update for the Magazine. I, Eric Emery, am currently perfecting my mullet while working construction due to a depressing job market in the Upper Valley, I'm living with Andrea Chula '02 in Enfield, NH. Katie Meadows is working for Polo Ralph Lauren, and planned to be married in Sept. Erin Sawler spent time in the Adirondacks and hopes to teach in Quincy and then be a ski instructor at Sunday River. Be sure to keep an eye out for her if you go. Ethan Nosel is working at the Nantucket Yacht Club. Kate Rocheford is an office assistant at Country Houses Real estate in New London, living with Matt Ferguson and chilling with all sorts of post grads. Jessica Murray is a waitress and hostess in her hometown. Courtney Stevens is working at the Oxford Public School as a TA. She spent 40 days backpacking in the UK and Ireland over the summer. Mary Ann Prescott moved to Orlando with Nick Jewett and is looking for a job in local school system. Sarah McGinnis is working in an art gallery and still doing some freelance graphic design work. Kate Prescott has passed her athletic training certification and is going to grad school in FL. Keep sending anything that you would like included in the magazine, including pictures! Hope all is well!
