Building Accessibility Report

Colby-Sawyer College is not unlike other college campuses of our age. ADA accessibility is a concern in many of our buildings. While certainly any new construction or major renovation projects include the components necessary for accessibility, it simply is not possible to make all areas of the campus accessible at once. Our individual approach to this issue has been successful within our financial limits

Most Accessible Facilities

Each of these buildings houses an elevator and includes physical accommodations for physical disabilities such as bathrooms, door widths and alarm systems. There are improvements that would need to be made even in these buildings to make them completely accessible. For example, there are no doors on campus that are equipped with automatic door openers.

- Curtis L. Ivey Science Center
- Dan and Kathleen Hogan Sports Center
- Danforth Hall
- Lawson Hall
- Susan Colgate Cleveland Library Learning Center

Partially Accessible Facilities

These buildings may include features like an elevator. However, significant impediments remain in each building that preclude access to all areas of the facility. In some cases there may be access to each floor, but in order to go from one level to another, one must go outside the building.

- Academic Development Center (James House)
- Colby Homestead
- Colgate Hall
- Facilities Building
- Lethbridge Lodge
- Rooke Hall
- Sawyer Fine Arts Center
- Ware Campus Center

Inaccessible Facilities

To date, no improvements have been made to outfit these buildings to accommodate individuals with a physical disability. In all instances, at the very least, navigation of steps is required to enter the building.
