FIRST PITCH: The season picks up for the Colby-Sawyer as the Chargers have five games on the schedule in the next seven days. Colby-Sawyer steps out of Commonwealth Coast Conference play on Friday, heading to Castleton, Vt., for a single game with Castleton State before resuming league play with a pair of home double headers over the weekend. Saturday finds the Chargers hosting Curry College, while Sunday has Colby-Sawyer entertaining Anna Maria. Both weekend double headers begin at 12 p.m. on Kelsey Field in New London. The Chargers were slated to have a contest at Worcester State on Wednesday, a game that was cancelled due to an early-April snowstorm.
LAST WEEK: Behind some strong starting pitching, Colby-Sawyer went 3-1 last week in four Commonwealth Coast Conference games. Colby-Sawyer split with Gordon on Saturday, winning the first game, 7-6, behind 4.1 strong innings from Justin Sakovitz (Stoneham, Mass./Stoneham). Chris Baker (Essex Junction, VT) was the hard-luck loser in game two, allowing just three hits but coming out on the short end of a 2-0 loss. Sunday, Colby-Sawyer swept Wentworth as Sean Gildea (Haverhill, Mass./St. John’s Prep) and Kris Ramsay (Gardiner, Maine/Gardiner Area) each picked up complete-game victories. Gildea allowed just two runs on five hits while striking out nine, while Ramsay threw a two-hit gem in picking up a 7-0 victory.

THE MATCHUPS: Colby-Sawyer holds series leads against three of this week’s four opponents, leading Castleton State, Curry and Anna Maria. The Chargers are 4-2 all-time against Castleton State and hold a slight 8-7 edge against Curry. Against Anna Maria, Colby-Sawyer is 12-4 all-time, having won the last three games.

HEAD COACH JIM BROUGHTON: Jim Broughton has served as head coach of the Colby-Sawyer baseball program since its inception, having led the Chargers to a pair of Commonwealth Coast Conference championships. Under his guidance, the Chargers are 165-202-1 all-time with a 76-59 mark in conference play. Broughton, the CCC Coach of the Year in 1998 and 1999, led the Chargers to the quarterfinals of the Eastern College Athletic Conference Division III New England tournament in 1999.

GETTING OFFENSIVE: While it is still early in the season, the Chargers have had much better success at the plate this season than they did a year ago. As a team, Colby-Sawyer is batting .301, up from the .270 average the Chargers posted a year ago. The Chargers have also shown increased power, hitting three home runs in Florida and scoring 105 runs through the first 18 games of the season. Last season’s squad combined for just seven long balls, with three coming from Kevin Fleurie alone, while scoring just 170 runs in 34 games. Currently, six different players with at least 20 at-bats are batting better than .300, led by Tom White (Lisbon, N.H./Lisbon Regional), who is batting .435 on the season.

WE’RE GOING STREAKING: Freshman Tom White had his team season-best hitting streak of 12 games snapped on March 26 in the first game of a doubleheader against Salve Regina. White has hit safely in 15 of the team’s 18 games this season. While White has the season’s longest hitting streak, senior Kevin Fleurie (St. Johnsbury, Vt./St. Johnsbury Academy) had a 13-game hitting streak that included his in the last 11 games of last season. Kris Ramsay currently has the team’s longest hitting streak at six games.

IRON MEN: Just three players have started all 18 games to date, as Kevin Fleurie, Tom White and Kris Ramsay have been on Jim Broughton’s lineup card in each contest. Ramsay started four times on the mound with White earning one starting appearance on the mound. Going back to last season, Ramsay has played in 36 consecutive games for the Chargers, while Fleurie has played in 25 straight games.

IT’S YOUR HONOR, YOUR HONOR: After throwing a two-hit shutout over Wentworth on Sunday, Kris Ramsay was named the Commonwealth Coast Conference’s co-Pitcher of the Week on Monday for the second time this season. Ramsay previously earned the honor following the Florida trip, when he allowed just 14 hits and five walks in 16.0 innings, striking out 12 and allowing just four runs.

LEAGUE LEADERS: Tom White leads the Commonwealth Coast Conference in hitting with his .435 average. White has 27 hits on the year, with nine multi-hit games. He also leads the league in doubles with eight and is fifth with 11 stolen bases. Meanwhile, Kris Ramsay ranks second in the league with his four wins, while Sean Gildea is fifth with 24 strikeouts.

SAVING THE DAY: Sean Gildea worked the final two-thirds of an inning in the first game against Daniel Webster on March 15, giving the junior the third save of his career. That third save makes Gildea the leader in career saves in Colby-Sawyer history. Four other players have picked up two saves over the course of their career at Colby-Sawyer College.

LARCENY ON THE BASEPATHS: The Chargers have been aggressive on the basepaths this season, stealing 32 bases, or almost two per game. Still, the Chargers have also been caught stealing at a high rate, being successful in 32 of 47 opportunities. Tom White leads the team in steals, going a perfect 11-for-11 this season. Kevin Fleurie has the second highest steal count with seven stolen bases, but he has also been caught five times. Last year’s team stole 70 bases in 88 attempts for an 80 percent success rate.

Commonwealth Coast Conference Standings

As of April 4, 2006
YOUTH MOVEMENT: Kevin Fleurie is the lone senior on this year's team, a team that has just 22 players. Of those 22 players, seven are sophomores and eight are freshmen, giving the Chargers a very solid base for future seasons.

THE LONG ROAD HOME: Sunday's double header against Wentworth opened Kelsey Field for play in 2006. Prior to Sunday's contests, the Chargers had played their first 16 games away from New London, including 10 in Florida during Spring Break.

UP NEXT: The Chargers continue with another busy week next week, playing three single nine-inning contests and one doubleheader. The Chargers travel to Daniel Webster College on April 11 before hosting New England College the following day. On Friday, April 14, the Chargers battle Keene State and wrap up the week on Saturday with a double header against Endicott on Kelsey Field.
